OSC NOTES

Queen Contests of Interest

By PHOEBE LOU BRAUN (Capital Journal Correspondent) OREGON STATE COLLEGE, Corvallis (Special)—Queens and sweethearts will soon be in the limelight at Oregon State, as candidates are now competing for Homecoming queen, and Sweetheart of Sigma Chi. Jode Boyer and Delores Loring have been in the running for Homecoming queen, while Sue Grier is one of the 10 Sweetheart finalists.

The W. B. Jubilee, with the theme "Song of the South," was presented last week by the Women's Recreational association. Entertaining skills were given to show the various activities connected with the Women's Physical Education department. Committee chairmen for the event included Susan Borders and Carol Peterson. Carol was also one of the narrators, and played the part of gruff "Brer Bear."

Nancy Owens, president of the sophomore women's scholastic honorary, Alpha Lambda Delta, was introduced last week at the scholarship convocation. The honorary was recently the sponsor of a picnic held for freshmen with a 10 declamatory rating.

The Nickle Hops last Friday were a big success, having surpassed the $600 goal by $70.95. Although some people are still babying their feet, most of the students have many new acquaintances to show for the evening's fun.

The Delta Upsilon fraternity recently conducted their formal initiation. New members include

Dennis Olson and Phil Janitz. Another new fraternity member is Ron Brown, who was initiated into Phi Kappa Tau. Coach Tommy Prothro gave a "chalk talk" Wednesday to give students a better understanding of football. The second annual football assembly was sponsored by the Associated Women Students, and covered rules, penalties, formations and other football essentials.

Kathy McKeenan passed the American Red Cross test this summer, for advanced swimmer. Only 11 persons in Oregon have passed this test, so it is quite an accomplishment. The test was given by the American Red Cross Aquatic school at Camp Pulequia, Calif.

This Friday night is open for men's house dances. Attending the dance at the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity will be Wayne Erickson, Jim Hardy, Will Bateson, Georgia Keortge, Jerry Carleton, Vidke Ward and Don Davis. The Sig Ep junior class will come to Salem for dinner at Randall's Chuck Wagon, before the dance.

The Engineers' Ball, "Research in Rhythm," is to be Saturday evening in the mechanical engineering laboratory. Salem folk attending the dance will include Carol McFarland, Lynn Enyear, and Terry Parsons. Besides seeing several unique engineering displays at the ball, students will receive liquid refreshment from a genuine hydraulic pumping system.
