Coroner's chief investigator Harry F. Glos, who was fired from his job today by Coroner Walter J. McCarren after a dispute regarding the Grimes case, uses a calendar as he discusses his theories during a press conference. Glos stated the sisters had been beaten and at least one had been molested sexually - evidence which the police wanted withheld from the criminal. Investigation into the mysterious death of Barbara Grimes and her sister, Patricia, has created a furor in Chicago since Jan. 22 when the nude bodies were found. (AP Wirephoto).
