Inflation Dominates Despite Drop in Several Commodities

By WALTER BREED, Jr. NEW YORK (Special)—Prices of several key commodities tumbled this week. But the experts said business over-all would still be dominated by inflation. The new posting—34 cents a pound—is the lowest in two years. It compares with the record high of 46 cents last February. Gasoline prices—recently increased—were cut back to December levels in many parts of the country, asserted for "competitive" reasons. At the same time major petroleum companies trimmed prices of east Texas crude, erasing about 10 cents from the January increase of 35 cents a barrel.

Mundt's defense of Wilson came after the cabinet member denied any intention of reflecting on individuals when he said last Monday there was a "sort of scandal" involved when some young men enlisted in the National Guard during the Korean War and avoided combat service.

The defense secretary said "our criticism is not of the guardsmen" but of a training system which he said is inadequate. Wilson said in a statement last night "it cannot be denied that the lot of those who entered the National Guard and were mobilized was easier than that of the young men who were inducted by Selective Service or who volunteered for the active forces" during the Korean fighting.

Salem New Home For Dutch Family

The Niggebrugge family from Holland has arrived in Salem to begin a new life. Albert Niggebrugge, his wife and children, Edward, 15, and Elsa, 14, are living at 396 South 21st St. They were brought to this town by Mr. and Mrs. Roy M. Lockenour, 1474 Center St. The Dutch family lived in Java until 1947 when they moved to Holland. The island, which had been Dutch territory proclaimed itself a republic in that year.

During the war, Albert Niggebrugge was a captain in the Dutch forces, and was a prisoner of war for four years. He relates that 60 per cent of those imprisoned with him, died of malnutrition and mistreatment. Holland is one-seventh the size of Oregon but has seven times more people. With the surge of people from the Indonesian colony, conditions were overcrowded. So the Niggebrugge family has found a haven in the United States. They speak little English as yet. He is a chemist and is employed at the Zirconium plant in Albany. The children are enrolled in school. Edward at Leslie junior high is in the ninth grade and his sister Elsa in the eighth.
