Sack Appeal Deadline Near

Attorneys for George Sack, under death sentence for slaying his wife, have only two days in which to file an appeal from the decision of the Oregon supreme court to the United States supreme court.

The deadline for the appeal is Friday, supreme court officials said.

Some time ago Oregon's highest court affirmed Sack's first-degree murder conviction in the Multnomah circuit court. He has been held in Rocky Butte jail in Portland since his conviction.

He was under sentence to die in the gas chamber at the state penitentiary Dec. 15. In the event an appeal is made the state supreme court will be asked to stay his execution pending decision by the U.S. supreme court.

Shrine Hospital Will Get $4300 From Salem Club

A check for $4,300 will be presented to the Portland Shriners Crippled Childrens hospital by the Salem Shrine club, A. W. Morris, 1957 president, announced at a club meeting held at the Hotel Senator Tuesday night.

The check will be presented by Paul Hale, Sr., retiring president of the club at a special ceremonial in Portland. The money represents net proceeds derived from the Salem Shriner club golf tournament and a horse show held last summer.
