

Woman Receives Grandson's Note; Origin Antarctica

A message that traveled many thousands of miles before reaching its destination has been received by a Salem grandmother. The point of origin was "Operation Deep Freeze" in Antarctica and Merrill D. Moon, Jr., grandson of Mrs. Lila Moon, 1295 Oxford St., was the sender.

Mrs. Moon reports that the message was picked up by the American Red Cross, Syracuse, N.Y., and was relayed to the Home Service department of the Seattle-King County Red Cross chapter.

Young Moon is a seaman aboard the Coast Guard icebreaker Northwind. He reports that he is enjoying his experience even though it took the Northwind five days to smash her way through 40 miles of heavy ice.

Moon called his grandmother late last week from Wellington, New Zealand, while his ship was in port for repairs.

When the "victory dinner," marking the termination of the annual YMCA membership drive, was held Thursday night, it was determined that the goal of 1,000 had not been reached. So it was decided to extend the campaign another week.

Those engaged in the effort reported 911 new and renewal memberships. This means that the association has approximately 4,000 persons on its rolls, reported General Secretary Gus Moore.

During the drive the business men's division and the senior men's section exceeded their quota. The business men reported 118 new members or 18 more than their quota, while the senior men's groups checked in 235 names, or 35 more than theirs.

Top individual achievement was turned in by James Wiles of the senior men's division with 28 names. Others who reported 15 memberships were Paul Bale, Lee Shinn and Steve Brodie of the senior division, and Lance Edlund, Larry Emerson and Darwin Blivar, boys division.

Senate Considers Veteran Charter

A measure, which would grant a congressional charter to the Veterans of World War I, has been introduced in the United States senate according to word received here.

Frank W. Young, national deputy chief of staff of the organization, received a letter from Sen. Richard L. Neuberger stating that the bill had been introduced and is now in the hands of the senate judiciary committee.
