Democratic Leaders Head Reception Lineup

Thanksgiving Marks Demo Victory Dinner

700 Attend Event Held in Salem Armory

By JAMES D. OLSON
Capital Journal Writer

Thanksgiving and rejoicing marked the statewide Democratic victory dinner, attended by approximately 700 men and women from all sections of the state, held at the Salem armory Saturday night.

Leading successful Democratic candidates such as United States Senator Wayne Morse, Congressmen-elect Charles Porter, Fourth Congressional district, and Al Ullman, second district, and Governor-elect Robert D. Holmes, thanked their individual staffs, county committeemen and women and Democratic workers in the grass roots.

Teamwork Cited

All said that election of a Democratic governor in Oregon for the first time in 22 years, a Democratic-controlled house, first since 1937, re-election of Morse, re-election of Congresswoman Edith Green and wins by the two Democratic congressmen, was all due to teamwork on the part of all Democratic candidates.

"We didn't have any prima donnas in this campaign," Sen. Morse declared. "Every candidate was working in behalf of the others, not for himself alone."

U. S. Senator Richard L. Neuberger launched a boom for Morse for a "position beyond the Senate of the United States," saying the senior Oregon senator's record qualifies him for the first or second spot on national Democratic ticket in 1960.

When an outburst of applause greeted that statement, Neuberger said "Your enthusiasm is not alone. I mentioned the same things at meetings in the two largest cities in California and my statements there were greeted with the same reaction and enthusiasm as tonight."

Morse responded by declaring "The greatest treasure a man can have is a biased friend."

Sees Further Victories

Out of the 1956 victory, Morse said, the Oregon Democrats would march on to further victories in 1958, 1960 and 1962.

"And I will work just as hard in these campaigns as I did in 1956," he said.

The victory being celebrated, he said, was due to the unified work of the party in Oregon, saying he had never witnessed such well-rounded organizations, both on the state level and throughout the 36 counties of the state.

Prolonged applause greeted Governor-elect Holmes, the final speaker on the evening program. After expressing his gratitude to all who assisted him in the campaign, Holmes pointed to a large banner posted on the armory by the National Guard and said "I hope this great team will become the 'Oregon National Guard'."

"We are now the majority party in fact," Holmes said, "and with that comes the responsibilities. With humility we accept this responsibility," he said.

Conferences Being Held

Holmes said that conferences were being held at which "we are drawing a blueprint towards getting a better Oregon." Pledges made during the campaign are being included in this blueprint, which, he said, would be implemented by proper legislation.

As a result of these conferences, the house of representatives is better organized right now than it has ever been in past years. He called on the Democrats to improve their organizations.

"We must not view the 1958 campaign as one which is two years away," Holmes said. "Rather, we should look upon it as being but two weeks away."

"Nothing succeeds like success," Holmes said. "If we make this administration a success the elections will take care of themselves. We must work for the benefit of the Republicans as well as the Democrats. And we must remember that the Democratic party is the one party of all the people."

"With God's help we will do the job," he concluded.

All dinner speakers struck a serious note with the single exception of Congressman-elect Charles Porter, who arose and looking at State Chairman Robert Boyer who was master of ceremonies, and at Holmes, he said:

"Bob, Bob, my fellow big shots—and voters."

The remainder of his talk was in a light vein.

A gold trophy was awarded to Oscar Kendall, county chairman in Benton county, as the outstanding county chairman in the state and a plaque was handed to Howard Morgan for his years of work as Democratic chairman which, Chairman Boyer said, was the groundwork for the 1954 victory by Neuberger and the 1956 Democratic victory just experienced.

Robert Y. Thornton, attorney general, said Nov. 6 would be a historic day for Oregon Democrats.

"The 1957 legislature will be the test and the Democratic party will also be on the spot," Thornton said. "But so will the Republicans in the legislature."

Senator Wayne Morse had a warm greeting for his campaign manager, Mrs. Jean Lewis, as she came through the reception line Saturday. Mrs. Morse is at right. (Capital Journal Photo)

Lenin-Stalin Tomb Closed

MOSCOW (AP) — The Lenin-Stalin tomb in Moscow's Red Square was closed Monday without immediate official explanation. A tourist official said he had been informed the tomb would remain closed until mid-January.

Ever since Nikita Khrushchev, first secretary of the Communist Party, launched the de-Stalinization campaign last Feb. 20 there has been speculation outside Russia that Stalin's embalmed body eventually would be moved from the tomb.

CLEAR LAKE (Special) — Cub Scouts in Den 12, receiving awards at the pack meeting were, Wolf badges, James Landrith, David Bair and Victor Wilder. Bear badge, Stephen Smith.
