Virtually All Released To Parents After Judgments

Charged with a variety of offenses, 16 juveniles were processed Wednesday by the Marion County juvenile department. In virtually all instances they were released to their parents after judgment had been pronounced.

Six of the juveniles were from the Turner area, five from Mt. Angel, four from Woodburn and one from Portland.

Curfew Violation Charged

The Turner defendants were charged with violation of a curfew ordinance, while two boys, aged 14 and 15, were accused of the theft of gasoline. The theft was admitted.

The Woodburn youths, 13, 14, 15 and 16 years old, had been arrested on petty larceny charges involving the theft of gasoline from county equipment stored at Woodburn. All were required to make restitution.

Restitution Ordered

Also ordered to make restitution for the theft of some $50 worth of articles from a barn on the outskirts of Mt. Angel were the five boys of that community. They had been arrested by a Marion county sheriff's deputy.

Speeding on the Baldock Freeway resulted in the suspension of the driver's license of a 16-year-old Portland girl. The suspension was for a 30-day period.

In the collection this year were, according to report, a couple of fur coats.

Quorum Lack Prevents Meet

Lack of a quorum prevented the Marion County Planning Commission from taking official action on an agenda planned for study Wednesday night. Only four of the nine members were present.

It is probable the commission will not be asked to meet until February 20. David W. Baker is planning technician of the group.

Lebanon Man Damages Car

A car driven by Graham P. Upham, 34, Lebanon, was heavily damaged when it went into the ditch, swerved across the road, rode up an embankment and overturned Wednesday afternoon on South 12th street, state police reported.

Upham was not seriously injured in the accident, city first aid men reported. He was shaken up and bruised but apparently suffered no other injuries, they said.

Officers said the northbound Upham car went into the ditch on the right side and then swerved back onto the road to climb the embankment on the left side and tipped over. Time of the accident was set at 3:45 p.m.

Three Damage Suits Caused By Accidents

Three Marion county accidents were involved in the same number of damage suits filed in circuit court here Wednesday afternoon.

Walter Steinbrook, 16, 840 Cummings Ln., is asking $19,390 in a suit filed by his guardian, Pauling Steinbrook, against Richard Lee Haines and Chester L. Haines, 1329 Shady lane, as a result of an accident last October.

Young Steinbrook was riding a motor scooter on North River road when struck by a car driven by Richard Lee Haines. Steinbrook suffered a fractured ankle and multiple abrasions, according to the complaint.

Howard Smith, Dallas, asks $19,110 in a suit filed against C. H. Jones, 5505 Ridge Dr., in connection with an accident last October on a road between Dallas and Valley Junction.

Smith charged negligence on Jones' part in that the collision occurred when Jones turned his vehicle out of the direct line of traffic.

As a result of the accident, the complaint says, Smith suffered spine and neck injuries.

Eva Kabatoff, Rt. 2, charges in a suit that the Parker-Schram Co. and "John Doe" Littrell were negligent in an accident occurring in August, 1955, on Hopmere road at the Baldock freeway.

Littrell was driver of a truck belonging to the construction company when he was involved in an accident with a car driven by Miss Kabatoff. The firm was working on the freeway construction at the time.

Miss Kabatoff asks $14,500 damages for injuries suffered in the accident.

Schools Plan to Collect Garb

"World Clothing Week" will be observed in all Salem public schools, January 21-25, when clean, wearable children's and adult clothing will be collected for distribution in 30 different countries in the Far East, western Europe and the Americas.

Announcement of the program on the local level was made by Supt. Charles D. Schmidt, who said information concerning the project would be provided parents by their children.

Sheets, pillow cases and blankets are needed as well as wearing apparel. Low-heeled shoes are urgently needed. They should be tied in pairs and it was suggested the operation would be speeded materially if clothing is wrapped in paper and securely tied.

Residents without children are asked to take their contributions to the nearest elementary school. The Christian Children's Fund, Inc., St. Louis is the central agency in charge of the project.

World Clothing Week Scheduled for Jan. 21-25

ment fixing uniform standards of assistance.

The commission, within the limits of available funds, takes into consideration all basic requirements for a standard of living compatible with decency and health. These standards include food, shelter, clothing, fuel, utilities, medical care and other essential items.

Both state and federal law make it mandatory that income such as OASI benefits, veterans benefits, State Industrial Accident compensation, unemployment compensation, income from relatives and any other available resources be taken into account in arriving at the amount of the old-age assistance grant.

Marion Load Has Slight Upward Tendency

The Marion county public welfare commission is currently spending $86,000 a month on old age assistance for 1,335 individual cases, reported Kenneth Peterson, administrator of the organization as he elaborated on a statement issued from the state public welfare commission.

The state commission's statement dealt with the recent tragedy in Klamath county where a recipient of old age assistance killed the administrator and seriously injured a commissioner because he felt he wasn't being dealt with justly.

Slight Upward Tendency

Peterson said the old age assistance load in Marion county is showing a slight upward tendency in recent weeks after experiencing a decline during the past two years.

A recommendation by Governor Robert Holmes, contained in his message to the legislature, that the so-called dependency law involving assistance to needy relatives be repealed is an undetermined factor for figuring financial relief loads, said Peterson. He reported that already his office has received inquiries concerning the governor's recommendation.

Old-age assistance, commonly called a "pension," is provided on a budgetary need basis taking into consideration the individual's requirements, with the state department

The 61-year-old fire captain has been with the department almost continuously since 1920 and has been shift captain at the West Salem fire station since 1951.

In other business Wednesday, the commission accepted the resignation of Patrolman William D. Russell, who has left the department to take over a Salem restaurant, and accepted the name of John Rose from the police department eligibility list.

It was noted by the commission that fire and police department entrance examinations are set for January 23, fire department promotional exams are set for March and police promotional exams for July. There are 14 police applications and 12 fire department applicants.

The next meeting of the commission was set for February 20.

rather large proportion of the number out of work is due to the closure of small sawmills when lumber prices dropped. Many have not been able to reopen.

Fire, Police Entrance Tests Scheduled on January 23

Each county public welfare commission sets a maximum standard allowance for shelter that can be found within the community, compatible with decency and health. Locally the average cost to the county for housing is $40. However, in cases of large families the commission may pay as much as $65 or $70 for adequate shelter. In any event the amount the county will pay is determined after a general survey.

Utility allowances, such as electricity for lights, refrigeration, water heating and cooking, range from $1.50 to $8.15, depending upon the number in the family.

Administrator Peterson reports that the outlay for general assistance is running higher than usual for this time of year. This type of aid is given to employable persons who are not able to find work. They are given a sum that equals 85 per cent of their food costs. A
