Governor Holmes commuted Otto Cahill's state prison sentence three weeks before he would have been eligible for parole, anyway. Something tells me he'll wish the hullabaloo over the commutation would die down in as short a period.

Fred Starrett says the prowler who broke into the new Starrett home Friday night was just darn lucky. Mrs. Starrett had just left home for a short time when the thief entered. If he had been home when the intruder broke in, she would have shot him, Fred said.

And he wasn't just talking, either. The distasteful job of the family keeps a gun on hand and knows how to use it. 'Twas only a couple of years ago that another prowler was trying the door at the Starrett home when a shot pierced the door and hit the porch near his feet. He's probably stopped running by now.

Mrs. S. was gone only about half hour, during which time the burglar broke in. It's the fourth time since they have moved to Salem that a home where they lived has been hit by prowlers, Starrett said.

Soon, someone has whispered, not only will you be able to match your bathroom walls with colored fixtures, the fixtures with colored towels and washcloths, the T&W with colored bathmats and floor tile and the floor covering with colored tissue, but you can achieve the ultimate — matching colored bars of soap.

No, sir! No longer will you have to put up with that off-color cake of soap ruining your all-yellow, pink or blue color scheme. A leading soap company will announce soon that you can buy its bars in several colors in addition to plain, dull, uninteresting, colorless old white.

Doesn't say, however, if the colored soap gets you any cleaner.

mission of the Senate Rules Committee must be obtained for introduction. The House already has a similar rule in effect.

Holmes Message Due
Gov. Holmes announced he hopes to deliver a special message to the Legislature Tuesday on the need for a state development department to attract new industry to the state.

A bill to prohibit distribution of books or pictures which are lewd or tend to corrupt youth was introduced in the House by Rep. Guy Johns (D), Salem.

Another new House bill, by Rep. Tom Monaghan (D), Milwaukie, would give teachers income tax deductions for the expenses of extra schooling they are required to have.

Two new Senate bills would provide that the state Board of Census could prepare population estimates for counties, just as it does now for cities; and increase the $8,000 annual salaries of district court judges to $9,000.

Ask Variable Ratios
Sen. Walter J. Pearson (D), Portland, chairman of the Senate Taxation Committee, introduced a bill to establish variable ratios for various classes of property.

Homes would be assessed at 50 per cent of true cash value, and utilities would be assessed at 100 per cent.

Ratios for other types of property would be: Timber and timber lands, 75 per cent; commercial and industrial, 60 per cent; inventories, 80 per cent; and livestock, 55 per cent.

The effect of his bill would be to shift some of the property tax burden from homes to the other classes of property.

AD WEEK OBSERVED

Role of Newspapers Told Salem Chamber

Popularity of newspapers and the active role they play in the business and social life of their communities were highlighted in the presentation made to the Salem Chamber of Commerce Monday.

Chamber members were shown a colored film strip and heard commentary by Wayne Mooney, western manager of the Bureau of Advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers association. The strip film presentation "News-papers Mean Business" was presented in connection with National Advertising week here.

"The lives of most people, most of us here, center around the family, the home, the neighborhood and the community," Mooney pointed out adding "And to a great extent does the local newspaper."

Paper Best Source
He said the daily paper is the best source yet invented to know what is happening.

"Because each newspaper is custom-edited to the community and because it contains a great sense of immediacy, nearly every one reads a local daily," he pointed out.

The film strip demonstrated the recent $700 million investment by local newspapers in such innovations as modern equipment and editorial techniques to bring a better product to their readers.

Cited were the improved layout of front pages, increased number of food pages, comics that reflect the spirit of the times, TV and radio guides, home planning and gardening features.

Advantages noted Showing that readers depend on advertising columns to as great an extent as they do on news pages the film underscored the advantages newspapers offer both national and retail advertiser: blanket coverage of any given market and every prospect, flexibility in size and frequency and therefore costs of ads and the immediate manner in which readers
