Sports Report

By CHUCK BOICE

Last week Oregonians were wondering whether or not the Los Angeles schools in the PCC had fired all of their volleys at Oregon State in regard to violations of conference regulations concerning "outside" pay for athletes.

CHUCK TAYLOR ... he's in clear

The boy in question is Jasper McGee, huge Negro fullback from San Francisco, who played as a freshman and sophomore at Oregon in '53 and '54.

Following his sophomore year, when he played as a regular and a good one along with George Shaw and company, McGee dropped out of school.

Recently Jasper was tabbed as a very good prospect to "tell all," particularly because he had dropped out of school. The sport crowd is sure there is something to tell—they can't feature it otherwise.

So, a combination of sports writers and alumni descended on the McGee home and proceeded to go into a Dragnet grilling act with McGee the suspect. They bombarded him with questions and accusations.

McGee certainly had been a boy who had received a great many offers. He was a high school sensation and looked like a future great. He weighed in at 225 and as a former track star had excellent speed.

THIRD DEGREE DOESN'T WORK It wasn't easy, but apparently McGee finally convinced the inquisitors that there was no illegal deal to reveal. He said, in effect, that it was the wonderful way he was treated in Eugene that made him so sold on it and he still looked on the town with the fondest of memories.

Among other things, the problem of helping support a family in Oakland had forced him to withdraw from school.

Obviously, the frustrated amateur sleuths left talking to themselves and not for publication because no blast has hit the wires.

The records show McGee did do some outside work, which is legal and common practice. He worked in a garage, and put in his full time, for the big sum of $1.50 an hour and did some yard work at $1.25 an hour—hardly coin purse money in L.A.

McGee's case was interesting when he enrolled in college. For some reason Pappy Waldorf at Cal couldn't offer him much although he certainly could have used him. The Baylies weren't too unhappy when the much-publicized prep star enrolled at Oregon because his other choice was UCLA.

STANFORD NO. 1 ON HUNT LIST No doubt someone remembers the Bruin offer and that may be what started them off on a poor lead.

According to reports from San Francisco, the behind-the-scenes checking of Oregon and Oregon State is continuing but number one on the list is Stanford. Chuck Taylor's Indians have a patent enough credit to win the PCC title no matter who is or isn't eligible and the USC-UCLA alliance representatives are going wild running down false leads concerning activities at Palo Alto.

All of these unofficial but intense investigations are expected to continue unabated for some time to come. At the moment the Ducks, Beavers and Indians are clean and L.A.'s hysteria is changing to panic.

California's Governor Goodwin Knight has put a vague but strong finger on Stanford. In fact, the charge against his alma mater begins to show the panic being felt by the advocates of a split conference.

Significant, perhaps, in Kitch's charges that some football players at Stanford hadn't worked as much as they might have for their money is that a couple of days before a writer asked old Dink Templeton, a Stanford coach for many years, if he recalled Knight's much referred to (by Knight) days as a Stanford Rugby player.

Templeton said he recalled very well. He said he was a very likeable lad and a good squad man.

"You couldn't say that he was a good Rugby player, however," the veteran coach said. "In fact, we had to play him on the dog meat team."

L&R Within One Win Of City League Title

Unbeaten Guard Whacks WPC In CL Play

Lindberg & Randall needs just one more win to take the City softball league championships as L & R took a 4-0 win over Randle Oil Friday night with Gene Hilliker throwing a two-hitter.

L & R has a 6-5 record in the two team league with just one game remaining. If they should win they will represent Salem in the inter-district playoff. If Randle wins a playoff will be held.

In the other game last night National Guard remained undefeated in second half play by virtue of a 9-0 win over Western Paper Converter. Warren Miller hurled a one-hitter for the Guards to keep his team in a first place tie with Cascade Meats.

All Runs in Sixth

All four of the L & R runs came in the sixth inning with a homer by Armond Carrow leading the attack. John Hoffert scored the first run on a single by Claude Weaver followed by Carrow's long homer. Ralph Maddry hit a sacrifice fly to score Walt Kuzmick for the final run.

A six run first inning was all that the National Guard team needed. Seven walks a wild pitch and a single by Dale Sheridan accounted for the runs.

They scored twice in the third on a single by Bob Debow, a triple by Ray Tipton and a sacrifice fly by Glen Hodges. Their final run came in the fourth when Sheridan singled and Miller doubled.

In action tonight Randle Oil will face Roseburg in a 7 p.m. doubleheader at Phillips Field.

Wepaco 000 0-0 1 1 Guards 02 1x-0 5 3 Hanson, Gilbertson (2) and Gilbertson, Brown (2); Miller and DeBow.

Wn. Man Wins Pistol Event

TACOMA (AP) — R.C. Amundson of Roy, Wash., was the aggregate match winner in the 45 caliber pistol division of the North Pacific States Regional Pistol Championships here Friday.

Amundson scored 861 points in slow, timed, rapid and match firing. Earl Bradshaw of Newport, Ore., was second with 844 points.

Marciano to Cover Moore-Parker Fight

TORONTO (UP) — Former heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano will "cover" the heavy-weight fight between Archie Moore and James J. Parker next Wednesday for the Toronto Telegram.

Marciano agreed to take the job Friday after obtaining clearance from his doctor to make the trip. The former champion has been laid up in recent weeks with a back injury.

Eddie Arcaro has won the Monmouth Oaks race five times, scoring with First Flight, Adle, Simi, Evening Out and Misty Morn.

Twin Bill Set After Rainout

George, Cade Get Hurling Chores For Solons

SPOKANE—The Spokane Indians and Salem Senators, rained out of a Friday single game, continue tonight with their battle for first place tonight with a doubleheader.

Ron King, managing the Senators this weekend, will start Andy George and Jerry Cade tonight. George has a 10-3 record, and lefty Cade has a 6-8 mark including two shutouts last week against the Eugene Emeralds.

Spokane skipper Joe Rossi will go with Bill Bottler (6-6) and young Bud Gaggero (2-1).

The Indians and Solons, the two teams pushed around in the first half, are in a virtual tie for the league leadership, although the Indians lead in percentage.

Salem Manager Hugh Luby remained in Salem to line up several special nights when the Senators return home next Friday night. He will rejoin the team at Lewiston the early part of next week.

If the Senators got the four game series they would move out ahead of the Indians and open up a larger margin over third place Yakima. First half winners, who is just a game back of the Solons, but is idle this weekend.

Speed, Power Loom in Prep Grid Contest

PORTLAND — The 9th Annual Shriners' Hospital All-star football game here August 18 could turn into a battle of speed versus power, judging from a glance at the rosters of the State and Metropolitan squads.

The gridiron classic, with all proceeds going to the Shriners' Hospital for crippled children, pits outstanding seniors from high schools throughout the state against a team of seniors from high schools in the Portland metropolitan area.

Coach Pete Susick of Marshfield boasts nine backs who average 175 pounds, including three 190-pounders in Bruce Ridinger, Albany fullback; Jerry Dorman, Ontario halfback, and Dennis Baker, Marshfield halfback.

Mapes at Half

As running mates, this trio will have Sandy Fraser, 185, Marshfield, and Sam Haynes, 150, Pendleton, both quarterbacks; Derald Swift, 175, Vale; LeMoynne Mapes, 170, South Salem, and Dale Shumway, 140, Prineville, all halfbacks, and Dave Powell, 136, Eugene, a fullback.

Coach Brad Ecklund of Gresham isn't so sure that power is all his Metros will have to stop, however. He insists the Staters have plenty of speed to go with their power. "... probably more speed actually than we will have."

The rival 24-man squads will gather here for the first time on August 5 and the following day will begin two weeks of intensive practices for the traditional pigskin extravaganza.

The game will again be preceded by a colorful pageant under the direction of Chet Duncan.

Mail orders for reserved seats are now being accepted at 1119 S.W. Park Avenue, Portland, headquarters for the game.

but the real highlight of the game came in the fifth inning when the Braves manager, Don Pries, butted an umpire in the rear with his knee. To add the appropriate note to the evening's festivities, Wenatchee made five fielding errors. Meanwhile Lewiston clubbed Eugene 10-3 to move into fifth place over the faltering Braves. Salem's match with Spokane was rained out.

In the Wenatchee mismatch, the Top-seeded Mark Wulf took a second round win Friday in the Salem Junior Boys tennis tourney, but other seeded players did not make it through the first round.

Wulf defeated Eddy Davis 6-2, 7-5 to advance into the quarter-finals. Third-seeded Jim Davis was trounced by Alvin Jacobson 11-9, 6-0, and Delbert Sheldon knocked second-seeded Larry Fanning out of the tourney 6-4, 6-3.

In other Gary Calaba topped Berry Starrett 6-0, 6-0; Lynn Seipp defeated Fred Hamrick 6-8, 6-5; Dennis Lane blanked Fred Shuford 6-0, 6-0; and John Simpson blanked Mike Shaw 6-2, 6-0.

Lewiston's Joe Riney and Hillis Layne hit two homers apiece to subdue Eugene. Riney hit his first in the opening inning, scoring Bruce McIntosh. Layne followed Fred Riney with the second homer of the evening.

Riney drove in McIntosh again in the fifth with his second homer, while Layne got another solo circuit in the third.

The Emeralds scored three runs in the first on singles by Bill Eastburn and Manny LaCosta and a double by Bob Faulstich. Eugene made four fielding miscues to Lewiston's two. The Braves out-hit their foes, 12-10.

Prall Back to Defend Title; Qualifying Now Underway

Qualifying rounds for the annual Salem Men's Golf club championship tournament will start immediately with championship flight qualifying scheduled Sunday, August 5. All other qualifying will end at that time according to club professional Bunny Mason.

Mason explained that golfers can either qualify between now and August 5th in the lower flights or be seeded into the tournament on the basis of their present handicap. He said that no golfers will be allowed in higher brackets than their present handicap, in spite of qualifying scores.

Sixteen players will make up the championship flight. Defending champion Bob Prall, the current Oregon Medal Play champ, will be back to defend the title he won last year. Other top golfers who figure to give Prall a run for his money include Dusty Woods, the McMinnville ace who won last year's Elks tourney and such local shooters as Jack Owens, Pat Mikila, Dave Moon and Hank Moon.

Trophies will be awarded winners and runners-up in all flights at a banquet following the tournament. The club championship is one of three top tourneys held at the local course for members each year. Others are the Elks tourney and the fall handicap tourney.

The match is the third in a series of summer matches arranged by clubs throughout the state. Other teams that the Salem group have played include Corvallis, Millard, Pekar, John Warley, Frank Ward, Hans Nochols, Bert Dunn, Howard Wicklund and Barney Filler.

Others are Cliff Ellis, Floyd Baxter, Harry Gustafson, Bob Thompson, Jim Brewer, Joe Grey and Ralph Kitzling.

Salem Golfers Set Corvallis Match Sunday

Members of the Salem Men's Golf club will journey to Corvallis Sunday for a team match with the Corvallis Country club linksters.

Scheduled to make the trip to Corvallis are Ned Ingram, O. E. Langdon, Harry Miller, Hobart Price, Harold Gillaspie, Art Steinmotts, George Alexander, Millard Pekar, John Warley, Frank Ward, Hans Nochols, Bert Dunn, Howard Wicklund and Barney Filler.

Others are Cliff Ellis, Floyd Baxter, Harry Gustafson, Bob Thompson, Jim Brewer, Joe Grey and Ralph Kitzling.

Quast Trails In Golf Final

Seattle's Lesser Leads Opponent Playing With Bad Toe

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP) — Anne Quast, playing with a fractured little toe on her right foot, was one down to defending champion Pat Lesser of Seattle, after nine holes in the Western Woman's Amateur Golf Championship Saturday.

Tournament officials were aware of the fracture but the gallery was not until the University of Washington sophomore from Everett asked time out at that point.

It was learned that Miss Quast stubbed the toe at the Huntington home where she was staying Friday night. It became so painful that she was taken to a hospital and received treatment for the injury a 4 a.m.

Dr. Ernest Reinich of Detroit, and Dr. James S. Klumpff of Huntington advised Miss Quast against a pain-killing injection in the foot, and instead bound up the foot.

She resumed play with part of her shoe cut out. Through the eighth hole of their 36-hole match the score was even, after each had held temporary 1-up advantages.

Miss Lesser went ahead on the ninth on Miss Quast's three-putt bogey.

Lightweight Title Fight Reset For August 24

NEW ORLEANS (UP) — The world lightweight title fight between champion Wallace (Bud) Smith and Joe Brown, scheduled for Aug. 10, has been re-scheduled for Friday, Aug. 24 so as not to conflict with the All-Star football game in Chicago between the College All-Stars and the defending National Football League champion Cleveland Browns.

Vista Market Takes B Lead with 11-1 Win

Rotary Wallops Four Corners Nine 20-2

Vista Market walloped Berg's Market 11-1 Friday night to take over first place in the B league as Vance Young and Dave Seftine teamed up to throw a three-hitter. The win gave Vista an 8-3 mark and left Berg's with a 7-3 record.

In other games Rotary Club smeared Four Corners 20-2, J's and Emery's topped the Lions 9-4 and Labish shutout Trux Oil 6-0 on a one-hitter by Dean Westling. Vista scored five runs in both the second and third innings to wrap up the game. The second inning tallies came on singles by Young, Darrold Hopkins, Bob Kimble, Curtis Walker, John Jones and Seftine. The third inning outburst was led by a triple by Richard Lott and singles by Young and Kimble.

Simmons Gets Lone Hit Westling fanned 12 in his one-hitter with Larry Simmons getting the lone blow. Bill Maynard had two singles, and Ned Darling and Westling had one apiece to account for the four bingles garnered off Trux oiler Larry Penrod.

Jim Johnson and Chuck Eastridge paced the 10 hit attack of J's and Emery's as Johnson picked up three singles and Eastridge had a two-run triple.

Glen Vanderhoff tripled with two on in the Lion's half of the seventh, but it was too late to pull the game out of the fire.

Dale Sheldon had three singles and Lance Hazebaker and Dick Lundgren had two apiece to lead Rotary to its lopsided win over Four Corners. Hazebaker was the winning pitcher giving up seven hits while fanning 11.
