Father a Trouble Maker in An Otherwise Happy Home

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: When we married my husband had four children, I had one, and we have a son, now three months old. I'm 25, my husband is 15 years older. To say we're living a miserable life is an understatement.

The children and I get along wonderfully. The trouble is between my husband and his stepson. The boy never does anything right, according to his dad; we can't eat a meal without the child being scolded and every bedtime is a nightmare. The boy is 8 years old and is really a docile child. In fact, even that quality annoys my husband.

Though my husband is a good provider, he's not a good father in other respects. He's a heavy drinker at times, has a bad temper and is perpetually looking for a fight. I hate arguments and can't go on this way. My stepchildren were deserted by their mother; if I leave them, they'll be put in a home. What can I do for the best interests of all youngsters?—Mrs. E.

DEAR MRS. E.: How can one man be so blind—and dumb! When he has one of his rare good moods, explain the havoc he's causing in his own home. Tell him how harmoniously you get along, and ask if it seems at all reasonable that one bad actor should spoil the lives of seven other people.

Your letter shows evidence of gentleness and charm; those qualities will win him over, if anything will.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Is there anything I can say to my 29-year-old married daughter to keep her away from the hard-drinking, fast-stepping crowd she has selected? Her husband is over-keas and she's running wild.—Mrs. K.

DEAR MRS. K.: Words would have no effect at all. Reunion with her husband would be the only solution. Could she join him overseas? The new experience of travel, plus the security of a man of her own, would cancel out the attraction of the people she now finds fascinating.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Bud and I were having a nice romance, when it blew up—over something silly, of course. Bud started to go with a fast crowd, and I dated other boys, but never enjoyed myself. Now I hear that Bud's new friends have been discarded and he's beginning to ask about me. Does this look like a new start for us?—Beulah

DEAR BEULAH: The festive season approaching will provide the opportunity to renew the friendship. Invite Bud to a party, show that you are receptive to return invitations (this is no time to play hard to get), and let him take it from there.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: A dear friend is just suited to a man who works in the same garage where I keep books. She refuses even to meet him. How can I get them together? I know each one is lonely and could make the other happy.—Matchmaker (?) Cora

DEAR CORA: Offer your friend a discount on gas, or a good buy on winterizing. That might fetch her.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I'm a freshman in high school and am dreading a wonderful junior. I have always had a bad habit of being fresh to my mother. I answered back once when this boy was present, and he said if he ever heard the like of that again he'd slap my mouth. Needless to say, I watch my tongue now! However, I still think he was presumptuous.—Sable

DEAR SABLE: The threat worked, didn't it? And after all, nothing succeeds like success.

Send your problem to Dorothy Dix. Or write for her free leaflet 4-6, "Keystones of the Home." In all cases, be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope, and send request to her, care of this newspaper.

Silverton Women Hospital Patients

SILVERTON (Special)—Word from Silverton matrons who have been surgery patients during the week, is encouraging.

Members of the family of Mrs. T. P. Heidenstrom, president of the local American Legion Auxiliary and who submitted to brain surgery at Portland several days ago, are announcing that her condition is said to be normal and that improvement is imminent.

She has been receiving visits from her children and grandchildren. At the Silverton hospital as surgery patients are Mrs. Harry B. Ragon who is said to be "doing nicely," and Mrs. Carl G. Berg, wife of the minister of Calvary Lutheran church, who was officially reported as improving normally.

Some people read about the symptoms of a disease and then imagine they suffer from it. They often worry themselves sick—usually needlessly.

Never believe you have anything wrong unless your physician confirms it by his skilled diagnosis. If you have any pain or discomfort that persists, consult your physician instead of worrying about it. There are few diseases now that cannot be relieved if the diagnosis is made early.

Bernards-Connell Wedding Saturday

Mount Angel (Special)—One of the beautiful weddings of early winter took place this morning, in St. Mary's Catholic church here, when Miss Patricia Clare Connell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alois Keber, was married to Robert Edward Bernards, son of Mrs. Theodore M. Bernards of Yamhill and of the late Theodore Bernards.

The Rev. Urban Keber, O.S.B., pastor of St. Agatha's church, Portland, officiated at the 10 o'clock double ring ceremony and nuptial high mass in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends. Serving as altar boys were Paul and Glen Juennemann of Yamhill, nephews of the bridegroom.

Miss Helen Keber was organist and the church choir, of which the bride is a member, sang the mass. Mrs. Albert Schroeder (Clara Keber) of Salem sang the "Ave Maria" before the processional and a special wedding hymn following the ceremony while the couple knelt at the side altar of Our Blessed Mother where the bride placed a bouquet of red carnations.

Chrysanthemums in fall colors and tall tapers in candelabras were on the altars and white and yellow chrysanthemums in sunburst basket arrangements decorated the sanctuary.

The wedding dress of the bride was a handsome model of imported Chantilly lace and nylon tulle over white slipper satin. The bodice of lace over satin was fashioned with a net yoke, nylon tulle trim outlining the sweetheart neckline. Satin covered buttons were used at the wrists of the long fitted lace sleeves and also closed the bodice back. An overskirt of lace enhanced the bouffant skirt of net over satin which terminated in a long court train. A coronet of satin with net ruching trim and tiny seed pearls held in place the double finger-tip veil of nylon tulle. For sentiment, the bride carried a pearl rosary, a keepsake from her father which she had had since childhood. Her flowers were yellow-throated white orchids and stephanotis with white satin streamers topping a white simulated pearl Prayer book. Mr. Keber escorted the bride to the altar.

In Red Velvet Mrs. Paul Rose (Jean Connell) of North Bend was the honor attendant for her sister, and bridesmaid was Miss Irene Susa of Mount Angel.

The attendants were dressed identically in frocks of red velvet with scoop necklines, dropped waistlines and bouffant ballerina length skirts. The sleeves were tight fitting in Italian length. The two wore red satin slippers and their headpieces were red velvet halos with seed pearl trim. Their pearl and gold necklaces and earrings were gifts of the bride. Bouquets of the attendants were cascades of white Fuji chrysanthemums with ivy leaves.

Donald Bernards of Salem was best man for his brother, and Norman Bernards of McMinnville, another brother, was the groomsmen. Ushering were Ted Bernards of McMinnville, brother of the bridegroom, and Charles Sandoz of The Dalles, cousin of the bride.

The bride's mother wore a rose lace dress with matching jacket, complemented with a winter white hat, black accessories, and an orchid corsage.

sage. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a rust-brown dressmaker suit dress, with which she wore a black hat and accessories and a corsage of orchids.

Present for the church service were Sister M. Victoria Keber, OSB of Oregon City, and Sister M. Pauline, OSB.

Following the ceremony several hundred friends and relatives gathered at the dining room of St. Mary's school for the reception and luncheon served at noon. Chrysanthemums in fall shades were arranged about the room. Tall white tapers in an arrangement of white chrysanthemums centered the bride's table which was covered with a lace cloth. Similar arrangements decorated the other tables in the room. A three-tiered decorated wedding cake, topped with a miniature bridal orochid, was surrounded by chrysanthemums and greenery. The cake was flanked by tall lighted tapers in crystal holders. Mrs. J. E. Sandoz of The Dalles, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Joseph Hermens of Yamhill, aunt of the bridegroom, cut the cake. Mrs. Cora Gordon, Portland, aunt of the bride, presided at the coffee urn. Serving punch were Miss Helen Keber and Mrs. Dan Felles (Ursula Keber) of Portland, Miss Margaret Tobin of Portland, and Miss Margaret Traeger of Mount Angel, were in charge of the gift table, and Mrs. Stanley Parton (Madeline Keber) of Salem, coculated the guest book. Miss Anne Erwert was dining room hostess. Assisting in serving were the Misses Louise Schroeder and Marilyn Schroeder of Salem, Mary Ann Ebner, Dorothy Baumgartner, Mary Ann Kleinschmidt, and Mary Lou Schmalz.

For traveling, the bride donned a red sheath dress with matching jacket, winter white hat and gloves and black accessories, and the yellow-throated white orchid corsage from her wedding bouquet. The couple will establish residence on the bridegroom's farm near Yamhill.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Mrs. Theodore M. Bernards, John Bernards, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Juennemann, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert J. Bernards and J. W. Hermens, all of Yamhill; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rose of North Bend; Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Sandoz and son, Charles Sandoz, George Kasberger, Mr. and Mrs. Max Kasberger, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Kasberger and son, Tom, Mr. and Mrs. James P. Sandoz, Jimmy and Eddie Sandoz, Miss Gladys Rogers, Mrs. Jennie Digagne, Mrs. George Keenan, and Mrs. Fred Christen, all of The Dalles; Mrs. Cora Gordon, Mrs. Ima Meyer, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Gordon, Joseph J. Keber, Miss Durand Keber, Mr. and Mrs. Harvard MacIntyre, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Murphy, Mrs. Dan Felles and family, and Miss Margaret Tobin, all of Portland; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schroeder and family, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Parton and family, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bernards, and Mr. and Mrs. Antoine DeJardin, all of Salem; Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Coleman of St. Paul; Mr. and Mrs. Ted C. Bernards, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Bernards, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Bernards, all of McMinnville; Mr. and Mrs. Harley Anderson of Carllon; Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Van Dyke of Forest Grove; Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Donnelly of Aurora; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kasberger of Hillsboro; Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Kasberger of Moses Lake, Washington.
