Too Much Pride to Take Job, But He'll Free-load Gladly

DEAR DORGTHY DIX: Our daughter and her family have been with us for the past two years. Her husband is not a practical man. He's always felt that a good living was to be had at some distant place or another, packed his family up, and moved. Finally, they landed here.

My husband offered him a job, which he delimed. He says he has the moved, which he delimed the says he has the moved, which he delimed the says he has the moved.

My husband offered him a job, which he de-clined. He says he has too much pride to accept favors. I guess he doesn't consider it a favor that we've had to support his family for two years, How can we make him see reason?—Mrs. D. R.

DEAR MRS. D. R.: The man probably thinks Eisenhower in these early days of his second term tending toward a more passive role in direction of he government?

You can get a spirited argument on any "yes" or "no" answer to hat question, or to these others:

Is he now delegating more top lattice the first one that were to he first one of the provided that the second that the

Until she finds one that works, I guess you're stuck.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Will you please give me a few helpful rules to follow so I may keep my future husband happy and loving? I want to make him the happiest man in the world.—Nan,

DEAR NAN: You have already covered as much ground as a mile of rules in your simple assertion that you want to make him a happy man. You know the things that make him happy better than anyone else. By striving to be and do those things, you'll accomplish your purpose. In fact, you'll accomplish a double purpose—you'll both be happy!

mile of rules in your simple assertion that you want to make him a happy man. You know the things that make him happy better than a nyone else. By striving to be and do those things, you'll accomplish your purpose. In fact, you'll accomplish a double purpose—you'll be only be happy!

Most of the endless rules for a successful marriage bell down to this one: work for someone else's happiness instead of your own. If you have mutual respect and consideration for each other, the humility to give in when necessary, the willingness to learn the practicalities of good housekeeping, and faith in each other, you will create a happy home. Good luck!

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Although I have given up church, lodge, friends and have done everything I can think of for my girl, she friends and have done everything I can think of for my girl, she says I have never proven my love. I take her anywhere she wants to be a spend all my time with her and get her everything she wants.

Jim Wiltsey Organ Fastest

Growing Home Music Choice

Local Music Merchant Returns from Home Organ "Clinic" with Facts and Figures with Facts and Figures
According to Jim Wiltsey of Wiltsey-Weathers Music, in the Capitol Shopping Center, sales of electronic organs are pyramiding at an almost incredible rate, outstripping the growth of all other major musical instruments,
From Jewer than 10,000 units
sold in 1947, electronic organ sales skyrocketed to 60,000 units last year. Sales of 80,000 to 90,Q00 are estimated for 1957.

"The major resson for this

Q00 are estimated for 1957.

"The major reason for this phenomenal growth," says Mr. Wiltsey, "is obvious. The electronic organ is the easiest of all instruments to play and, at the same time, it is the most versatile, producing an almost infinite number of rich tonal effects. That means that every member of the family can play it—thus giving it the appeal of today's trend to family "togetherness," plus the "doi-ityourself" appeal—and yet presenting a gratifying challenge to the experienced organist."

Mr. Wiltsey has just returned from Chicago, where he attended a three-day "clinic" conducted by the Lowrey Organ Co., February 12·13·14, the largest meeting of its kind Lowrey has ever sponsored. "Lowrey Organ dealers from all over the country were in attendance," reports Mr. Wiltsey. "Technical details substantiating the superiority of the electronic organ were analyzed and explained in full, with special emphasis on exclusive features of Lowrey Organs, such as solo tabs that control volume individually for each keyboard and the unique Lowrey "glide" which provides thrilling musical effects such as real slide trombone, Hawaiian guitar and many others." Mr. Wiltsey has just returned guitar and many others."

"Styling came in for equal emphasis," Mr. Wiltsey continues.
"New Lowrey 'high style' interpretations of modern, contemporary and traditional design were displayed. These, in a wide range of cabinet finishes — including mahogany, walnut, fruit wood, limed oak, ebony and naturally light mahogany—assure a Lowrey model to suit any period interior and to blend harmoniously into any decor."

Mr. Wilsaw added that sales.

Mr. Wiltsey added that sales Mr. Wiltsey added that sales strategy also was stressed. "This, however, is simple," he says. "It boils down to merely inducing people to see, hear and try the Lowrey themselves, even if they do not know one musical note from another. If we can just get people to look, listen and try, they will want a Lowrey Organ in their homes as soon as possible."

To this end, Wiltsey-Weathers Music store has provided a good floor stock of Lowrey Organs at its "music headquarters," in the Capitol Shopping Center, and is cordially inviling each and every resident of Salem and vicinity to come in for a personal demonstration of any time during resident and bours.
