

EUB Members To Hold Rally For Church

To facilitate the cost of underwriting a proposed new church, members of the First Evangelical U. B. church will engage in a rally service Sunday morning at 10:30. Rev. A. G. Jamieson, pastor, will preach on the subject "The Most Important Thing."

Members of the First EUB congregation recently voted by a 3 to 1 margin to purchase four lots on South Liberty street, between Kearney and Mission. A new church will be built there when the present location at Summer and Marion streets has to be turned over to the state in connection with the Capitol Mall expansion program.

Several sites were selected before the South Liberty street property was purchased.

Varied Church Events Slated For Lebanon

LEBANON (Special)—Universal Bible Sunday will be observed by local churches, with the Church of the Nazarene holding young people's services at 6:45 p. m. Sunday on the topic "The Bible Speaks Today."

The Church of the Nazarene and the First Christian church are each making displays of unusual Bibles. About 100 have been placed in the showcase of the First Christian church, ranging from one inch in size to large Bibles. One is dated 1048, one crossed the plains to Oregon, one is written in the original Greek, and several different translations are in the display.

LEBANON (Special)—A program on the Holy Land, with pictures and talks, will be given by Lebanon members of the First Christian church at the First Christian church in Silvertown Dec. 13, at 6:30 p. m. Mrs. Orville Soule, the Rev. and Mrs. L. O. White, Judy and Ann Morse, Elizabeth Benner and Tony Hayden will tell about their recent trip. The Rev. Gerald Sawyer will sing.

On Friday, Dec. 14, Mrs. White, Judy and Ann Morse and Mrs. Blewford Osburn will give a similar program at the McMinnville Christian church.

LEBANON (Special)—Christmas boxes have been mailed to former Lebanon residents Dorced Billings, missionary, and Mack Wilcox, soldier on Guam, by the MIA of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

LEBANON (Special)—Kindergarten PT of St. Martin's Episcopal church will hear the Rev. Louis B. Keiter, rector of All Saints church in Portland, at their meeting Wednesday, Dec. 12, at 8 p. m. in the parish hall. Mr. Keiter is chairman of the Department of Christian Education of the Diocese of Oregon, and will give "Re-light and the Five Year Old" and answer parents' questions.

CROWFOOT (Special)—Special meetings started Tuesday at Crowfoot Wesleyan Methodist church and will continue through Dec. 17 at 7:30 p. m. each night except Saturday. The Rev. E. H. Baker of Salamanca, N.Y., is in charge.

LEBANON (Special)—As president of the Oregon Christian Missionary society and a member of the national Home and State Missions Planning Council, the Rev. L. O. White was in St. Louis, Mo., during the past week, taking part in planning sessions.

LEBANON (Special)—The Lebanon Ministerial Association and their families will observe the annual family night Monday, with a turkey dinner at Harden Hall at 5:30 p. m. The arrangements committee includes Mrs. Harvey J. Schmidt, Mrs. Charles H. Reep and Mrs. William Elder.

KNOW YOUR PASTOR Church Members Should Aid Christ in Carrying the Cross

Here is a Salem minister who feels that too many church members are "letting Christ carry the cross instead of shouldering the burden themselves."

He is the Rev. Ernest P. Goulber (P. for Preston), who is currently in his fifth year as pastor of Jason Lee Methodist church, North Winter and Jefferson streets.

The Rev. Mr. Goulber is not cynical about the situation but being a man who doesn't dodge the issue, made the statement in a manner-of-fact way as he consented to an interview concerning his life as a preacher.

Mr. Goulber welcomes the help in church attendance, but believes there "isn't too much depth to the religion" being professed by some folk. "Many seek God in times of distress and uncertainty, only to lose sight of Him when difficulties have disappeared," remarked the pastor.

Born in Crescent City, Calif., the son of a Southern Methodist preacher, Rev. Goulber grew up in the Puget Sound country where he received his public school education. He graduated from the College of Puget Sound, Tacoma, and then went to the Boston University School of Theology. He spent six years in Boston as a student and as a pastor.

Returning to the west he became minister of a Spokane, Wash., church in 1934 and then moved to Tacoma. He served a hitch as chaplain with the U. S. navy during World War II and after receiving his discharge accepted a pastorate at Moscow, Idaho. After six years in that college community he was assigned to Jason Lee.

Rev. Goulber believes that no minister can faithfully serve a membership of more than 600 without having to rely on assistance from subordinates. He has a Willamette university undergraduate helping him with the youth of his congregation.

Jason Lee has managed to hold its own in the matter of membership in spite of the fact that numerous persons have shifted to Trinity and Morningside Methodist churches since their establishment in recent years.

The Jason Lee church plant has been repaired and added to since Rev. Goulber took over the assignment. He has managed to keep his program moving in spite of physical handicaps that beset him during recent months. First he had to have a severe back operation. Then he became a victim of infectious jaundice, believed to have resulted from a blood transfusion. Just the other day he "fell over his feet" while going out to wash his car and broke a couple of ribs.

Rev. and Mrs. Goulber have three children, a son, Preston, studying voice at C.P.S., and two married daughters. His wife, the former Ellena Hart, is a graduate musician and like most assistants as he endeavors to keep the church functioning smoothly.

Rev. Goulber is a member of the Salem Kiwanis Club, Marion Post of the American Legion and chairman of the Migrant Committee of the Council of Churches.

Summit Church Will Dedicate Organ Sunday

ORCHARD HEIGHTS—Sunday will mark another step forward for the Summit Methodist church on Orchard Heights, when the new sanctuary organ is dedicated in a 3:00 p. m. service. The new church organ was installed last weekend and has already added much to the atmosphere of worship in the church. The Sunday afternoon Dedication Service will feature a short message by student pastor Glen Murray and an organ recital by Allen Simmons, church organist.

Members of the church put on a hard, sacrificial drive to contact friends and members for contributions to the organ fund. Due to the concentrated effort, the new instrument is completely paid for. Working especially hard to raise the necessary funds were John W. Simmons, James Best, and Lester Lippert.

Summit Methodist church was erected on its present site in 1903, and only a few years ago celebrated its 50th Anniversary. For a number of years it was a member of a circuit with West Salem and Oak Grove. Last year was the first time for many years that a student pastor from Willamette University served the church. Murray is now in his second year at Summit church, located just behind Popcorn school.

The addition of the new organ is just one of the many improvements made in the church in the past year. Only a few weeks ago, volunteer laborers completed painting the Sunday school rooms and adding some cupboards. New altar furniture had been added in the sanctuary earlier this year.

Presbyterian Bible Sunday

Universal Bible Sunday will be observed at First Presbyterian church at 9:45 and 11 a. m. services Sunday with the sermon by Dr. Paul Poling answering Prophet Jeremiah's question "Any Word From the Lord?"

Dr. Dean K. Brooks, superintendent of the Oregon State hospital, will speak before the Men's club at the church Tuesday night following a 6:30 dinner in the social hall.

Communion at St. John's Sunday

Communion will be celebrated at St. John's Lutheran church this Sunday, says the Rev. Walter G. Boss, pastor. His sermon topic for the second Sunday in Advent will be "The Glory of the Coming of the Lord," Psalm 24 is the text.

The Rev. H. Hartwig will be the assisting pastor for the communion service.

The Sunday School children will meet in the Fellowship Hall at 2:30 p. m. for their Christmas program celebration.

Bible Questions

Five more Bible questions are asked today by the Rev. D. J. Ferguson, as follows:

What woman swore because she lost money?

What woman lived in a "college in the Bible?"

What woman was the first to be buried in a cemetery?

Who was the scarlet woman?

Who was the first woman whose age is recorded?

Answers to last week's questions will be found in Edith 3-2, Dan 1-11, Esth. 1-4, Acts 16-26, 2 Kings 19-25.
