

Verdict Today Not Expected In Two Cases

Two damage suits involving a total of $67,000, being heard in two separate Marion county circuit courts were not expected to reach the jurors Tuesday because of the length of testimony being heard.

Judge Val D. Sloper is hearing the suit brought by George Nelson, a bean yard laborer, against American Cyanamide Co., Meeker-Hughes Co., Stayton Canning Co. and Delbert Sander, Scio bean grower.

Nelson seeks damages of $51,000, alleging he sustained a serious illness by virtue of being poisoned by dusting chemicals that were used on the bean vines to control insects.

The chemical was purchased from the Stayton Canning Co. and much of Tuesday morning's testimony revolved around the cautionary label that was placed on the outside of the sack containing the material.

Judge George Duncan was presiding in the suit in which Paul Irwin, as the guardian of Robert J. Irwin, charges that Bernard A. Stewart and Kermit H. Stewart converted to their own use the plaintiff's interest in the Salem Yellow Cab Co. Damages sought total $18,000.

Draft-Dodging Quip by Wilson Stirs Up Guard

General Calls Defense Chief's Statement A 'Damn Lie'

By EDMOND LE BRETON
WASHINGTON (AP)—A congressional supporter of the National Guard said today he thinks it may get a boost from Secretary of Defense Wilson's remark about "draft dodging" in the Guard.

Sen. Ellard A. Wilson called the statement a "damn lie." Wilson, president of the National Guard Assn., told newsmen that many Guard units had served valiantly in Korea and that "not one of these young men was a draft dodger" since none was old enough for the draft when he enlisted.

The defense secretary said the National Guard was not a "draft dodging proposition," he was testifying before the House Armed Services Committee.

Rep. Charles E. Bennett (D-Fla.), a member of the committee, said he thinks the episode will help the Guard in its fight against a Pentagon order that all new Army guardsmen must take six months' active duty training. The Guard, fearing that it is recruiting will fall away, wants instead to train its men in shorter periods that can fit into school vacations.

Bennett said Wilson's remark should clarify the issue because it "reveals a misunderstanding deep in the Department of Defense as to the ability of the National Guard to handle part of its training in its own program—in fact it shows a deep misunderstanding of Guard accomplishments in the past."

The Guard issue had already been set for study by an Armed Services subcommittee next week. Bennett said he thinks supporters of the Guard point of view will now be in strong position to argue that "the Department of Defense should reappraise the situation."

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Senate Democratic leader, suggested that Wilson apologize for his statement, saying it "casts a cloud upon all Americans who have served in the National Guard at great personal sacrifice."

Bill Could Outlaw Knife Possession

Switch blade knives, the favorite weapon used by some teenagers, would be outlawed in Oregon if a bill introduced by Rep. W. J. Holmstrom (D-Clatsop) is approved by the legislature.

The bill would prohibit the manufacture, sale and possession of switch knives in the state of Oregon.

Wilson Won't Apologize for Guard Remark

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson said Tuesday he sees no reason why he should apologize for his assertion that "a sort of scandal" in a draft-dodging business developed in the National Guard enlistments during the Korea War.

Talking with newsmen at the White House after a conference with President Eisenhower, Wilson refused to back down on his statement of Monday. In effect, he repeated the charge.

In reply to a question Wilson said he did not discuss the matter with the President.

"I told that some senators had suggested he ought to apologize to the National Guard," Wilson replied emphatically.

"I know of no reason why I should."

Loading Zone Question Still Not Decided

The Court apartments, located at Court and Cottage streets, are going to be without a loading zone for another two weeks at least.

The city council voted Monday to have a study made of the loading zone situation in the block of Cottage street between Court and Chemeketa.

Owners of the apartment had claimed that a loading zone on Cottage street used by tradesmen had disappeared and that a parking meter had taken its place.

At a council meeting two weeks ago a request was made that the meter be removed and the loading zone designated. The council, believing that it was a request for a loading zone, turned down the idea.

At the meeting Monday the council decided to reconsider the question but efforts to make a change at the meeting were withdrawn when it appeared evident that there was not a study of the parking situation on the entire block.

Teen-age Boys Charged With School Thefts

Three teen-age youths have been charged with burglary in connection with the week-end safe and cash box thefts from Swegle and Middle Grove schools, state police reported Tuesday.

One of the youths was arrested when he returned to the area where the safe had been hidden after unsuccessful attempts to open it and the others were arrested later from information learned from the first youth. One of the three was turned over to officers by his mother.

The safe taken from Swegle school was hidden under brush near the 1200 block of Madrona avenue Monday was found by Albert Tracy, who was cutting wood in the area, officers said.

Officers removed the battered two-foot-square safe from its hiding place under some brush but left the brush piled to appear that something was hidden under it.

A coin box taken from Middle Grove school had been found Sunday near Swegle school, officers said. It had contained little or no money when taken.

State Willing To Help Widen County Road

The State of Oregon is willing to contribute toward the widening of County Road No. 837, that connects Lancaster drive with Market Road 23, a short distance east of the old Ricker school, according to a letter received by the county court from William C. Ryan, secretary of the board of control.

The contribution of the state would consist of a 10-foot strip from the Cottage farm holdings along the southern boundary of road 837.

Trapped Cat Meows Last

GLENDORA, Calif. (AP)—All is quiet in the Vincent Carta home—and an uneasy quiet it is, too.

The Carta home is the one where a cat, apparently trapped in a wall, meowed for 22 days Monday—the 23rd day—no new news were heard.

When the yowling began to get weaker, Mrs. Carla, an expectant mother, said that if the cat died in the walls, she'd move. Holes were cut in the walls to try and free the animal, but his hiding place, never has been located.

Did the cat wriggle out, or did it die? No one knows.

The Cartas previously were plagued with calls and visits from people who said they knew how to coax the cat out, alive. But no one came forward with advice on removing a dead cat.
