Sorority Buys Sprague Home

The Nu Delta chapter of Chi Omega sorority has acquired the Charles A. Sprague home at 425 North 14th, it was announced Friday.

The two-story brick house will be used as a sorority house. Sprague, publisher of the Oregon Statesman and former governor of Oregon, said he would either buy another home or move to an apartment.

The deal involved more than $50,000, it was reported.

The sorority's present house at 345 North 17th, will be purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Walter P. Weathers of the Wiltsey Music House.

The sorority purchased the house about eight years ago.

Realtors involved in the selling of the Sprague home included Ed Lukinbeil real estate and Abrams and Skinner.

PGE Announces Six Promotions

The board of directors of Portland General Electric company named three new vice presidents Friday at a special meeting in Portland, according to an announcement by PGE chairman Thomas W. Delzell and President Frank Warren Jr.

The new officers, all from Portland are Howard Arnett, Hilbert S. Johnson and Arthur J. Porter.

Others who received promotions at the meeting included Carroll W. Brissenden, new general sales manager; Wallace E. Gordon, new manager of industrial relations; and E. W. Bredemeier, who is now general manager of customer service division.

Salem Studio Receives Award

Jesten-Miller studio was informed Friday it had won a first place ribbon, a second place ribbon and an honorable mention at the exhibit held in connection with the Western States Professional Photographers convention in San Jose, earlier this month.

The blue ribbon and the honorable mention were both in the industrial division and both were of the Ketchikan pulp mill. The red ribbon was in the theatrical division and was a ballet photo of Diana Hrubetz, Salem. The photographer for all of the photos was A. L. Thompson.

Baldock Sought Best Way

Veteran Engineer One of Nation's Leaders

By PAUL HARVEY III
Capital Journal Writer

R. H. "Sam" Baldock, retiring from the state highway department after 24 years as chief highway engineer and almost 41 years in the department, can finally see that one of his chief aims is becoming a fact.

Baldock has long wanted a four-lane free-way spanning Oregon from the Washington border to the California border, and now some of the highway has been completed and the rest is being planned or worked on.

His dream of the highway has already been partly realized with the new Portland-Salem expressway, said to be one of the finest roads in America, which is receiving its finishing touches.

Many Accomplishments

Among his other accomplishments is the modern Columbia River highway, a road which involved the building of a highway in many places where the road had to be built where there was no land.

During his years as chief engineer the five coastal bridges were built. The five beautiful bridges are located over coastal streams on Route 101.

It is said that Baldock's ambition has been to build highways according to "the greatest good for the greatest number at the lowest cost."

Through the years Oregon has advanced so rapidly in highway progress that today the state is recognized to have one of the best highway systems in the west.

He helped build this highway system by taking looks at other progressive highway systems and by trying new ways of construction.

Perfects Macadam Roadway

While a resident engineer in Eastern Oregon in 1928 he perfected a mass-production, low-cost way of macadam-paving gravel roads, a type of pavement used all over the world today.

In 1936 he developed the design for building highways based on the speed the engineer think is right. This has been followed on the national level.

Baldock also gave the state the weight-mile tax theory for trucks which was adopted by the state legislature in 1947.

He came to Oregon in 1913 from Colorado and two years later he went to work for the state highway department. Among his first jobs was working on the Three Rivers highway between Valley Junction and Hebo.

Chief Engineer in 1932

He worked up until he was made chief highway engineer in 1932. In 1948 he served as president of the American Association of State Highway Officials.

Baldock received the George S. Bartlett award in 1950 for contribution to highway progress. This is the highest award a highway engineer can receive, and two years ago he was named Engineer of the Year by the Professional Engineers of Oregon.

He has been the author of many papers and is often called on to advise by other states and countries.

Friends say that he never commits himself to an idea until he's sure, but when committed, he is hard to be convinced he's wrong.

When he joined the department in 1915 there were only 50 employees, but today the department employs more than 3,000. Expenditures have gone up about 100 times since then.

New Park for Legion's Team

Joe DeFilippi, business manager of Capital Post No. 9 American Legion junior baseball team, hopes to get the new Legion base ball park built as soon as possible.

The Legion has a tract of land out beyond right field at Water's Park, and Clarence Janze, the father of a long line of Legion players, has said he will plow and grade the field.

Other donors are needed now to give grass seed, top soil, lumber, fill dirt and netting.

The Legion team has been without a park at Water's Park is not available all of the time, and the junior baseball program crowded out the Legion team.

Plane Missing On K.F. Flight

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A plane with two persons was reported missing Saturday in a flight from Sacramento to Klamath Falls, Ore.

The pilot was David S. Salerno, Hawthorne, Calif.

A passenger listed as Jackie West was aboard.

The Civil Air Patrol set up a search base at Red Bluff and said a dozen planes would join the hunt.

The CAP said Salerno left Sacramento at 4 p.m. PDT Friday, in a BT13 trainer plane with red wings and a white fuselage.

Surplus Aid Plan Praised

Gov. Elmo Smith was advised Friday that Oregon's plan for making surplus governmental property immediately available to the State Civil Defense agency in case of an emergency or national disaster has been praised by federal officials.

The agreement on surplus property was worked out by the state department of finance and administration with the civil defense officials and was sent to the Western Regional offices of the department of health, education and welfare.

The governor was informed the agreement was so well prepared that it has been used as a model for all western states. It makes it legally possible for the surplus property section of the state department of finance and administration to provide surplus property for civil defense emergencies.

PUC Approves Log Haul Change

Log hauling on state highways will be allowed from 4 a.m. to 2 p.m. Mondays through Fridays, Public Utilities Commissioner Charles H. Helzell announced Friday.

The hours on Saturdays will be from 4 a. m. to noon. No hauling is allowed on Sundays and holidays.

Helzell's order permits hauling to begin four hours earlier than in the past.

Adjournment by Next Week Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas told his colleagues Saturday that Congress seems certain to adjourn its 1956 session next week.

"How many days next week, I don't know," Johnson said in a floor-statement. "It depends largely on the House."

He told newsmen earlier that adjournment "is very imminent."

Party Planned In Hospital for Paralyzed Boy

MEDFORD (AP) — Gary Hankins Sunday will celebrate his 11th birthday in a hospital here where he has been a patient since last Feb. 27.

It is a surprise party given by the hospital staff.

Gary was injured when he and his three young brothers were playing in the attic of their home at Bonanza. One of the youngsters got a .22 caliber rifle and fired it, wounding Gary in the chest.

The bullet went through and chipped his spinal column, paralyzing him.

The paralysis has gradually yielded to treatment and now he can sit up in a wheelchair and is regaining the use of his left hand.

Children Throng New Playground Equipment

Children Throng New Playground Equipment

The end of a year-long playground equipping project by the Salem Soroptomists club came Friday at Royal street today when Mrs. Teresa Hanks, past president of the Soroptomists, presented a check for $650 to Salem Mayor Robert White. Several city officials and Soroptomists, plus dozens of kids, were on hand to try out the new equipment, which included monkey bars, swings, merry-go-round, slide and picnic tables. Hickok Fills College Post

Guy N. Hickok of Salem, retired banker, is now business manager in the offices of Linfield research institute on the Linfield College campus at McMinnville.

Hickok is also treasurer and assistant secretary of the Linfield board of trustees.

Hickok went to the institute to assist during its organization period last winter, and his work grew into a full-time job.

Before his retirement from the banking business about three years ago Hickok was for 16 years a vice president of the First National Bank of Portland and manager of the Salem branch. He has been a state bank examiner and assistant state superintendent of banks.

Mr. and Mrs. Hickok, both of whom attended Linfield in their student days, live on a farm near Salem.

Everet Hailey Dies Saturday

Everet Hailey, late resident of Waller street, Salem, died Saturday morning at a local hospital following a short illness.

Hailey, who was employed at The Temple until his illness, was born at Ava, Mo., June 19, 1893. He came to Oregon and Salem from North Dakota about 15 years ago. Hailey was a veteran of World War I.

Surviving are five brothers, Fred Hailey, Mt. Vernon, Mo.; Frank Hailey, Washburn, N.D.; Earl Hailey, Tacoma, Wash.; John Hailey, Burlington, Wash.; and Joseph Hailey, Salem; and three sisters, Mrs. Mary Bairey and Mrs. Ruby Endres, Salem, and Mrs. Chloe McBride, Silverton.

An announcement of funeral services will be made later by the Howell-Edwards chapel.

Coast Area

he will recommend closure if there is no letup by Sunday.

Eastern Washington thunderstorms gave some relief to parched areas but temperatures were recorded still in the 90s at Ephrata, Ellensburg and Spokane.

A freak storm cut a swath through rich wheat country around Ritzville and Pullman, leaving water nearly an inch deep on roads in the area, but there were no reports of grain damage.

The storm also knocked power lines out in the vicinity of Moscow, Idaho, and caused cancellation of a Northwest League baseball game at Spokane.

Vandals Continue Spree; Car Top, Garden Hose Cut

Vandals are continuing their depredations in Salem.

Gary Burdick, 1315 South High, informed police that the top of his convertible car was slashed Friday night while the car was parked in front of his home.

On the previous night a garden hose was cut in two at the P. T. Bouffleur home at 348 Leslie and a shrub cut off at the ground, and at the S. T. Stone home across the street a large blooming yucca plant was beaten to pieces.

In addition to the movie contract, she won a three-month personal appearance contract with a bathing suit manufacturer at $250 a week, a convertible coupe, a white fox stole and several lesser prizes.

CD Alert

Led by Secretary of Defense Wilson, some 1,600 civilian and military officials and workers made their way through heavy rain to the department's temporary command post several hundred miles from the main press headquarters.

The relocated defense nerve center was a bit slow getting organized, but by nightfall things had begun to hum.

Some 200,000 military dependents and others were evacuated from 30 Strategic Air Command bases. The Army practiced troop movements inside—but not outside—the United States.

The Navy moved some ships out of simulated danger zones into safer waters off both coasts. The Air Force honed up on its relocation assignment by shifting key government personnel out of Washington with "Flying Banana" helicopters, and air transports.

Phase No. 1 of Operation Alert started at 11 a.m. EDT yesterday. It is scheduled to run for 36 hours, through 11 p.m. today. Its purpose is to determine what could be done on the local level to meet a mock run of 125 nuclear bombs on cities, military installations, atomic energy plants and other targets.

Later phases, ending next Wednesday, will test Civil Defense problems at state, regional and federal levels.

Four Corners Water District Vote Saturday

Residents of the Four Corners are deciding Saturday on the formation of an East Salem Water district. The vote is being held on the formation of a district from 8 a.m. until 8 p.m. at the community hall in the 3800 block of LaBranche Ave.

Five commissioners will also be chosen during the election. There are 19 candidates for the positions. They are John Lobdell, John S. Moore, P. A. Messford, Ted H. Parks, Leroy Mooers, Emery G. Hendrickson, Jr., Forest Cooper, Kenneth Strawn, Richard E. Gallagher and William G. Zenger.

The district, if approved, will include 1,200 acres and the estimated cost of wells and the water system is $400,000. Both drinking water and a fire control system will be installed.

Weather Back In the Groove

Salem and the valley were back in the groove of ideal summer weather Saturday, sunny and clear, but not excessively warm. The day's high was expected to be around 85 degrees—contrasting with the 95 of Friday, 106 for the preceding day and 104 on Wednesday.

Only disturbing element is the extreme dryness that keeps fire danger a serious menace. And the extreme dry spell apparently is to continue for a while.

Fair weather is forecast through Sunday night, early morning cloudiness to prevail as it did Saturday, but the midday to be sunny. Maximum for Sunday also is due to be around 85.

Most interior points in Oregon reported maximums in the high 80s and 90s, Friday, except Pendleton where the mercury shot up to 102.

Higher humidity headings and slightly cooler temperatures were listed for the northwestern valleys, but throughout the timbered areas high fire danger continues except near the coast.

Cloudy nights and mornings are predicted for the beach areas over the weekend, the afternoons to be sunny.

Norblad Advises Valley Folk Suggest Names for Air Base

Rep. Walter Norblad thinks the people of this part of the Willamette Valley should decide on an appropriate name for the air base soon to be built in Marion County and have the name submitted to the Air Force for its judgment.

Rep. Norblad agrees with local sentiment that the base will be too far from Portland to carry the name "Greater Portland Air Base." He has written Elton H. Thompson of Salem, chairman of a committee of valley town representatives formed to work with the Air Force on matters that may arise in connection with the base, suggesting that the committee work on an appropriate name.

"It appears to me," writes Norblad, "that probably one of the first things that should be done would be to recommend to the Air Force a local, descriptive name for the base. Currently I notice in documents coming across my desk regarding it that some speak of it as the 'French Prairie site,' some mention it as 'St. Paul,' others 'near Woodburn,' and by far the greatest number of Air Force documents call it the 'Greater Portland Air Base.'

"I personally feel that at the distance this is located from Portland that it should hardly carry the latter name. While it is not my purpose to suggest a name for it, it seems to me that something such as the 'Woodburn Air Base,' 'Woodburn - Newberg Air Base,' 'Woodburn - Newberg Air Base,' or some other name would be much more appropriate.

"If your group does decide to select a new name for it at a future meeting, I should be very glad to transmit the request to the Air Force here in Washington."

Information has reached local interested persons that military bases are never named for distinguished persons who are living.

Police Arrest Drag Racers

Two drag racers were arrested by city police late Friday night and booked at headquarters on charges of reckless driving.

Arrested were Roy Walter Zimerick of Willamina and Robert Ira Belleisle, 170 East Vista. Zimerick posted bail and Belleisle was cited to appear in court July 25.

Police reported that the two were racing their cars along Fairgrounds Road from Myrtle Avenue, and that after turning into North Summer were clocked at over 50 miles an hour.

State Joins Plane Search

Oregon's department of aeronautics Saturday morning joined in the search for a small plane missing between Klamath Falls and Sacramento.

The plane, a red and white PT-13 with the numbers of N-50154, was on a visual route flight from Sacramento to Red Bluff to Klamath Falls, leaving Sacramento at 4 p.m. Friday. Only the pilot's last name, which was Salerno, was available. He had a passenger, but the department was not given his name.

Conducting the Oregon part of the search is the Klamath Air search and rescue unit, which started operations about 9:30 a.m. Saturday.

Officers Seeking Youth Who Saw Silverton Entry

The Marion County sheriff's office is trying to find a youth who is believed to have witnessed a burglary in Woodburn last Tuesday night.

The lumber yard of the Livelys Lumber Company and the showroom of the Bernard Chevrolet Company were both broken into. Police were notified by two men, who said they had been told about it by a youth who had been seen a man in the office of the lumber company.

Police, in their haste to get to the scene, didn't get the names of the two men, and the two men didn't know the boy who had informed them.

Airline Worker Wins Plaque

The AAA Pedestrian Protection plaque awarded to Oregon for second place in the 1955 National Pedestrian Protection contest will be given to Gov. Elmo Smith at a meeting of the Salem Rotary Club Wednesday.

The presentation will be made in the Marion hotel. Following the presentation, Gov. Smith will talk on the new federal-aid highway program.

The plaque will be presented by Douglas McKay, director of the motor association for the Salem district.

Oregon showed a reduction in both pedestrian deaths and injuries. There were 67 deaths in 1955 compared with 78 in 1954 and 79 in 1953. This gives Oregon a death rate for pedestrians of 4.0 per 100,000, well below the average.

Among the guests of honor at the meeting will be Earl Newbery, sec. of state; Warne Nunn, motor vehicle administrator; Gen. H. G. Matson, chief of the state police; and James Banks, assistant director of the Oregon traffic safety division.

Daughter of Salem Couple Is Stewardess

Janet Marie Thurlwell, daughter of the Harvey Thurlwells, 945 Ratcliffe Dr., has received her silver wings and is serving as a United Air Lines stewardess, UAL reports.

Miss Thurlwell is serving on UAL Mainliners flying in and out of Newark, N.J. She is a native of Chicago and attended the University of Illinois and Elgin Community College. She took her stewardess training at Cheyenne, Wyo.

Another Salem girl, Anita Ann Tanning, has resigned her stewardess position after getting her wings. Miss Tanning, daughter of Mrs. Olga Tanning, is to be married.
