WOULD REPEAL COMPULSORY LAW

Educator Urges Curb On Attending School

By A. L. LINDBECK Capital Journal Special Writer Adoption of a "more realistic" policy for the admission of students into Oregon's high schools was advocated by Roland A. Parks, president of the Oregon Association of Secondary School Principals in his annual report presented at this morning's session of the association's annual convention at the Marion hotel. Parks, who is superintendent of schools at Bandon, told the school administrators that what is needed is a policy that "will keep those with any chance and eliminate the rotten apples in the barrel." ... He advocated repeal of the present compulsory school law. "The law back to 18 years or make it like the basic law in traffic," he urged. "Maybe some 14-year-olds should be denied admittance to schools."

3 IP Dams Okayed by U.S. Court

Appellate Judges Refuse to Void FPC License

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U. S. Court of Appeals Tuesday upheld legality of the Idaho Power Co.'s construction license for three dams in Hells Canyon on the Snake River. The court turned down a request by public power groups that a license granted by the Federal Power Commission (FPC) be set aside and the stretch of the Snake River along the Idaho-Oregon border be reserved for a bigger government dam. ... The next step in the long and bitter fight between private and public power advocates—a primary political issue in the Pacific Northwest—is certain to be an appeal to the Supreme Court.

Dulles Sights Scant Hope of Suez Solution

As Long as Egypt Uses Canal as Instrument Of Its Policy

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles said Tuesday there is little chance of settling the Suez problem so long as it is possible for any nation to use the vital waterway as an instrument of its national policy. Dulles told the U.N. Security Council that this is the heart of the problem and the first step should be an acceptance by all parties of the principle that a system should be set up to ensure against any such action. ... He did not flatly reject a proposal made by Egypt Monday for the establishment of a U.N. negotiating body to work out a system of cooperation for the operation of the canal.

McKay Tours Campus Before Talk

Work to Start In So. Salem On Oct. 15

By STEPHEN A. STONE Capital Journal Associate Editor Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Company will this month start a service improvement project in Salem that will cost $340,000, Elmer Berglund, manager of the Salem exchange, announced Tuesday. Mainly it will be for the benefit of the rapidly growing south part of the city. The work will start October 15. This project, with extension work that has already been done in a major growth program in the Salem area boosts to a total of $1,197,000, the amount being spent this year on expansion and improvement of service, and brings to $2,948,000 expenditures that have been made in the last three years. ... Two Miles of New Conduit The project announced Tuesday will involve the building of two miles of underground conduit from Bellevue Street south along Liberty and Commercial to Salem Heights Avenue and the placing of three miles of cable in the new conduit and conduit already under the streets. ... Involved also in the project is the placing of six miles of aerial cable on poles already in place, starting from Liberty Road and Salem Heights Avenue and spreading out in the general South Salem residential area. ... In more detail this part of the work will start at the northeast corner of Bellevue and Liberty, cut diagonally across Bellevue to the west parking and continue south along the west parking strip of Liberty to Superior Street. There it will move to Commercial on Commercial Street, with excavation about four feet from the west curb, it will go south on Commercial to Liberty Road Junction. Then it will continue on the west side of Liberty Road to King Street.

SAGE Project Cash Released

ALBANY (Special) — Release of $4,830,000 for immediate use in planning and constructing Operation SAGE at Camp Adair, west of Albany, has been authorized by the U. S. Air Force, it was learned here Monday from Don Garber, at the office of Congressman Harris Ellsworth, Roseburg. Details were lacking but it was the understanding this appropriation will be followed by others as work progresses. A previous announcement stated that the installation would include about 20 buildings and will involve, when placed in operation, between 500 and 600 personnel, probably in 1959.

800 Shriners Due Saturday For Initiation

From 800 to 1,000 Oregon Shriners are expected to be in Salem Saturday for the Central Coast-Willamette ceremonial, first held here in several years, Salem President Paul Hale said Tuesday. Main business of the all-day session is initiation of novices from the area into the Shrine. Highlight from the standpoint of local people will probably be the colorful parade scheduled to start at 1 o'clock from the Capitol mall. According to Hale, the parade will stretch about six blocks. Shrine clubs taking part will come from Bend, Astoria, Corvallis, Eugene, Cottage Grove, Burns, Springfield, Newport, Madras, Prineville, Albany, Molalla, Salem City, Dallas, Tillamook, Oregon and Santiam clubs. Activities start at 10 a.m. with registration at South Salem high school. A tea will be held for the ladies at 3:30 p.m. at McJannet and Frank with the ceremonial dinner due at South High at 5:30 p.m. A reception for the new Shriners and their wives will take place at the Senator hotel at the end of the day.

Keef Digs at President on Health Issue

VINELAND, N.J. (AP) — Sen. Estes Kefauver kept up his wisbang pace through southern New Jersey Tuesday despite a sore throat and said that his cold, "like major surgery," had improved his physical condition. This obvious dig at President Eisenhower came at a news conference in Bridgeton. "With my cold, I think I have never been in better health," he said with a grin. Then he added seriously that he felt "a little better." The Democratic vice presidential nominee motorcaded in nippy but sunny weather through five New Jersey towns repeatedly pledging that his party would do something to boost the prices of poultry, tomatoes and other perishables widely grown in this section. ... Boys Confess Setting Fatal School Blaze

CHEHALIS, Wash. (AP) — Supt. Erick Yarchin said Tuesday "one or two" youthful inmates set a fire that killed a 16-year-old Belfair, Wash. youth Monday night at the State Training School for Boys. Yarchin quoted one boy as saying he "did it for kicks" after a rumput at a maximum security cottage. The superintendent did not name those accused of starting the fire, but he said they were among nine boys held in the Lewis County jail here awaiting action by county authorities. Richard Vanderpool, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Vanderpool of Belfair, died of burns and smoke inhalation. He was one of five inmates trapped temporarily on the second floor of the building. Yarchin said the trouble began with youngsters throwing aluminum mess trays. He said George Gage, a cottage "parent," told boys who wanted to avoid the rumput to get upstairs. Several did so, and were locked in individual rooms. In the confusion, Yarchin added, "one or two boys" went into the TV room, put paper under rubber chair cushions and lit the fire. It flared immediately, with thick smoke and intense heat, business manager E. H. Stevenson reported.

Overdue Rain Sighted Near

Wouldn't you know it, that weather man up and changed his tune, Tuesday. He says, says he, there is a possibility of occasional rain Wednesday, the continued cloudy weather booked for tonight and Wednesday likely to result in some moisture for the valley region. Oh, well, this area has been living on "borrowed sunshine" for some time. Not many falls are there bringing so much sunshine and golden weather as this autumn. And farmers and woodsmen will be happy to see some precipitation. The cloudy skies have cooled off the atmosphere considerably, the maximums through the forepart of the week going only to the high 60s.

Mystery of Missing Notices Delays Zone Change Move by City Council

By DOUGLAS SEYMOUR Capital Journal Writer The reported mysterious disappearance of public hearing notifications from mailboxes and removal of posted notices in the Northgate district caused a city council members Monday to send a proposed zone change in that area back to the planning commission. The change in zone was requested by Howard Olsen who told the council it was sought so that a shopping center could be developed on the site. He had originally sought to change the area between Northgate and Stortz avenues near Portland road from residential to R-3 commercial. Monday he asked the change be made to the more restrictive R-2 commercial. ... Olsen said that he had affidavits from the city recorder saying the letters to the property owners had been sent and from the superintendent of mails saying they had been delivered. He declared that the opponents had not received them however. He explained that the residents get their mail in rural-type boxes and that none of the opponents had found the notifications in their mailboxes.

Reformatory Chief Named

P. J. Squier, warden of the state reformatory at Monroe, Wash., will become warden of the Oregon State Reformatory to be built here, the state Board of Control announced Tuesday. Squier was in the federal prison service for 30 years, and war warden of the federal penitentiary at McNeil Island, Wash., from 1949 to 1951, when he retired from federal service. His new appointment is effective next July 1, but Squier will begin work Nov. 8 as consultant to the architects planning the new institution. The new reformatory, to house 600 youthful and first offenders, will be completed about Jan. 1, 1959.

McKay Speaks at WU, Predicts Victory for Entire GOP Ticket

By JAMES D. OLSON Capital Journal Political Editor A victory for the entire Republican ticket in Oregon on Nov. 6 was predicted Tuesday by Douglas McKay just before he spoke to almost 900 Willamette University students gathered in a convocation. McKay told this reporter that he predicted his forecast on information he had gathered in his visits to all parts of the state, where he said Republicans, independents and many Democrats favored President Eisenhower and the men and women who are running on the same ticket. The former governor of Oregon and secretary of the interior told the large assemblage of students that the greatest hope for lowering of federal taxes lies in continuance of the current Republican administration. McKay, candidate for United States senator, said it appears his opponent promised a slice of the federal treasury to every pressure group. "The spending policies he is urging during this campaign are a guarantee of bigger and bigger government with bigger and bigger taxes," McKay said. "When the Democrats took over control of the country in 1933, the income tax revenue was only 3 million dollars. Then came the New Deal and the 'Fair Deal.' He continued, 'When they left office in 1953, federal taxes had reached the staggering burden of 65 billion dollars. You young people who are looking ahead to the next 20 years—should stop and think between now and Nov. 6. If federal taxes can climb from 3 billion to 65 billion in 20 years, what will they be in 1976?' McKay asked. 'That year of yours will come sooner than you think.'

Ex-Mayor of Silverton Dies

SILVERTON (Special) — Lester Calvin (Corey) Eastman, 73, a three-time former Silverton mayor, died in a Portland hospital Tuesday morning after an extended illness. He was born Nov. 27, 1882 at Topeka, Kansas and spent his school years in Castle Rock, Wash. He moved to Silverton in 1906 and established the Eastman Metal Works from which he retired in 1946. He served as mayor of Silverton three times and was an active member of the Masonic lodge, Knights of Pythias, and Lions club. Survivors include his widow, Lucy, and a son Norman, both of Silverton; a daughter, Mrs. Kelsey Slocum, Portland; and two grandchildren. Private funeral services will be held at Castle Rock, Wash.

X2 Pilot Was Fastest Human in Fatal Zoom

SPOKANE (AP) — Capt. Milburn G. Apt was "flying faster than any human being has been known to fly" just before he crashed to his death Sept. 27 in the Bell X2 rocket plane, Secretary of the Air Force Quarles said Tuesday. Quarles, in a speech prepared for the National Guard Assn. convention, didn't say how fast Apt was traveling. The noseless X2 has reportedly been flown by other pilots, however, at speeds of nearly 2,000 miles an hour and been taken to an altitude of 128,000 feet. "I am sure it will interest you to know," Quarles said in his prepared remarks, "that, according to instrument records that were preserved, Capt. Apt, shortly before his death, was flying faster than any other human being has been known to fly." Capt. Apt, 32, lost his life in the crash of the X2 at Edwards Air Force Base last month. The plane fell to earth only about three minutes after it was released from a B59 bomber at 30,000 feet. It was the captain's first flight in the experimental rocket-powered plane and was to familiarize him with it. The X2 was designed to explore the "heat barrier," the point at which friction from high speeds starts to weaken the metal of the plane. Lt. Col. Frank Everest flew the X2 when it made the reported 1,900-mile-an-hour plus flight. Cause of the crash in the California desert has not been determined.
