Injured by Car—E. F. Becker, 1145 North Church street, a peedestrian, was hit by a car Tuesday night, shortly before 8 o'clock, and got minor injuries to a foot, leg and arm, according to information given the police. He said the car ran over his foot. The car driver, police said, was Daniel Gade Marsh, 2430 Maple. The accident happened at Pine and Broadway.

Highway Committee to Meet—The highway interim committee will meet in the State Capitol October 8. State Representative William W. Braden has announced.

Hand Injured—George Barza, 903 Judefa street, West Salem, suffered a badly injured left hand Wednesday while working with a sawdust truck. After first aid he was taken to a hospital.

Car Shortage Not Expected

Oregon has a good chance of avoiding a freight car shortage during the rest of the year, Clifford Ferguson, state director of rail transportation, said Wednesday.

He said that every shipper is being supplied, although there now are no cars being held in reserve.

"The railroads," he said, "assure us that they will continue to have enough cars."

October usually is a critical month, but Ferguson said he is hopeful that the supply of cars will remain adequate during this month.

There was a severe shortage last year, with lumber shippers suffering the most.

Easy Carpet Cleaning Discovery Hailed

What is said to be the easiest and "cleanest" home rug cleaner, known as Blue Lustre, is now available after years of research.

Blue Lustre leaves no foreign residue to cause rapid re-soiling. The pile is left open and fluffy as the colors spring out like magic. So easy to apply with a long handle brush (like playing a shuffleboard) and is safe for all types of carpets.

Use Blue Lustre to clean the entire carpet or remove spots and traffic lanes. It's economical to use as 1/2 gallon of concentrate cleans three 9 x 12 rugs.

Foreign WU Students Busy Learning Western Customs

By JULIE MELLOR
Capital Journal Special Writer
Learning American customs as well as teaching Willamette students some of their own native folkways is of prime importance to five foreign students who traveled many thousands of miles to attend the Salem school this fall.

Akimasa Sano, who crossed the Pacific from Tokyo in June to attend summer school, finds he carries his Japanese-English dictionary everywhere with him. "To learn well each new word I hear," a graduate student in economics, he plans to return to his homeland next year to go into business. Sano is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. William Rogers of Salem during his stay in the U. S.

A camera enthusiast is blond, blue-eyed Birgitta Gullers, who came to Willamette from Stockholm, Sweden, this fall on national Delta Gamma and Willamette scholarships. Daughter of a Swedish commercial photographer, she has been commissioned to photograph the campus this fall in preparation for a new view booklet being published this spring.

Birgitta exclaimed she is learning much about American ways through her 30 new roommates, the members of Delta Gamma. Elvin Smoyer, who is called "Peso" around the campus, seems to be headed for local politics, having entered the freshman class elections this week. A pledge of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, he has lived all his life in Zamboanga City, the Philippines. He first learned of Willamette through Anita Booth, a

Supreme Court Upholds Judge

The state supreme court Wednesday held that the state land board had taken "arbitrary action" in leasing land to the Coos Bay Timber company which fronted upon privately-owned properties.

In effect the decision, affirmed Circuit Judge Dal M. King, invalidated the lease on the grounds that the owners of the land, Richard C. McCarthy and John E. Honnell, had not been given adequate notice to enable them to exercise the preference right given by the statute.

By such right the owner of upland property is entitled to a lease of the tide lands at the highest price offered in good faith by any bidder. The high court said that although the land board advertised for bids in a newspaper, it had not given notice to the property owners either before or after the timber company's bid was received.

Thornton Rules On Survey Query

Atty. Gen. Robert Y. Thornton ruled Wednesday that cities, counties, and school, park and recreation districts can create an agency to conduct surveys to help participating cities in their planning activities.

The opinion was for State Rep. V. E. Johnson, Eugene.

Letter Writing Week Scheduled

"I will take my pen in hand" on some similar phrase will become popular during the week Oct. 7-13 if the post office department's annual suggestion that patrons of the service take care of their correspondence is followed by the general public.

The occasion will be National Letter Writing Week, a movement that was inaugurated by the postal service back in 1938.

"We all know the human importance of letter writing," commented Postmaster Albert C. Gragg, "the way in which it holds scattered families together, of giving comfort and love and news to all people of the land. But its value is immeasurably greater than that. Its implications are almost infinite.

"We in America have the privilege of uncensored and unlimited means of communication. With this in mind, I urge all citizens of Salem to join me in this celebration."
