Vote of House Due Next Week On School Bill

Construction Measure Voted Out of Rules Committee

WASHINGTON (AP)—The way was open today for the House to vote, probably next week, on a four-year federal aid school construction program amounting to $1,600,000,000.

The legislation cleared the House Rules Committee yesterday. It had been bottled up there for several months because of the effect it might have on public school segregation.

Southerners on the committee have opposed the bill for one reason: Rep. Powell (D-NY) has said he will propose an amendment on the House floor that would forbid federal grants to schools which maintain segregation.

Such an amendment would be bound to touch off a major fight. If the amendment were approved and the bill got to the Senate, his chances would be slim in the face of a southern filibuster.

There has been a feeling in recent weeks among House leaders, however, that sentiment for the Powell amendment has cooled. With this in mind, hope was expressed that a majority of members would favor sidetracking such an amendment in order to get the measure through.

The legislation calls for federal grants for school construction at the rate of 400 million dollars a year for four years. In addition, a revolving fund of not more than 750 million dollars would set up to buy local school bonds if these couldn't be disposed of in the market at reasonable interest rates.

The measure is a Democratic substitute for proposals by President Eisenhower. He suggested federal grants at the rate of 250 million dollars a year for five years.

Americans bought 4,000 automobiles in 1950 and seven million in 1955.
