

What Kind of Champ Is Floyd Patterson?

Two Defenses This Year To Tell

By JACK CUDDY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (UP)—What kind of a heavyweight champion is Floyd Patterson?

Right now that's the biggest one-man question in sports. It may be answered partially this year if the youngest heavyweight ruler in history survives his two planned title defenses in June and September.

Both fights are expected to be at Yankee Stadium, and the probable challengers are Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson and Eddie Machen.

At 21, the streamlined boxer-puncher from St. Albans, N.Y., apparently has the body and the fighting philosophy to make him one of the greatest champions of all time.

The ring philosophy that governs his training and fighting is very important. He and Manager Gus D'Amato maintain steadfastly that "the perfect fighter is one who can hit his opponent a stunning blow without getting hit himself."

No Gambler In The Ring
In other words, just because Patterson is a knockout puncher who can hit harder than most of his opponents, he doesn't gamble on taking a blow in order to land one. Even when his man has "opened up" in an exchange, Patterson still is just as alert on defense as offense. He hews to this philosophy more closely than any big-time heavyweight since Gene Tunney.

His ability to avoid ancient Archie Moore's punches in their exchanges at Chicago, meanwhile ripping Archie with combinations, was a feature of his championship victory, Nov. 20.

However, whether young Floyd is half as good as he looked against 40-year-old Archie is a big question. Certainly Moore didn't put up half the fight expected—either because of his own regression or because of Patterson's ability. And Floyd flattened him twice in the fifth round for a knockout.

It must be recalled that our new champion was not nearly as impressive six months before that when he won a split 12-round decision over Hurricane Jackson. However, Floyd fought the last five rounds with a broken head that June night in Madison Square Garden. And most writers agreed he won decisively. The two judges favored him 8-4 and 7-5, but Referee Harry Kessler—who often is out of line in his voting—had Jackson ahead, 6-5-1.

Two-fold Advantage
Patterson's offense-defense balance may be not only (1) his winning method, but (2) a method that will enable him to hold the title for many years because he absorbs a minimum of punishment in the ring. It's punishment, rather than age, that washes up most fighters.

The new champion has a smart business philosophy as well as his ring beliefs. He is making plans to become a public relations man for a large industrial firm while he holds the title. And in order to prevent most of his earnings on that job from being absorbed by taxes, he may take a large part of his pay as stock in the industrial organization—making it a "capital gain" deal.

Because of taxes, Floyd plans no more than two defenses in any year. What will he pay in 1959 or 1965 if he's still champion then? And will he be champion then?

Oregon's Mat Streak Of 18 Wins at Stake

Ducks Go to OSC Saturday; Quint Idle

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene (Special)—Coach Bill Hammer's Oregon wrestlers risk their unbeaten string of 18 dual matches this Saturday afternoon at Corvallis when they take on the tough Oregon State Beavers in the first of two matches scheduled for the season.

Oregon's basketball team draws a bye this weekend and does not play again until next Tuesday when the Ducks go against Oregon State at Corvallis in a non-conference game. Coach Steve Belko's crew plays at home again on Feb. 15 and 16 against the strong Washington Huskies.

The fine Oregon freshman basketball team has a single game set this week when it plays the Oregon College of Education junior varsity at Monmouth on Friday night in an effort to extend its unbeaten string to nine at the expense of the Wolves.

Hammer's wrestlers, who won their final four matches in 1955, swept through nine straight victories last season and now have won five in a row this winter, are expected to have tough sledding against the Beavers. Oregon State has also won five in a row this season and its only two setbacks last year came at the hands of the Ducks.

OCE Can Get Out of Cellar Today at PSC

First of 3 OCC Tilts This Week; Rogers Leads Scoring

(Special to The Capital Journal)

OREGON COLLEGE OF EDUCATION, Monmouth—Bob Livingston's Oregon College basketball squad gets a chance to climb out of the Oregon Collegiate Conference cellar tonight at Portland when they take on the Portland State Vikings at Lincoln High gymnasium. Squads from both schools will play a preliminary game at 6:15.

The PSC encounter tonight will be the first of three OCC games for the Wolves this week. Friday and Lee Allen, the Webfoot 130-pounder who was on the 1956 Olympic team, will be one of the key men in the Ducks' plans this Saturday. He will be joined by George Krupicka at 157 pounds, Dave Newland at 147 pounds, Ken Kelsey at 177 pounds and J. C. Wheeler in the unlimited division. All were first, second or third place winners in the 1956 Pacific Coast championships.

The varsity match Saturday will be preceded by the first of two bouts between the Oregon Ducklings and the OSC Rooks. The Ducklings, made up of novice wrestlers in all but two weight classes, are expected to have a tough time with the experienced Rooks.

Need Marksmanship
Belko said he still was hopeful the Oregon shooting would pick up during the long home stand at McArthur Court. "We aren't getting enough scoring from the outside and it puts a great burden on Hal Duffy and Charlie Franklin inside," Belko said, "and we need to find the answer to keep the defenses honest in the last half of the season."

The Webfoot coach gave the Ducks two days off from practice court Monday and Tuesday and will begin preparations for the next games on Wednesday. After Washington, the Webfoots face UCLA and Oregon State at home and Southern California away.

OREGON CONFERENCE
Team	W. L. Pct.	Team	W. L. Pct.
Tech	8-2	300	7-2	300
Eastern	6-4	250	OCE	2-6	250
Southern	5-5	250

Tuesday game: Oregon College at Portland State.

Saturday nights the Wolves play host to the Southern Oregon Red Raiders, currently the third place team in the conference with a 5-3 record. Oregon Tech leads the conference with an 8-2 record, Eastern Oregon is second with a 6-4 mark, PSC fourth with 3-7 and OCE last with 2-6.

Could Gain 4th
A win for the Wolves tonight would move them to fourth place in the standings and put them in a position to challenge OSC for third place. Three victories for the Wolves would give them a 5-6 conference mark and OSC would be 5-7, if they lose twice to OCE.

PSC holds two previous wins over the Wolves this season and will be favored to notch a third straight on their home floor tonight, but Livingston's cagers showed considerable spirit last Friday in losing to St. Martin's 63-62. Two new Wolfpack scoring threats were uncovered in the St. Martin's game.

Forwards Kelly Hoy and Dale Andrich, who have seen mostly reserve duty in their three seasons with the Wolves, led an OCE second-half comeback that nearly paid off in a win for the Wolves. Hoy scored the Monmouth cagers in driving with 16 points and Hoy clipped in with 14, the best individual point effort by either player in three years at Monmouth.

Rogers Leads Scoring
Both will be in starting lineup tonight, along with Doug Rogers and Cece Miller of Dalzell Wooley at guards. Reserves who probably will see action are Gary Wayne Young and guards Gary Milton and Stan Kenyon.

Rogers regained his individual scoring leadership in the St. Martin's game with a 15-point performance to give him 130 in 12 games.

Miller, who suffered a minor head injury in the Friday tilt, dropped back to second place with 141. Miller, who ranks seventh among the nation's small college free throw percentage leaders with an 87.9 mark, should be back in action tonight. He left the game in the early stages of the first half against St. Martin's and failed to score a single point.

An interesting sidelight on the up-to-date scoring statistics released by OCE today, shows that 16 Wolfpack opponents have committed 14 more fouls (268-255) than OCE, but hold an edge in successful free throws with 282-to-260.

The Wolves lost two one-point decisions last week because of inaccuracies at the free throw line.

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Nothing new in sports?

How about a slalom race for sports cars?

More than 100 of the little racing midgets of all classes will compete in a zig-zag race through mountains of snow at Heavenly Valley, near Lake Tahoe on Sunday.

"This is the first event of this kind ever staged, as far as I know," said Roy Storey, race chairman of Sports Cars, Unlimited.

"And we don't know exactly what to expect in the way of results."

"We are having a snow plow dig a zig-zag road following a path that the people in the covered wagons used to take a century ago. It has a dirt base, but the snow may be pulled high on both sides."

Sub-Zero Weather
Storey says that the drivers all will be dressed in ski clothes to combat the cold—which has been reaching down around the 10 degrees below zero mark in that territory at night.

The elevation at Heavenly Valley is 8,500 feet.

The sport cars, which will include all the usual ones in this type of race—the MG, Porsche, Corvette, Jaguar, Mercedes-Benz, etc.—will be equipped with chains," explains Storey. "But I don't know just how this will work out as there is very little room between the tire of a sports car and its fender."

Storey figures that the winners—if anyone completes the trip over the treacherous 4.2-mile course—should average from 40 to 50 miles per hour.

Extra "turns Added"
For the uninitiated, a "slalom" race for skiers is one down the side of a mountain, in which the skier zig-zags through a series of set poles.

"We are putting a few extra turns in this run to make it a little tougher than our ancestors followed so long ago," said Storey.

Just what the boys are trying to prove hasn't been explained—but it sounds like a lot of fun for the guys who are in the winterland anyway and are too tired to ski.

And just to add a little class to the whole show, Jackie Jensen, Boston Red Sox outfield star, will act as marshal of the race—and

What a Flat Nose You Have, Garnet

NEW YORK—Barry Allison, right, grimaces as he puts his weight into a smashing right to the face of Garnet "Sugar" Hart in the sixth round of their scheduled 10-round main event at St. Nicholas arena last night.

Council Meet Set on Buses

The Salem city council will have an informal meeting Wednesday morning at 9:45 for discussion of the City Transit lines bus question.

City Transit lines has notified the cities of Salem and Eugene that it will quit operations March 1 unless it gets financial relief. The only means of relief now proposed is a lease agreement CTL has offered the cities whereby the cities would take over the lines and employ CTL to operate the system.

Mayor Robert F. White says he hopes to get a majority opinion from the council at the Wednesday meeting.

Death Claims Fred Gerig

A stroke Monday night took the life of Fred Gerig, 66. Gerig was rushed by first aidmen to the hospital about 10:50 p.m., from his home at 245 South 15th St. He had been ill for some time.

Survivors include the widow, Mrs. Hannah Gerig, Salem.

Services will be announced by the W. T. Rigdon Co.

Burglars Steal Party Supplies Before Scare-off

Thieves were scared off in the process of burglarizing a Keizer grocery Tuesday morning but still made off with enough stuff to throw a pretty good party.

Dean McFarland, operator of McFarland's market, 465 East Chemawa Rd., said he was awakened about 4 a.m. by noises from the store. The thieves apparently then heard the McFarlands moving about, he said, for they left in a hurry.

They took with them about 50 quarts of wine, six packages of beer, a pie, some cookies, candy, cigarettes, several flashlights, some watchbands, three pairs of dice from a display, a camera, a camera, some cigarette lighters, a razor and other items, he said.

A side window in the store was broken to gain entry. The thieves left by the front door. State police investigated the burglary.

NCAA Names Johnny Lewis

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Personnel of the four regional committees to select the 19 at-large teams for the National Collegiate Athletic Association's new college division basketball tournament was announced Tuesday by Walter Byers, NCAA executive director.

The remaining 13 tournament berths will go automatically to champions of participating conferences.

The 32-team bracket is divided into four regions—East, Midwest, West and Far West. All of the tournament entries will compete in first round games, March 2-5. The winners advance to second round play, March 9. The eight surviving teams, two from each region, will play for the college division championship at Evansville, Ind., March 13-15.

Committee members from the Far West include Marv Harshman, Pacific Lutheran College, and John Lewis of Willamette College.

Ex-Rams Coach Scarff Returns to Portland

PORTLAND (AP)—Harry Scarff, former Central Catholic High School football coach, has returned to Portland and will enter business here.

Scarff resigned from Central Catholic last year to take a football coaching post at St. Vincent's High School at Vallejo, Calif. He recently left that job.

His pretty wife, former diving queen Zoe Ann Olsen Jensen, will be the "queen" who hands out the kisses to the winners.

LEGISLATIVE BRIEFS $100,000 Asked for Governor's Mansion

Oregon would have a governor's mansion under a bi-partisan bill introduced in the House Tuesday by 12 legislators.

The bill would appropriate $100,000 to buy or build a mansion. Gov. Holmes now lives in a rented house.

A second measure to reduce the voting age was introduced in the House Tuesday.

Sponsored by Reps. Shirley Field (R), Portland, and John L. Kerbow (D), Klamath Falls, this proposed constitutional amendment would reduce the age from 21 to 18.

A previous measure, by Rep. Glen M. Stadler (D), Eugene, would reduce the voting age to 19.

A memorial asking Congress to provide "adequate" pensions for veterans of World War I was introduced Tuesday by the House Military Affairs Committee.

It was requested by Oregon Veterans of World War I.

January Unemployed Highest In 3 Years, Commission Reports

The number of unemployed workers in Oregon increased 12,200 during January to reach 63,800, highest in three years, the State Unemployment Compensation Commission reported today.

The total, which did not include a considerable number expecting an early call back to work with regular employers, was 12,600 more than a year ago but 9,600 below the seasonal top in early 1954.

Additional layoffs in the western Oregon lumber area were responsible for most of the new unemployment, but Bend, Klamath Falls, Hood River and some other eastern Oregon offices reported heavy increases in recent weeks.

Slightly more than one third of the unemployed were from the four-county Portland metropolitan area, another third from south of Lebanon and Toledo in western Oregon, and the rest from the upper Willamette valley and east of the mountains.

Payments to unemployed workers during January were close to $4,300,000, second highest month in the history of the commission. The January payments were nearly 45 per cent above a year ago and an increase of more than 70 per cent from December, 1956.

Gales Pummel British Ships

LONDON (AP)—Rescue ships and planes combed the seas around Britain Tuesday to aid stricken vessels caught in howling winds of up to 110 miles an hour.

The gale roared down on northern Britain after a week of almost springlike weather, catching large numbers of fishing boats far from safe harbors.

Inland, the storm hit Scotland and Ireland hardest. Falling trees cut off all electrical power in five Scottish counties and blew the roof off a postoffice in Edinburgh.

County Farm Unit Gets High Rating In Member Drive

The Marion county farm bureau was one of 11 such county groups named Monday night as exceeding 1957 membership quotas. The announcement was made at a meeting of the Oregon Farm Bureau federation.

Multnomah county's bureau took the top prize with a 177 per cent rating. Yamhill county was second with 154 per cent. Both of these bureaus received two drawer metal files as prizes for the accomplishment.

County bureaus throughout Oregon have been taking part in the membership drive which was recently completed. The federation revealed at its Monday meeting that the membership acquired during the drive places the Oregon unit as the highest, percentage-wise, of all state farm bureaus throughout the nation. The Oregon group has achieved 92 per cent of its quota.
