Washington Scene . . .

—By Lillian Porter Say

Washington, Jan. 25 (Special): "After the ball is over . . . After the stars are gone; Many a heart is aching; After the ball."

We didn't check on the hearts but we know about the aching feet after four inaugural balls.

So does Oregon's first lady.

On her first visit to the nation's capital, Mrs. Robert D. Holmes really had a whirl. In a white bouffant formal whose tucked tulle fell softly over white taffeta she walked with her husband in the mammoth National Guard armory. Overhead was a ceiling of white satin. Studded with gold and silver stars, clusters of red, blue, and grey plume, a new fabric, swept from the walls. At one end of the ballroom was a giant replica of the Presidential seal and at the other end was an equally large one of the Vice Presidential seal.

Sharing the Oregon box with Governor and Mrs. Holmes were Mr. and Mrs. J. Basil Burke, formerly of Gearhart but now Washington resident. Mrs. Burke's dress was a jewel encrusted tulle. Also paying their respects to the Holmes were Commander (USN) and Mrs. Ward Peterson. Prior to an assignment here, they lived at Tongue Point near Astoria. In a nearby box were Governor and Mrs. Goodwin Knight of California and a little farther on Governor and Mrs. Orville Freeman of Minneapolis. Singing "The Star Spangled Banner" in the same place, and almost at the same time, four years ago was Jeanette MacDonald.

Mrs. Holmes caught only a glimpse of the President and First Lady before surging crowds blocked them out.

At Hotel Statler it was different. A grand march was actually formed. All were quiet when the arrival of the President was announced. Preceding the color guard a detail of Annapolis Coast Guard and West Point cadets lined up beautiful ladies in fabulous frocks and men who added a dramatic note of their own in white tie and tails. Moving its back was an eager-eyed West Point man from Seattle, who catching the word, "Oregon" stopped to shake hands.

The President and First Lady were generous. Couples promoted by their box at the end of the room. With as many as possible the Eisenhowers shook hands. Mamie rose to show everyone the lines of her pale yellow lace dress, a creation that will rank with the early ones in the First Ladies' collection for tiny iridescence.

Sojourners Party Event of Thursday
Salem Sojourners club party was an event of Thursday at the Salem Woman's club. A dessert was served by the committee, with a business meeting and cards following.

Centerpieces of geraniums made a colorful decoration for each table.

Chairman for the day was Mrs. Jack Haller. She was assisted by Mrs. Ted Lawrence, Mrs. Charles Croley, Mrs. Stanley Rollinson and Mrs. Quentin Bowman.

Four new members were welcomed. Mrs. Clyde Fahlin, Mrs. Wilfred Thomas, Mrs. Harold Proctor and Mrs. Wallace Brennan.

Prospective members attending were Mrs. Ted Baker and Miss L. Mildred Wilson.

Second-time visitors were Mrs. Fred Lund, Mrs. L. C. Johnson, Mrs. Edward Fritsch, Mrs. Anthony Leschin, Mrs. C. K. Falkestad and Mrs. Glen Alford.

The special prize went to Mrs. B. J. Cleary. Bridge prizes were won by Mrs. Don Hanna, Mrs. E. H. Cowan, Mrs. Robert Wallace and Mrs. I. F. Bryan.

Members of the board of Salem Sojourners club met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Harold Parsons. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. R. C. Caccin and Mrs. M. A. Titus.

Bridge was played following the dessert and business meeting.

LEBANON (Special)—Funds for Kate Duncan Smith and Tennessee schools to help provide education for children of mountain families of the south were voted Monday by Santiam chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Funds for Cherokee Indian school were voted at a previous meeting.

LEBANON (Special)—Mr. and Mrs. Joe Leonard are entertaining with a family birthday dinner in their home on Sunday, honoring the birthdays of Miss Agnes Haines and Mrs. Wendell Gilbert. Both observe birthdays January 31.

WOODBURN (Special)—A large crowd attended the public installation of the officers of Evergreen assembly No. 12, Order of the Rainbow for Girls, Wednesday night at the Masonic temple when Miss Carole Foster, daughter of the mother adviser, Mrs. Fern Foster, was installed as the new worthy adviser, succeeding Miss Carol Ann Livesay.

Miss Livesay was the installing worthy adviser, assisted by Miss Annie May Butterfield of Portland, past worthy adviser of Rose City assembly, as installing chaplain; Miss Marilyn Roberts as installing recorder, Miss Ruth Marie Applegate as installing marshal, and Miss Joann Meyer as installing musician.

The Rev. Donald B. Eaton, vicar of St. Mary's Episcopal church, gave a blessing at the beginning of the installation. Special guests honored in the east were worthy advisers, Misses Susan Jackson of Venus assembly, Donald, Clots McMorris of Cherry Dale assembly, and Carolyn Smith, Laurel assembly Canby, and past worthy adviser, Annie May Butterfield of Rose City Assembly, Portland. Mother advisers were Mrs. Bair, Laurel assembly, Canby; Mrs. Ebbe, Cherry assembly, Salem; and Mrs. Simpson, Venus assembly, Donald.

Also honored were Lief Peterson, worthy patron of Evergreen Chapter, O.E.S., Roy Paulson, worshipful master of Woodburn Lodge A.F. & A.M., Ralph Pickering, DeMolay dad; Clarke Pickering, master counselor of Woodburn; DeMolay; Fidel Gavioli, master counselor elect of Woodburn chapter of DeMolay; past mother advisers, Mrs. Neal Butterfield, Mrs. Tom DeArmond of Evergreen assembly, Mrs. Alf Nelson of Venus assembly, Miss Foster introduced her family. Other officers of Evergreen assembly installed for the winter term were: Miss Judy Schmid, worthy associate adviser; Miss Betty Lou Brit, charity; Mrs. Charlene Shaner, hope; Miss Nancy Reiling, faith; Miss Doris Bright, recorder; Miss Nancy Cornwell, treasurer, and the following appointive officers: Misses Carolyn Byers, chaplain; Joyce Jeffery, drill leader; Lucille Joyce, assistant drill leader; Tomi Painter, love; Mary Annette Fikani, religion; Nancy Ohrist, nature; Judy Spagle, immortality; Judy Morris fidelity; Joy Schimpf, patriotism; Nancy Ticknor, service; Janice Black, confidential observer; Elaine Allen, outer observer; Selma Wright, musician; Louise Fulton, choir director; Sharon Pulos, Barbara Schnee, Nancy Sanford, Carol Ramage, Harriet an Arsdale, Judy Cornwell, Irene Livesay, choir; Judy Bonacker, historian; Diana Ohrist, Judy Reed, custodians; Judith Brusven, Selma Brusven, pages; Charlotte Seely, drill team captain; and Joanne Norris, Tamara Majors, Beadie Cummings, LaVan Heiden, Shirley Marks, Pat Colby, Lynne Higginbotham, Barbara Paulson, Pat Palmer and Diane Ketchum, drill team; Sheila Doerfler, publicity.

Members of the junior bow are Linda Rappe, love; Delane Claiborne, religion; Barbara Blevans, nature; Linda Miller, immortality; Sonja Glick, fidelity; Esther Reiling, patriotism; and Donna Lantis, service.

Members of the advisory board installed were Mrs. Fern Foster, mother adviser, Mr. and Mrs. Lief Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Seely, Mr. and Mrs. Jess Fikani, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Leighty, Mrs. Frank Doerfler and Mrs. Edward Heiden. A gift from the board was presented to Mrs. Foster.

The crowning ceremony was conducted by Woodburn chapter of DeMolay and Mrs. Robin Hall "The Lord's Prayer." Paul Wadsworth, cousin of Miss Foster, presented her with a bouquet of red roses from DeMolay.

The program included a vocal trio by Misses Darlene and Arlene Sampson and Judy Buchanan; trumpet solos by Dennis Bunn, Pep band music by Charles Nathman, Lynn Higginbotham, Darrel McCall, Rod Olson and Barbara Paulson, and a vocal solo by Mrs. Robin Hall.

Mrs. Fern Foster, mother adviser was in charge of serving refreshments. At the coffee urn were Miss Helen Hiller and Mrs. Marshall Hicks; Mrs. Homer G. Wadsworth served punch and Mrs. Marion Painter served the cake. Assisting Mrs. Foster were Frank Doerfler, Mr. and Mrs. Veri Hersherberger, Mrs. Gardner Jeffery, Mrs. James Bright and Mrs. Wadsworth.

pearls, yellow crystal drops and translucent topaz. She held up her beaded bag to show the raised letter "M" on one side and "1957" on the other.

Seeing the First Lady for the first time was Miss Eva Ekwall of Sweden. "I can't believe she is real—she is so beautiful. Wait until I write home about this!"

Republican national committeewoman for Oregon, Mrs. Collis P. Moore of Moro was here for her first inaugural. At the ball she wore charcoal gray enlivened by a high sash of watermelon satin. Of Mamie's dress, Mrs. Moore said: "It isn't frilly or 'cute,' it is simply beautiful in its dignity and splendor."

At the Mayflower hotel we met Ambassador Ben-Abdoul of Morocco, who has just been appointed to Washington. His dark-eyed wife who is learning English asked him in Arabic to tell me that she was entranced by the inaugural parade.

"She was so impressed," translated her husband, "by the diversity of the United States and yet its unity." Added the Ambassador, "She found that such a strange and wonderful thing."

Harpist at the Mayflower was Genevieve Duffy of Oklahoma who had played before Vice President and Mrs. Nixon but never before the President. Selected by the orchestra was a group of songs of international flavor, such as "Shiek of Araby" and "China Town." We couldn't catch singer Lily Pons for an interview but earlier she had given out that she was leaving for a 20-day period of not speaking in Palm Springs. After such a rest, she will resume her 27th season of "Rigoletto" with the Metropolitan Opera.

Wearing a scarlet and black dress of Elin cloth hand-made by the natives was Mrs. Coleman, wife of the governor of Samoa. Far ornament her jewels were cat's eye, a rare and precious shell found on island reefs.

At the Sheraton-Park, the biggest and newest ballroom in Washington, the crowd stayed longest for the President arrived there on the end of his evening's greetings. Scarcely had the Presidential party left when Vice President and Mrs. Nixon arrived. She is every young wife's dream fulfilled—married to the youngest top career man in the country, mother of two beautiful children, and a perfect figure for size nine. In her ice blue satin all eyes turned to her.

Earlier in the week we met Alie Longworth, daughter of the late President "Teddy" Roosevelt whose ambition is to hostess at inaugural balls "forever."
