GOP Solon Asks Probe of Pay Donation to Morse Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — Donations of a lumber company crew in Roseburg, Ore., to the campaign fund of Sen. Morse (D-Ore.) should be investigated, Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz.) said yesterday.

Goldwater, chairman of the Senate Republican Campaign Committee, said he asked the Senate Elections Subcommittee to investigate the contributions. He said Morse benefited from a special half day of work on Saturday, Sept. 15, at the Paul Hull Lumber Co. in Roseburg.

Goldwater said the time-and-a-half wages earned by the men who worked were contributed to Morse's campaign. Goldwater did not give the amount of the contribution nor the number of workers involved.

In Roseburg, Paul Hull, the lumber company owner, said 31 men volunteered to work a half day on a Saturday. The $424 they earned, Hull said, was donated to the Morse campaign in Douglas County.

Lumber produced in the shift was disposed of through regular channels, he said.

Goldwater had indicated the lumber processed by the workmen also benefited the Morse campaign.

Hull said the plant normally does not operate on Saturdays in the slack fall season. The idea to work the special shift "was kicked around" at the plant, the lumbermen said, and Morse supporters on the crew decided to donate their pay.

"It was strictly legal, I'm sure," Hull said.

A spokesman for the Morse campaign office in Portland said the matter "was handled as a volunteer contribution" in Douglas County. "It is unfortunate that an attempt has been made to twist the facts in this case," the spokesman added.
