Farm Bureau's Dinner for Legislators Well Attended

Biennial dinner party given by Oregon Farm Bureau to honor legislators, state officials and legislative press, was a big event of Wednesday night at Izak Walton league hall, about 300 attending and enjoying "good entertainment and wonderful food."

It was an all-Oregon products dinner, the star of the menu being charcoal broiled chicken. There were big baked potatoes, carrots and corn, a vegetable relish plate, a great variety of salads featuring Oregon fruits and vegetables; wheat-nut rolls, featuring processed wheat (ala) and crunchy shortcake, made with Oregon wheat and topped with strawberries and ice cream. And of course, a carton of Oregon milk at every place, and heaps of Oregon butter for potatoes and rolls. (Below, we give you the recipes for the rolls and shortcake.)

The workers putting on the dinner did a beautiful job, considering the cramped kitchen space in which to work, but the dinner was put out quickly, cafeteria style.

The entertainment was short but outstanding, featuring Jim Caraniz in some spectacular acts of magic, and Bob Monroe, Molalla, who sang some folk songs. Mrs. Eileen Bennett played the organ throughout the evening.

George W. Dewey, Jr., executive secretary for the Farm Bureau, was master of ceremonies and welcomed the guests. Also introduced were two students from Turkey, who are in this country under the national Farm Bureau exchange student program.

Among those spotted from our section: James Short, state director of agriculture, and Mrs. Short; State Treasurer and Mrs. Sigfrid B. Unander, Attorney General and Mrs. Robert Y. Thornton, State Superintendent of Public Instruction Rex Putnam; the following in the Marion county legislative delegation, Senator and Mrs. Lee Osmari, Senator and Mrs. Sidney Schlessinger, Representatives and Mesdames Robert L. By CAROLYN MADSEN (Capital Journal correspondent)
UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene (Special)—The beginning relaxation of winter term seems to be coming to an end as the library fills up with students studying for midterms. The end of this week and all of next week seems to be the favorite time of most U of O professors to give exams. Some of the Salemites who were present at the auction were Roger Weaver, Phil Chadsey, Sandy Carter, Jan Woodroffe, Jane Barlow, Julie Astrup, Karen Johnson, Ren Stevens, Larry Smith, Dave Mendenhall, Liz Walton, Bob Prall, and Jan McAlpine.

This Saturday night the freshmen will give their annual Snow-Ball dance. During the intermission the Snow Queen and the Snow King will be crowned.
