

First UF Report Brings Smiles

United Fund leaders were pretty happy Thursday at their first weekly report luncheon of the drive when committee chairman reported that more than $35,000, or 15 1/2 percent of the goal, was already in. Beaming at the figures are H. E. Barker, president of Salem UF (left), and S. W. Horn, auditor and accountant for the fund. (Capital Journal Photo)

2 Rescued Fishermen Tell of Boat Sinking

NEWPORT, Ore. — Two fishermen, rescued after drifting in a life raft some 60 miles out in the ocean, told Thursday the sinking of their tuna boat.

They were heading for home in the early morning darkness with a catch valued at $3,000 when the boat suddenly sprung a leak, apparently from a sea cock that had rusted away.

Skipper Dick Altree, 30, Reedsport, said the first indication of trouble was when the boat, the Al Jr., became hard to steer. He checked below and found the boat rapidly filling with water.

He and his lone crewman, Dan Jackson, 26, Reedsport, started the pump but quickly realized it was a losing battle. They inflated a life raft and jumped on it when it floated away from the deck.

Altree said it was only 45 minutes from the first warning until the boat went under.

"We were less than 30 feet away when the boat went down, stern first," he said.

They managed to send a distress call before abandoning the boat and it was picked up by A. L. Sibley, 46, of Newport, who had also been fishing for tuna some 40 miles away.

Sibley set out at once for the area from which the signal came and when he got there, stopped and waited until daybreak. Dawn disclosed the two paddling toward him in the life raft.

"I passed them in the darkness and they saw my lights, but of course I couldn't see them," Sibley said.

Altree's wife, his 3-year-old daughter and his mother and stepfather were at the dock to greet him when Sibley's boat arrived.

Altree, who has been fishing off and on for about 15 years, had been buying the boat from his mother. Jackson had been his regular crewman for the past year.

Altree and Jackson lost all their gear when the ship went down—even their shoes which they had removed in preparation for jumping into the life raft as their boat sank lower into the water.

Steelworkers Raise Prexy's Wage $10,000

McDonald Gets $50,000 A Year; Dues Hiked $2 a Month

LOS ANGELES — The United Steelworkers of America have given President David J. McDonald a $10,000 present in the form of a salary raise to $50,000 a year.

The U.S.W. convention, in its stormiest session, also voted yesterday to raise dues $2 a month for the union's 1,200,000 members.

Dues were hiked from $3 a month to $5 after an hour and a half of heckling debate in which one spokesman from the floor, Len Taylor of Kokomo, Ind., told McDonald "I don't think you need the $10,000."

"It's not worth it," McDonald snapped tartly. "The last contract proves it."

The irony was not lost on the majority of delegates and the $10,000 increase was overwhelmingly approved. The contract McDonald referred to won the steelworkers an average 46-cent hourly wage boost over three years.

The vote on the dues increase was much closer, with three votes being taken, one by voice, one by raising hands and finally, a standing vote. McDonald rejected a motion for a roll call and declared the measure passed.

Backers of the dues increase proposals said half of the $2 will go to local union treasurers.

The increase brings McDonald's salary even with those of Dave Beck of the teamsters and John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers. Union experts said it is topped only by an estimated $72,000 paid George M. Harrison, head of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks.

The delegates also voted $10,000 raises for Vice President Howard R. Hague and Secretary Treasurer I. W. Abel, making their salaries $33,000 each.

Thirty district directors were boosted $4,000 to an annual $18,000. McDonald, however, was defeated in a move to abolish the post of national director of Canadian steelworkers. He sought to put 80,000 Canadian members under an international representative directly responsible to him.

The convention ends today.

Ore. Farmers Boost Gross, But Net Drops

CORVALLIS — Oregon farmers got more for their produce last year but their expenses were greater than ever so they ended the year with less money in their pockets, Oregon State College reported Thursday.

Gross farm income was reported at 455 million dollars or 15 million more than in 1954. But the net income was only 144.4 million, which was $700,000 less than in 1954 and the lowest since records first were kept in 1949.

Elvera Horrell, Extension Service agricultural economist, said that the net income per farm in Oregon averaged $2,532. That is $26 more than in 1954, but $771 below the peak of 1951.

The Oregon average was $200 better than the national average and Oregon ranked 10th among the states.

"So far this year we have not kept pace. Oregon's cash receipts from the sales of farm products during the first seven months are running behind the same months last year. We have as yet no indication of the direction Oregon's production expenses are taking. Nationally prices on production items during the first quarter of the year were below the first quarter 1955 prices, but had caught up by mid-year," the economist said.

Expansion of Lodge Urged On Mt. Hood

PORTLAND — A federal expenditure of $1,300,000 to improve Timberline Lodge on Mount Hood was proposed Thursday by the Portland Chamber of Commerce.

It called for a third wing to the central hall with accommodations for 22 guests along with a meeting hall for 200 persons, and a ski chalet housing a cafeteria, lounge and dormitory-style sleeping facilities for 200.

The chamber also urged construction of an outdoor swimming pool with glass walls.

Richard Kohnstamm operates the lodge under lease from the U. S. Forest Service.

General Strike Idles Karachi

KARACHI — Normal life in Pakistan's capital was paralyzed Friday by a general strike protesting the killing of Moslems in religious riots in India.

A large procession marched through the city's main streets shouting anti-Indian slogans, and small groups of students went around shouting "death to Nehru." Public transport was halted and businesses and shops were closed.

The Hindu-Muslim riots in India arose out of Moslem agitation against the publication in India of an American book, "Religious Leaders," by Henry and D. L. Thomas. Moslems claim it insults the Prophet Mohammed, founder of their religion. Nine have died in ensuing clashes.

Atomic Parley Clears Hurdle On Red China

Only 11 Nations Back Russian in Appeal For Peiping

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — The conference to create an international atoms-for-peace agency settled down to details of organizing today after getting past its first hurdle on the inevitable question of admitting Communist China. The Red Chinese question was expected to be raised again, however, before the five-week meeting ends.

The conference coordination committee scheduled a meeting today to elect a chairman and recommend a conference timetable.

The committee is made up of the 12 countries that drafted the proposed constitution for the atomic agency in Washington earlier this year.

The debate on China took place shortly after the conference began yesterday. Georgi Zarubin, Soviet ambassador to Washington, argued that the Communist Chinese government should be present for the conference and in the agency as representative of "600 million peaceful people."

Zarubin drew support from 11 of the 80 nations on hand — India, Syria, Czechoslovakia, Indonesia, Ceylon, Afghanistan, the Ukraine, Hungary, Poland, Romania and White Russia.

The Soviet Union, India and other nations already had expressed dissatisfaction with a provision of the proposed constitution that bars the Chinese Communists by limiting membership to the 87 countries in the U.N. and its specialized agencies.

Nationalist Chinese Delegate T. F. Tsiang opposed Zarubin, saying, "My government is the only legitimate government of China." South Korea and Paraguay backed him up.

A Czechoslovak suggest that Communist North Viet Nam be invited to join the conference and the agency drew objection from South Viet Nam.

No motion was made, however, to invite the Peiping and Hanoi governments, and thus no vote was necessary. U.S. Delegate James J. Wadsworth, temporary chairman for the opening session, let the debate die and went on to get the conference agenda and rules adopted.

The conference unanimously elected Joao Carlos Muniz, Brazilian ambassador to Argentina, president, and Pavel Winkler, of the Czechoslovak Foreign Ministry, vice president.

Welcoming the delegates, U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold said atomic energy used peacefully might bring a second industrial revolution and create social conditions eliminating causes of conflict.

Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, brought a greeting from President Eisenhower, whose 1953 atoms-for-peace speech led to the parley.

FRIENDLY TABERNACLES

The author of the 84th Psalm was a great lover of the earthly habitations of God. The temples, shrines and holy places of Israel were his chief delight. He found them friendly, inviting and comforting to his soul.

In one of his moments of spiritual ecstasy he broke forth in song: "How amiable are thy tabernacles, O Lord of hosts!" he sang. "My soul longeth, even fainteth for the courts of the Lord."

There are millions today who look upon God's earthly houses — the churches of the land — in much the same way. They are glad when the church hour comes and they can mingle with others in worship and spiritual fellowship.

The church around the corner or over in the next block is not a cold and formal place, once you come to know it. It breathes friendliness and sympathy. It comforts and inspires and points the way to a kind and loving God.

Come to Church on Sunday and enjoy the fellowship of God's people.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake, (2) For his children's sake, (3) For the sake of his community and nation, (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.
