

Adlai Told by Morse They'll Both Triumph In Oregon by 85,000

Stevenson Praises Women for Lead In Registry

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Democrats held the center of political attention in Oregon Wednesday as their presidential candidate, Adlai Stevenson, spoke in Portland to a crowd of more than 100,000 people in the Municipal Auditorium.

In just a week—next Thursday—it will be the Republicans' turn with President Eisenhower in Portland for a speech at the same auditorium. Before then, on Saturday, Secretary of Labor Mitchell will speak in the president's behalf in Portland.

During Stevenson's visit, in the course of which he lauded Sen. Wayne Morse and spoke critically of Morse's opponent, Doug McKay, he was told to be optimistic about carrying Oregon. Morse said he had told Stevenson he would win. He added to interviewers he thought he would beat McKay by about 85,000 votes and said he thought there wouldn't be much difference between his and Stevenson's vote total.

Some polls have indicated that Morse's chances of winning are better than are Stevenson's. In 1952 Eisenhower got 60.9 per cent of the Oregon vote, beating Stevenson by 150,000.

Stevenson, in addition to supporting Morse, said words of praise, too, for Rep. Edith Green and for State Sen. Robert Holmes, candidate for governor.

At a meeting of the women's activities department of the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education, Stevenson noted that Democrats lead in registration in more than two-thirds of the Oregon counties and he credited the women with adding "many thousands" to the registrations.

While Morse was introducing Stevenson at Portland, McKay was addressing a dinner meeting at Klamath Falls in which he stressed the Eisenhower theme of "peace, prosperity and progress." Speaking of his administration in the Department of the Interior, McKay said that on one item alone his department saved 15 million dollars without sacrificing an essential service.

McKay Thursday was in Lakeview continuing his campaign.

Gov. Elmo Smith said the people of Oregon must "pay salaries" to higher education facilities to prevent loss of members to industry and to educational institutions in other states. This pay increase is a responsibility which cannot be shirked, he said. In connection with costs and taxes, Smith said that more than half the governmental spending is the result of a vote of the people, not legislative action alone.

State Sen. Robert Holmes, the governor's election opponent, had an educational theme, too, in his Wednesday speech. Speaking at Portland he said that providing educational opportunities "for the thousands of young men coming home after a two-year draft term in the armed forces," will be a major job for many years. He promised a "lively and intelligent interest" in this.

The state, too, said Holmes should take an increased interest in seeing that veterans on their return have a chance at getting farms or starting businesses.

A Portland housewife, Mrs. John F. Cramer Jr., flew to Washington, D. C. Thursday to take part in a "citizens' news conference" with President Eisenhower, a program to be broadcast and telecast Friday night.

Sen. John Kennedy of Massachusetts, whose contest with Sen. Estes Kefauver for the vice presidential nomination was one of the highlights of the Democratic National Convention, was listed Thursday as an Oct. 21 speaker at the University of Portland. Other appearances will be scheduled.

In the Fourth Congressional District, both Republican Rep. Harris Ellsworth and Democratic candidate Charles Porter spoke to coastal audiences.

Ellsworth at Gold Beach said he will attempt, in the next Congress, to get an appropriation for the Rogue River Harbor project. This job, calling for a ship channel and turning basin, has been authorized and no money has been appropriated. Its cost is estimated at $3,950,000.

Porter, at Bandon, said that Ellsworth used his committee power to block passage of the Senate-passed housing bill. Porter said this hurt the lumber industry and "put employment in his own district in a deep freeze coma."

Governor Sets 'Ike Day' Here This Saturday

Saturday has been designated as "Ike's Day in Oregon" by Governor Elmo Smith as a tribute to the president's 60th birthday which falls on Sunday, Oct. 14.

The day is being observed nationally with the main purpose of calling attention to the responsibility of all Americans to vote regardless of party.

"The right and responsibility to vote is one of the most basic expressions of public service for American citizens," Smith said. "Citizens of Oregon will want to pay tribute to him for his dedication to our nation and for the example he has set for devotion to God, family and his fellow man," the governor concluded.

97 Terrorized Students Get Big Holiday

TERRAZZANO, Italy (AP)—Terror day at Terrazzano School—six fearful hours in which students and teachers were held hostage by two berserk brothers armed with guns, acid and dynamite—brought an unexpected holiday to 97 children between 6 and 10.

A month's vacation at public expense at a north Italian mountain resort was announced by school authorities so the children could forget Wednesday's ordeal.

Each child will have a medical examination to see whether any suffered physical injuries or mental scars from the day.

Police identified the brothers as Arturo and Osvaldo Santato, aged 27 and 22. They said Arturo, who was shot Wednesday, had just been released from a criminal lunatic asylum. Osvaldo, they said was "a near moron—completely dominated by his brother."

Medic Reports Adlai's Health Is 'Excellent'

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson's news secretary said today he produced an "excellent" health report on his candidate in reply to reporters' queries.

As a matter of fact, Clayton Elichey told this reporter, "It wasn't a campaign gimmick. We didn't intend to make public the report at all."

He did so yesterday at Portland, Ore., he said, because "we have had a number of queries from newspapermen about Gov. Stevenson's last examination."

The report, dated Oct. 2, and signed by Dr. Leander W. Riba, Chicago, said a physical checkup July 15 revealed a "normal" blood count and urine, negative X-rays of the chest and urinary tract.

"The pulse was 72 and blood pressure 120-70," the certification from the doctor said. "The examiner was impressed with Mr. Stevenson's negative physical and laboratory findings. The status of his health was noted to be excellent."

Dr. Riba is the Chicago doctor who has attended the Democratic presidential nominee since June 1952.

Since that time, Riba said, he has been operated on only once, on April 12, 1954, for "stones in the ureter."
