It's The Season for Fashion Shows in Salem

Spinsters Style Show Next Saturday

Anticipated event for next Saturday night, February 23, is the benefit fashion revue to be sponsored by Salem Spinsters club. The show, "Fashions Americana," will be presented at 8:30 o'clock in the patio room of Meier & Frank's-Salem.

Proceeds will go to two projects of the Spinsters club, one to assist the Haven school for retarded children, the other to purchase special equipment for educationally advanced students in the schools.

Opening the program will be American sportswear—this year with a ladylike trend—featuring the regimental stripe family which was released to the public last week.

The controversial issue of American skirt lengths will be dwelt upon in full, and the new length for spring will be unveiled. American travel ushers in the shoe styles as well as new fabrics for suits and colors for cashmere.

Famous contemporary women and their favorite dressmakers' styles will be featured in the section entitled American Idols, and a highlight of the entire show is the first appearance anywhere in the United States of four dresses designed for the motion picture, "Designing Woman," as yet unreleased.

Famous designers will be featured in the fifth section of Fashions Americana, followed by the American Sons section, which will show millinery of the '20s and '30s and its effect on the 1937 silhouette.

The all-American girl look—brass or medallion touch to fashions—will be featured on the American Tradition part of the program, and the final group of fashions presents the theme of the all-American color for spring, as seen and approved by the buyers on their East coast trip.

All of the styles which are being shown on Fashions Americana will be "firsts," never before on view to the public here. New color and fabric from hat to shoe will be on the Spinsters models when they use a new cross-step idea in modeling across the 96-foot ramp which the store has especially constructed.

Following the fashion extravaganza, which will be narrated in full by Mrs. James T. Brand, a dessert will be served in the Oregon room.

Tickets may be purchased by calling Mrs. Gerald Kelly, EM 2-2057, Mrs. Blair McCabe, EM 4-3887, or contacting a Spinsters member.
