The Sportmeter By A. C. JONES, Capital Journal Sports Editor

Winner and New Champion

We're glad we were looking at the TV screen last night when Floyd Patterson landed that hard left in the fifth round to send Archie Moore to the canvas. Otherwise we would have missed the fight. Outside of that it was a carefully guarded maneuver . . . . As soon as the too-old-to-be-fight As soon as the too-old-to-be-fight-ing Moore appeared, several around the room commented that he looked too fat to last long (187 pounds on a 5-foot-11 frame) and we rather doubt the "Tale of the Tape" in yesterday's newspapers that said Moore has a 32-inch

You remember when the $84,000 Ques-tion quiz program was young on TV and a lady psychiatrist wan the jackpot on the subject of boxing? She insisted then, with the intui-tion of a female, that Patterson would be the next world heavy-weight champion. We smiled tolerantly . . .

Oregon boxing fans will be interested to note that Peter Muel-ler, the humorous German who fought Vince Martinez in Pert-land last year, yesterday won the middleweight championship of Ger

Delayed All-Star List Surprising

Not all Northwest conference coaches conform to the decision to hold announcement until today of the 1956 all-star football team. We read it in two different Idaho papers last Tuesday but sat on the secret dutifully. As far as we can see, it was held in order for Portland newspapers to give it a good spread that would not detract from last week's announcement of the all-state high school squad . . .

Surprise: What happened to Earl Engebretson, the bull-like fullback of Lewis & Clark, who was on the first team all-stars last year, but only honorable mention this year behind Willamette's Chuck Koani and Whitman's Ken Johnson? . . . It was a close yote between Jimmy Johnson of Lewis & Clark and Ron Parrish of Linfield for quarterback. Parrish, despite leading the conference in passing, was on the second team . . .

We wonder who the two U. of Oregon players were who did not vote for Witte on the all-opponents team . . . That's some jumping—that 5-9¼ by an American woman in the Olympics today for a new world record. In fact, that's one-quarter inch higher than we did in

Class B Schools Handicapped

We like to talk to Ray Stephens, the Amity football coach, after something happens like booting Amity out of the Yawama league (two years ago) or like the OSAA action of yesterday refusing to raise the Class B limit to 200 students. Stephens is a wry fellow and quite realistic, we'd say. The OSAA feels that Class B should be in the 0 to 150 bracket, which means that schools like Amity with 154 enrollment sometimes find themselves playing schools of 400, since the A-2 bracket extends from 150 to 500.

Raising the Class B limit "would be too logical and sensible for the OSAA to do," Stephens remarked, With the war crop bables reaching high school, and with consolidations, more and more are moving out of Class B. Sele and Jeferson are approaching that mark, and, in Class A-2, some like Silverton and Dallas are getting near the A-1 water mark. . . Amity won the state B grid title under Stephens in 1947 and was runnerup in 1953, which promitted the Yawana league to out the Warriers. prompted the Yawama league to oust the Warriors . . . Washington has a limit of 200, Stephens points out.

Medford's defensive strategy backfired on the third play of the game and that was the ball game, although the Tornado gained a 7-7 tie and stayed around for awhile.

Then the Pirates split the defense at right guard. Shanley was through and past the tight, sparse secondary in a flash. He went 67 yards, probably without a hand on him. The game was only 1:44
