

Soviet May Disclose Top Policy Revisions At This Week's Meet

Khrushchev May Take Over as Premier

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

Soviet Russia's leaders may make some important pronouncements this week on their newly revised policy.

The Supreme Soviet—the rubber-stamp Parliament of the Soviet Union—is to meet in Moscow Tuesday.

The meeting may prove to be purely routine, like the two held last year. But it could be sensational.

In any event, the speeches made by government leaders are pretty certain to indicate, for one thing, how far they mean to pull back from the liberalized policy which backfired on them last year.

One month ago, there were persistent reports in European capitals, on both sides of the Iron curtain, that some big shifts in the government might be announced at the Supreme Soviet Session.

These reports were that Nikita S. Khrushchev, the Communist Party chief, might take over the prime ministry from Nikolai A. Bulganin.

Visits Planned

Bulganin, it was said, would be given the figurehead post of president while Khrushchev, who holds the real power, would hold the post of prime minister. There has been nothing to substantiate these reports. In fact, there has been a tendency to discount them.

For one reason, it was announced on Jan. 21 that Khrushchev would make a state visit to Communist China in April.

It was announced Friday that Khrushchev and Bulganin would visit Finland this spring. Of course, they could go there with Khrushchev as premier and Bulganin as president.

There was nothing exciting at the last meeting of the Supreme Soviet, last July. But it was at a Supreme Soviet meeting on Feb. 8, 1955, that Georgi M. Malenkov resigned as premier, announcing that he felt inadequate for the job.

Moscow dispatches have said that the Supreme Soviet at this week's session is expected to approve the 1957 budget and perhaps approve some changes in the current five-year plan for industrial development.

Burglars Flee After Police Officers Come

An attempted break-in of a service station early Sunday morning was interrupted when an officer came onto the scene and two men fled, city police reported. The two are believed responsible for a break-in at another nearby business the same night, officers said.

Shortly before 5 a.m., a patrol officer noted two men on the lot at the Ralph Mares service station, 1095 South Commercial St. As he went to check on the situation, the two men spotted him and ran, he said. He radioed for help and other officers were dispatched to check the area but could not find them.

A check of the service station showed that the front door had been pried open with a bar and was badly splintered. A punch and a sledge hammer were found near a truck on the lot, officers said.

The successful break-in occurred at Arden Farms, 920 South Commercial St., where the front door was pried open, being badly splintered in the process. Neither the safe or a cash drawer appeared to have been disturbed, however, and nothing was noted missing, manager Roy E. Farley said. He discovered the break-in about 10:30 a.m.

Oregon Cities Office Opened

Robert R. Johnson, who recently resigned as director of the state department of finance and administration, Monday set up an office in city hall where he will be a legislative consultant for the League of Oregon Cities.

He will keep city officials of the state advised on the progress of legislation in which they are interested and provide information to members of the Legislature and Legislative committees. Johnson will issue weekly bulletins.

Before taking the state office, he was executive secretary of the legislative interim committee on local government, a background which the League of Oregon Cities considered when he was selected for the new position.

At city hall he will occupy Room 302 on the 3rd floor.

Roads Given Pound Limit

As a result of low temperatures that extended over a period of 10 days, most of the roads in the foothills, used by logging trucks, have been placed under a 10,000 pound load limit. Just how long the limit will apply depends on the manner in which the road surfaces thaw.

County Engineer John Anderson said Monday that the closure would virtually shut down log hauling by truck since the load limits have been placed at the source of operations.

While all other vehicles will be allowed to go through, the engineer asks that use of the posted roads be confined to necessity. In other words if a contemplated trip can be postponed for a few days it would be advisable to do so.

The county is following its own advice and where gravel hauling operations are essential, lighter loads are being hauled.

Game Bills Hearing Set

The House Committee on Fish and Game announced Monday it would hold a public hearing Friday, Feb. 8, on eight House bills. The hearing will be held at 1 p.m. in room 422.

The proposals would make carp a non-game fish, clarify the laws on granting licenses to disabled veterans and hearings on screen installations in irrigation canals, and repeal the law that limits salmon catches in the Willamette river and limits gear to one line per person per boat.

The bids on the project are to be opened in Portland at 2 p.m. on Feb. 13 in Room 406 of the Lincoln building.

16-Hour Fire Costs Million In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (UP)—A $1 million five-alarm fire that raged more than 16 hours in the city's Golden Triangle was finally extinguished early today. Nine firemen were injured and more than 30 others overcome by smoke.

The blaze destroyed a six-story building in the heart of Pittsburgh's business district. Fire Chief Stephen Adley, himself overcome by smoke, said the fire was the "most stubborn I've encountered in 27 years."

He estimated fire damage at $1,000,000, but smoke and water loss in neighboring structures was expected to top $1 million. Water filled basements of every building in the block, and all nearby stores reported heavy smoke damage.

Firemen manned aerial ladders to pour additional tons of water on the smoldering ruins early today to prevent a repetition of Sunday night when firemen twice thought they had the blaze under control only to suffer casualties when it broke out again.

The fire broke out about 4:15 a.m. Sunday in a false ceiling of the recently remodeled Fred Astaire dance studios at street level.

Hand Picking Of Jurors Ban Asked in Bill

A bill aimed at preventing "hand picking" of jurors was ordered in the Senate Monday by Sen. Dan Dirnick (D), Roseburg.

Dirnick's bill would require the county clerk or county court to compile jury lists by taking names at random from the tax roll or registration books of the county.

The senator said that during the election campaign, he made the jury selection an issue. He said a study of jury lists in Douglas County turned up a duplication of names that was "almost unbelievable."

In three years in Douglas County, he said, there were 468 duplicated names of jurors, and in 178 instances, the same juror's name appeared for all three years.

The complaint sets forth that Mrs. Graham was taking leaves at her residence during the morning hours of Oct. 23, 1956 when cars driven by Olson and Prentice collided at the intersection of Breyman and 21st streets.

As a result of the crash the car driven by Prentice leaped over the curb and struck the plaintiff, the complaint states. She seeks $10,000 general damages and $473.75 for medical expenses.

Kansas Grabs Jail Breakers After Wild Run

OAKLEY, Kan. (UP)—Three young fugitives, who held two sheriffs hostage and stole four automobiles during the past two days in a wild escape from a Nebraska jail, were captured today in Kansas.

They had fled Kansas only two weeks earlier in another escape from a jail in Topeka, but were caught in Nebraska.

They told sheriff's officers and state patrolmen who captured them in a pasture about eight miles north of Winona, Kan., that they were headed for Pensacola, Fla.

Oakley police jailed the three—Robert McQueen, 25, of Grand Island, Neb.; Robert Loftin, 17, an AWOL airman from Forbes Air Force Base at Topeka, and Larry Wray, 16, of Topeka. Sheriff David Weindland of Logan County said Kansas authorities would file charges.

Kansas highway patrolman Harold Fleckstein spotted the fugitives driving a country road near Winona. He chased them for about 15 minutes, until they wrecked their car. When they scrambled from the automobile, several men in a sheriff's posse were waiting. "We were covering all the roads and pasture there," Weindland said. "They gave up without any trouble."

But, he said they were well armed with "a couple of pistols, a rifle and a shotgun."

Nebraska authorities had alerted law officials in Colorado and Kansas for the three youths after their Saturday night escape in which they brutally beat a Nebraska sheriff.

'Lottery' Held In Courthouse; But It's Legal

Of all places, a "lottery" was held in the Marion county courthouse hearing room Monday morning. In fact there were two of them. However, all was strictly legal and no warrants are expected to be issued as the result.

The "lotteries" resulted from the opening of bids for the county's requirements of asphalt and lubricating oil some time ago.

Four firms presented identical bids for 2,500 tons of asphalt for road building purposes, and two concerns went through the same process in endeavoring to secure a contract for 3,000 gallons of lubricating oil.

A representative of Union Oil company drew the lucky slip of paper out of a hat and thereby won the contract for the asphalt. Richfield got the oil contract in the same manner.

Sen. Johnson Sights Revamp Of Vote Laws

By HERBERT FOSTER
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson predicted today that Congress will revise federal election laws.

His prediction came in the wake of a report by the Senate Elections Subcommittee Saturday that spending on last year's presidential and congressional elections soared far past $33 million.

Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn.), who helped write the report, said he will sponsor a bill to limit campaign gifts and spending. He said it will follow the general recommendations made by the majority of the elections subcommittee.

Gore said he was conferring with Johnson and other leaders of both parties in the Senate and House to work out an acceptable bill. Neither he nor Johnson would discuss its details.

The subcommittee said it found "an unhealthy state of political affairs" in which Republicans ousted Democrats almost two to one. It said there is "imperative and immediate need" of reform legislation.

Johnson and Senate GOP Leader William S. Knowland introduced a "clean elections bill" last year. It went to the Senate Rules Committee and was never seen again.

The subcommittee report was drafted by Gore and Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.), who succeeded him as chairman of the subcommittee. The sole Republican member, Sen. Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska filed a blanket dissent, saying the report "is neither complete nor in accord with the known facts."
