Important Meeting in Portland

The Oregon State Employees association will hold its General council in Portland November 8, 9, 10 at the Multinomah Hotel. Due to the organizational structure of the association the three-day meeting 1s of prime importance since resolutions passed and actions taken will guide OSEA activities during the coming year.

Courses will be charted which will affect all state employees. The annual General Council, it is pointed out, is the policy-making and while firemen were at their annual ball.

Not stopping to change clothes, they rushed from the dance floor to the Oregon-Washington Plywood Co., but not in time to prevent extensive damage to the mill. Company officials estimated the loss at $100,000.

They said insurance covered it, and the damage would be repaired as soon as possible.

The plant, the major payroll in this area with some 200 men employed, is expected to be closed two or three weeks.

SECRETARY OF STATE MANY PUBLISHERS SUPPORT HIM

"This board (Board of Control) ... is an essential part of state government and one in which Hatfield is exceptionally quali-fied. In his legislative career, Hatfield showed himself to be alert to state needs, mildly liberal in his approach and above all, a man of personal and political integrity."

The Oregon Journal, Oct. 29.

HIS EXPERIENCE FITS THE OFFICE A large part of the Secretary of State's work is with state institutions and with efficiency in government. Senator Hatfield's administrative experience with the budgetary and personnel problems of Williamette University on boards, committees and in political science is invaluable.

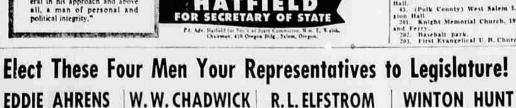

HE HAS ENTHUSIASM AND VISION Mark Haifield does not view the office as simply a political post. His enthusiasm for bringing efficiency to bear and his understanding of the long-range beneficial effects of the office will not be found in any other candidate.

Mark Hatfield has no prejudices as regard race, creed or political party. He fought for civil rights and teacher's minimum pay standards. His fairness has brought him support from both political parties.

HE IS A FINE INDIVIDUAL cation for office as his official acts. Mark Hatfield has cation for office as his official acts. Mark Hatheid has been a man dedicated to the service of other people in his community, his county, his state and the nation. His common sense, his honesty and his intentions have always been above represent. We feel this is the kind of a man everyone would want in public office.
