First meetings were held in the Salem Heights community hall, a structure not entirely suited for a religious program.

The membership quickly determined that there was a need for a new building and so a tract of land was secured at 3530 Liberty Rd., in an area that has seen the construction of many homes.

There an educational unit was constructed, which is currently being used for Sunday school and regular church services. Plans call for the construction of a sanctuary. This will be built when finances permit. Later a second educational unit will be added.

Membership of the congregation is around the 50 mark, although most services see twice that number in attendance. The Sunday school with an enrollment of about 180 has an average attendance o
