In case you aren't already celebrating it, you should know that this is National Peanut week. Your Vision week and National Smile week.

It's also National 4-H Club week, so presumably all good 4-H clubbers are munching peanuts, resting their eyes and smiling.

Even "deadly weapons" are bigger in Texas. Under Oregon law, a knife with more than a 3 1/2-inch blade can be classified as a "concealed" weapon if found on the person or in his car but in Texas, a state legislator there complains, "a knife with two-foot blade is not classified as a deadly weapon unless it is a Bowie knife or dirk."

He has introduced a bill that would make it illegal to carry—take a deep breath—a pistol, dirk, dagger, slingshot, black-jack, hand chain, night stick, pipe stick, sword cane, spear, metal knuckles, bowie knife, switch-blade knife, spring-blade knife, throw-blade knife or any other knife with a blade 5 1/2 inches or longer.

Winton Hunt, state representative from Woodburn, says he and Representative Grace Oliver Peck of Portland are considering sponsoring a resolution favoring a school for secretaries. Sort of a Hunt and Peck resolution for typists. (He said it, not me.)

Bob Brown, C-J outdoor sports columnist and special writer, branches out into a new field this week. He starts a new weekly TV program, Outdoor Byline, which will appear on a Portland station just before the Friday night lights. Program will include discussions with sports figures, wildlife movies taken by Brown and by others, hunting information on fishing and lake laws and conditions, etc.

A reader tells of a state worker apparently doesn't care too much for the regular TV shows but loves those late movies.

To enable him to see both the "late" and the "late late" shows and still keep from sleeping on the job, he dashes home from work at 5, eats, sleeps until 9, helps the wife with household chores and then they watch the double feature. After that, another few hours sleep and he's ready for another day at the salt mine.

What about her sleep? She takes the 15 p.m. shift.

They live in a duplex, the source says, and neighbors have apparently gotten used to going to sleep to the sound of galloping horses.

According to Archibald, a taxpayer is just a guy who doesn't have to pass a civil service exam to work for the government.

BECK COMMUNICATES

Salem School Asks Street Improvements

A request that certain improvements be made in the condition of streets leading to the Morningside public school on South 12th street will be investigated by the county's engineering department.

A communication from Principal Walter Beck of Morningside Monday asked that shoulders on the east side of South 12th street, between Madrona avenue and Highway 99E, be widened and that the brush be cut back as far as possible. He also asked that shoulders on the west side of the same street be widened between Madrona and Oak Knoll.

The principal said that approach to the school from the west was made difficult because of an open ditch at the southwest.

The court said that if existing conditions created a hazard for school children they should be remedied. However, a high bank as well as a fill might create obstacles in connection with efforts to widen the shoulders.

A few years ago the county widened the shoulders on the east side of 12th street for a considerable distance north of the school and then constructed a steel railing to separate foot and vehicular traffic.

Circuit Court

Action Names Morgan, PUC

Transfer Firm Claims $109,242

A suit to recover $109,242 from the State Public Utilities commission is on file in Marion county circuit court.

The complaint, filed by G. K. Transfer company or its predecessors, states that it is licensed by the commission to engage in the business of leasing or renting motor vehicles to others to transport property.

For this privilege, the plaintiff states fees totaling $109,242 were paid to the defendant commission. Subsequently certain statutes affecting the business of leasing or renting motor vehicles was held unconstitutional by the courts in the case of the Hertz corporation vs. Charles E. Heltzel as commissioner of public utilities.

Howard Morgan, presently holding the position of utilities commissioner, is named specific defendant in the suit filed Monday.

The plaintiff states that it has made a demand upon Morgan for the sum which the corporation contends should be refunded. This, the defendant has refused to do.

ALL INVITED TO SESSION

No Change Seen in Plumber Dispute Until Tuesday Meet

By STEPHEN A. STONE
Capital Journal Associate Editor

No change in the labor dispute between plumbers and plumbing contractors had occurred Monday, and is not expected before a general meeting between the two sides which will be held at the Marion hotel Tuesday night.

Vern Collins, president of the Willamette Valley Plumbing and Heating Contractors association, said that all members of the union and all contractors in the district had been invited to the meeting, which is scheduled to start at 7:30 o'clock.

Collins said that all jobs were tied up in the union shops. At the office of the plumbers' local it was said the contractors had been notified that the men were willing to continue working, pending negotiations and that they were notified 15 hours before expiration of the contract.

Some Work

"Some shops are working their men and others have laid them off," said D. W. Burroughs, business agent for the union. "Our men, who are not put to work, are instructed to report for unemployment compensation."

The situation appeared to be that no union shops in Salem were working, though some elsewhere in the district, which covers the central Willamette valley and coast points, were working. Actually, about five shops in Salem are involved. There is no picketing. The workers are asking for a 35 cents an hour increase and certain health, welfare and vacation pay benefits, all of which, they explain, are subject to negotiations, and are not an actual demand.

Contractors Say

The contractors say that if the wage increase and the fringe benefits, proposed by the workers, were granted it would amount to 59 1/2 cents an hour. The contractors have made a package offer of 15 cents an hour pay increase, or, as an alternative, health and welfare benefits which amount to the same figure. This is made optional, it was explained, because some of the men have health and welfare insurance from other sources.

Man Returned From Reno to Face Charges

A Salem man was returned from Reno Sunday to face Marion county charges of obtaining money by false pretenses.

Arrestment of Charles Vincent Becker, 24, Rt. 2, Box 316, was continued until Tuesday by Judge E. O. Stadler, Jr., when Becker appeared in court Monday.

Becker was returned from Reno Sunday by Deputy Sheriff John Zabinski. Bail is set at $1,000.

City to Open Water Bonds Bids Tuesday

Bids will be opened Tuesday at 11 a.m. at city hall on Salem's bond offer of $3,750,000 for construction of the water supply line from Stayton Island to Salem.

Acceptance of a bid will not be made immediately, but the city council will meet in a special session at 7:30 Tuesday night to decide on the acceptable bids.

The offer has attracted national attention. Several telephone calls have been received from New York and other distant offices, and one New York firm informed the city that its representative will arrive by air Tuesday to put in a bid.

The offering is the largest ever made by the city.

Harvey Voss Files Injury Suit Monday

A claim for $50,000 general and $1,526.50 special damages is contained in a personal injury suit filed Monday in Marion county circuit court Monday by Harvey Voss.

The complaint names Henry M. Tinker as the defendant.

The suit has its origin in a traffic accident of Feb. 2, 1957, about 10 miles south of Salem on Highway 99E.

The plaintiff states he was a passenger in an automobile driven by Robert W. Meredith when it collided with another operated by the defendant. The accident occurred near the end of a detour that was in effect.

The total in special damages includes $540 in lost wages, $500 for medical services and $486.50 for hospitalization.

Israeli Riots

The official spokesman said the reason for the go-ahead was that "latest clarifications" of 116 American position had been received from the United States.

In a four-hour session Sunday, Ben-Gurion and the Cabinet discussed a message from President Eisenhower expressing hope the troop pullout would "go forward with the utmost speed." Eisenhower pledged the United States would work to realize Israel's hopes for peace and security in the Middle East.

Conflicting reports circulated concerning the course to be followed by the Achdut Avoda and the Socialist Napam, left-wing members of the coalition government with two ministers each in the cabinet.

It was believed the two parties' ministers probably would abstain when the Cabinet took a formal vote on withdrawal, and that deputies of both parties probably would abstain also in the parliamentary vote.

This could reduce Ben-Gurion's majority without causing the government's defeat.

The rule limiting debate in the Senate goes into effect Tuesday, since it will be the 51st day of the session. However, the Senate has little need for the rule since it is considering few bills.

Other new House bills Monday would abolish the Parole Board, substituting a parole director under the governor; permit officers to arrest persons involved in accidents even when the officer doesn't see the alleged violation committed; and permit issuance of liquor licenses to sellers of malt beverages and wines, for consumption either on or off the premises.

Purchase of Rights-of-Way Recommended

Purchase of rights-of-way for a long-range plan of developing major and minor or collector highways, when property may be purchased advantageously, was recommended by the county court Monday by David W. Baker, county planning technician.

The rights-of-way would be 100 feet and 80 feet respectively for major and minor highways, Baker said. They would be developed along plans previously adopted by the county planning commission.

Baker said he did not have in mind an extensive purchase at this time, but thought the rights-of-way should be added to from time to time, probably over a period of several years. He indicated that the long-range program would save money since property could be purchased much cheaper before land values have increased due to stepped up building.
