

Schwab-Johnson Wedding Is Saturday

Mount Angel—White blossoms, featuring daisies and hydrangeas, with tall tapered tapers, decorated the altar and sanctuary of St. Mary's Catholic church here Saturday morning for the wedding of Miss Ruth Anne Johnson of San Diego, Calif., and Thomas Herman Schwab, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schwab of Mount Angel. The bride is the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin H. Johnson of San Diego, who came north for the wedding.

The Rev. Edward Spear, O.S.B., officiated at the 9:30 o'clock morning double ring ceremony and nuptial high mass in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends. Serving as altar boys were Leon Ficker, cousin of the bridegroom, and Ronald Wolf. Miss Helen Keber was organist, and the St. Mary's church choir sang.

Mr. Johnson escorted his daughter to the altar. For her wedding, the bride wore an all silk white crystal dress, fashioned with a fitted bodice, scoop neckline and short sleeves, enhanced with sequin trim, and a full bouffant skirt. A sequin and pearl crown held in place the circular fingertip nylon veil. The bride wore a single strand of pearls and matching earrings, a gift from the bridegroom. The white lace handkerchief she carried was a gift from her aunt, Mrs. Georgia Myers of Pikeville, Maryland. She wore white brocade slippers, and her bouquet of white roses and stephanotis was accented with light blue ribbon and greens.

The bridegroom's youngest sister, Miss Margie Schwab, was the honor attendant, and his cousin, Miss Judy Ficker, was the bridesmaid. The attendants were identically attired in light blue crystalline frocks, styled with fitted bodices, scoop necklines, and short sleeves, adorned with white daisy trim, and full bouffant skirts. Complementing their ensembles were small matching hats and linen slippers, and their earrings were gifts from the bride. Their flowers were nosegays of Ester Reed daisies.

John F. Schwab, Portland, was best man for his brother, and another brother, Joseph Schwab, was the groomsman.

Mrs. Johnson attended her daughter's wedding attired in a blue and white print dress, with which she wore a white hat and accessories. For her son's wedding, Mrs. Schwab wore a blue print dress, a navy duster, complemented with matching accessories. Both mothers added corsages of white carnations.

Among the guests at the wedding was Mrs. Mary Ficker, grandmother of the bridegroom. Her flowers were white gardenias.

Following the ceremony a breakfast was served in the dining room of St. Mary's school, for the Rev. Edward Spear, O.S.B., the wedding party and the immediate families. Assisting in serving were the bridegroom's aunts, Mrs. E. P. Scharback of Woodburn and Mrs. Joseph Ficker.

White daisies with greenery decorated the dining hall for the afternoon reception. The bride's table, set with a white rayon damask cloth, was centered with white tapers in a setting of white blossoms. A three-tiered wedding cake was decorated in white with silver leaves. For sentiment, the cake was topped with the bridal ornament which graced the wedding cake of the bridegroom's parents, and also the wedding cakes of his brother and two sisters. Cutting the cake were Mrs. Ernest Reyer, Eugene, and Mrs. John F. Schwab, Portland, a sister and a sister-in-law of the bridegroom. Miss Marlene Seifer and Miss Patricia Seifer served the punch, and presiding at the coffee urns were Mrs. Fred Prosser and Mrs. Leonard Ficker, aunts of the bridegroom. In charge of the gift table were Miss Lucille Bentz and Miss Jeanette Griesenauer. Mrs. Walter Kruse assisted in serving, and circulating the guest book was Mrs. Arthur Dummer, Corvallis, sister of the bridegroom.

For her traveling attire, the bride donned a blue linen sheath dress with white stole and accessories, and the corsage from her wedding bouquet.

The couple left later today on a wedding trip north. They will make their home in San Diego, Calif., where the bridegroom will attend San Diego State college.

Can't Drive Car Around the Block Without Mother-in-Law

By DOROTHY DIX

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My mother-in-law is as much an adjunct to our car as the spare tire. We can never leave the house without her. Now that summer is here, I'd like to get away occasionally with my husband and children, alone. But—no do!

Mom lives with us. She has a leg condition that makes walking difficult, but by no means impossible. She could easily manage a week end at home by herself, but she'd probably sulk for a month. She has two other daughters-in-law, and we're all tired of mow-towing to her to keep the peace. I don't mind anything except her insistence on participating in all our outings—Dixie.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: A parent living with married children really shouldn't expect to be part of every single activity. She should recognize the rights of the young to have some time to themselves. If this realization doesn't come voluntarily, the point must be made, somehow.

In your case it is an accepted fact of long standing that Grandma occupies the back seat under any and all circumstances. A change should be made, the longer you put this off, the more difficult it will be.

Start now. Tell mother you are going out—alone. The first time you'll have a miserable outing, and she'll be lonely and offended. The second time will be easier, and by the third occasion, things will be pretty well settled.

Since there are two other daughters-in-law, why can't they take turns entertaining the older woman? Surely, they could have her for Sunday dinner the week end you are away? Co-operation, diplomacy and determination are the three ingredients needed to make your household serene.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Can you suggest a project or interest my husband and I could share. We love each other dearly and adore our little son, but have not mutual interest. Our evenings are short, but surely there's something we can work together.—Kay.

DEAR KAY: Try building something for your home. A simple piece of furniture, for instance, progresses quickly and is fun to do. The women's magazines are full of suggestions, usually accompanied by easy-to-follow patterns or directions. A construction project is better than playing gin rummy, watching television or even reading, though all these have their place in family recreation plans, too.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: The man who lives next to us has a trailer that he rents out to the very worst type of people. The latest family throws their trash into my yard, and the odor from the trailer is awful. I have asked the man to clean up, but he pays no attention.—Jon.

DEAR JON: Have you consulted the health department in your community? A high fence might be a solution; it would cut off the sight of the ugly living quarters, and could be disguised with shrubs or vines. In other words, substitute a pleasant view for a horrid one.

Write Dorothy Dix for free leaflet D-8, "Philandering," or, if you have a problem, send it to her. In all cases, be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and send request to her care of this newspaper.

Famed Doctor-Writer Slates Visit Prior to Laos Mission

based on a motion picture production based on his book. Dooley will play a leading role in the picture.

To Leave in August

Shepard and his associates, Norman Baker of Berlin, N. H., and Peter Kessey of Ft. Worth, Texas, will leave late in August for Laos where they will join Capt. Dooley. They expect to work until the start of the monsoon season next March, when travel becomes almost impossible.

The four man medical mission will work through the ministry of health in Laos in connection with the village dispensaries to avoid the impression of meddling in native affairs. They will make their headquarters at Vientiane, the capital. American pharmaceutical houses have contributed medicines, including 25,000 small pox inoculations. Other individuals and firms are contributing to the expense of the expedition.

Shepard, a graduate of Salem high in 1950, is 24 years old. He is married to Mauryne (Chick) Nichols, a graduate of 1953.

Served in Medical Corps

Upon graduation from Salem high, Shepard attended Willamette university and then engaged in a four year tour with the U. S. navy. As a medical corpsman he was loaned to the Marine Corps and Dooley was taking his internship. There, their ways parted only to be reunited 14 months later at Vientiane.

Denny is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Shepard, 1265 Valleyview Ave.

Police Arrest 'Cap Thieves'

Two 15-year-old boys will appear in juvenile court Monday morning to answer to a charge of stealing hubcaps. They were arrested late Friday and 15 hubcaps that are believed to have been stolen at Hollywood Bowl were recovered.

Officers said the youths had admitted taking 23 hubcaps from the bowl during the races there last Saturday night. They admitted also taking three from the Dallas vicinity Friday morning. They said they sold one complete set of caps for $3.

Of the 15 hubcaps recovered 15 belong to Oldsmobiles, and officers say that most of the many caps stolen in the last several months are from that make of vehicle.

The boys were released to the custody of their parents Friday night pending their appearance in court.

Reserve Unit Leaves Sunday

Salem's first army reserve unit to go to summer training this year will depart from here Sunday morning about 7 o'clock with their destination the Yakima, Wash., firing center.

The unit, the 255th engineers construction battalion, will take with it two three-quarter ton trucks, one quarter ton jeep and trailer and the water purification set. Also taken by the unit will be 27 carbines for the use of the enlisted men.

Commanding officer of the engineers is Lt. Col. Henry P. Medinger. Going to training will be five commissioned officers; two chief warrant officers; one warrant officer, junior grade, and 18 enlisted men. Members of the advisor staff going with the unit are Maj. Wilfred Schapow and Master Sgt. Nedro C. Myers.

Other Army reserve units, the 41st infantry regiment and the 929th field artillery battalion, take their summer training at Yakima firing center August 13-26 with the 104th division.

Denny Shepard, 24-year-old Salem man, who will leave in August with three others for the kingdom of Laos to work as a medical team.

Supreme court has been asked for an order blocking construction temporarily — a request which the Court of Appeals turned down.

A bill to authorize the high dam was defeated in the Senate Thursday.

While arguments echoed through courts and Congress, the bulldozers have been busy here.

The Morrison-Knudsen Construction Co. of Boise, hired by Idaho Power to do the building, has trundled more than three million dollars worth of mechanical shovels, drag lines, trucks, cranes, pumps, compressors and other equipment to the site.

Workers will plug the main river channel with earthen cofferdams, after water is diverted next week, pump the bed dry, dig 103 feet to bedrock and start building Brownlee Dam.

When it is completed — two years from now under the present schedule — Brownlee will lower 295 feet over the river bottom — a mass of 7,300,000 cubic yards of earth and rock — enough to fill the two largest pyramids of ancient Egypt.

Bulldozers Busy at Brownlee Year After FPC Okayed Dam

BROWNLEE DAMSITE, Idaho — One year after an historic and controversial legal decision sent them into the nation's deepest river gorge, workmen were blasting huge new contours Thursday in the jagged walls of Hells Canyon.

By the end of next week they expect to complete the first major engineering step in the construction of three dams for Idaho Power Co. — the diversion of Snake River through a 2,550-foot tunnel.

It was a year ago Friday that the Federal Power Commission in Washington, at the end of 24 months of hearings and 20,000 pages of testimony, approved a bill for the company to build three rock-fill dams on the river in Idaho and Oregon.

Doctors Think Divided Twins Face Healthy, Normal Future

SAN DIEGO, Calif. — Lary and Gary Hutchens, born 18 days ago as Siamese twins, lay in separate hospital cribs today.

Physicians believe the twins face a normal, healthy future as a result of a separation operation yesterday.

Dr. Thomas F. O'Connell, chief surgeon at the operation, said that although there is a chance that complications may develop, he is "extremely optimistic" over the twins' future.

He said it would be two weeks before it can be determined whether there is any strain on either serious damage in either twin. He said the chances of such a complication is "minimal."

The operation was not performed without difficulty. During surgery it was discovered that the twins' spinal channels were joined. This was severed, along with a single nerve.

The twins, given only a local anesthetic (novocaine), showed distress during the 34-minute operation, surgeons said. They began to fuss when it was over.

After their separation, the twins were moved to separate operating

Hoe Co. Buys Seattle Firm

SEATTLE — Jones and Orth Cutter Head Co. of Seattle and Memphis, Tenn., announced Friday the firm has been purchased for about $300,000 by R. Hoe and Co., the nation's oldest printing press manufacturer.

Winslow Jones, president, said the deal will provide Jones and Orth with important sales outlets in the East. The company, established here in 1922, makes cutter heads and machine knives used in the lumber industry.

"Hoe and Co. is expanding their operations and our lines fit in well with theirs," Jones said.

Savings Account Being Built By Route Earnings

Tommy Wells, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Wells, 865 D St. has been taking care of the route No. 22 for the Capital Journal for the past nine months. He carries an average of 57 papers each afternoon except Sunday.

Tommy, who will be 12 August 15, was born in Portland and came to Salem at the age of 5. He has a younger brother.

The young merchant will be in the seventh grade at St. Joseph's Catholic school next September. He has been taking piano lessons for some time and the sisters at the school see to it that he takes his regular turn at practicing. He likes baseball.

A stamp collection takes a portion of Tommy's earnings from his paper route. He has a savings account which he hopes to build up to further his desire to go to college.

Panama Puts Tight Guard On Frontiers

PANAMA CITY (UP) — Panamanian troops patrolled this country's borders with Costa Rica to the north and Colombia to the south today to keep out "undesirable individuals" during the weekend meeting of Western Hemisphere presidents.

The government ordered "unprecedented" security measures to assure the safety of 17 presidents and presidents-elect, including President Eisenhower.

Police kept a close watch on all foreign visitors, authorities said.

Paraguayan President Alfredo Stroessner was the first delegate to arrive Thursday. He was greeted at the airport by Panamanian President Ricardo Arias and a military band which played the national anthems of Panama and Paraguay.

President Carlos Ibanez of Chile arrived 17 hours later.

President Eisenhower was expected to arrive from Washington today. Mr. Eisenhower's recent illness delayed the meeting for more than a month.

Pedro E. Aramburu, provisional president of Argentina, made an overnight stop in Lima, Peru, Thursday night. Ousted Argentine ex-President Juan Peron left abruptly for Nicaragua "to avoid embarrassing Panama" while Aramburu is here.

Band Concert Slated Sunday

The city and summer recreation band will present a concert Sunday night starting at 7 p.m. in Wilson Park. The band of high school students and adults under the direction of Roy Shelton will play a variety of overtures and marches.

The program: Colorado, Driftwood, The Black Knight Overture, Burst of the Flame March, Dance Fantasy, Giannina Mia, Will You Remember, March, Fantastique, Peasant Life Overture, and Men of Ohio.

In 1951 the average income of physicians, before office and professional expenses, was $22,298, a rise of 160 per cent since 1929.
