Symphony Event

Portland Symphony orchestra, with Theodore Bloomfield conducting, will play its last concert in Salem for the 1956-57 season, next Tuesday, March 12, at 8:15 p.m. in the new Fine Arts auditorium of Willamette university. Salem Symphony society, local sponsors of these concerts, is readying plans for their 1957-58 season, with concert dates and soloist to be announced later.

Tuesday's program is as follows:
Overture, "L'italiana in Algeri" Rossini
Concerto for Orchestra, Bela Bartok
Intermission
Symphony No. 3 in F Major, Johannes Brahms

The Russian music is the prelude to "The Italian Woman in Algiers," a clever comic opera. Russian elegance and bubbling comedy blend in this overture. It was first performed in 1813, in Venice.

The showpiece of the evening, Bartok's "Concerto for Orchestra," is in the composer's own words: "... a gradual transition from the sternness of the first movement and the lugubrious death-song of the third to the life-assertion of the last one." Commissioned by the Boston Symphony orchestra towards the end of Bartok's life, it was created with the condition that it would be dedicated to the conductor's wife, Mrs. Natalie Koussevitsky, and was assured of a first performance by the Boston Symphony orchestra. Born in Hungary in 1881, Bartok was living in New York at the time of his death in 1945. He is considered one of the greatest composers of contemporary music. The extreme technical complexity of a great deal of his "Concerto for Orchestra" demands that all the principal orchestral players should be virtuosos in their own rights.

Closing the evening is Brahms' Third Symphony, which has remained throughout the years the least frequently performed of Brahms' four works in this form. Reasons for this are difficult to ascertain, although perhaps its quiet, peaceful conclusion (in contrast to the rousing codas of Brahms' other symphonies) is a contributing factor. Yet the extraordinary beauty and sensitivity of this F Major Symphony are without parallel in Brahms' entire orchestral output.

Tickets are still on sale at Stevens & Son or at the door at 7:30 the night of the concert.

The youth conservation department will be in charge of the program for the meeting of the Salem Junior Woman's club Monday evening at the Salem Woman's club house. Miss Hattie J. Bratzel, district attorney, will be the speaker.

Nominating committee for the coming year's officers will be elected during the business session. Co-chairmen for the program are Mrs. Forrest Walker and Mrs. Clifford Bowder. Assisting them will be Mesdames Donald Richardson, Ward A. Paldanus, Fred Olson and Frank M. Combs and Miss Betty Jean Bergner.

On the refreshment committee are Mrs. Howard E. Elwood, chairman, and Mesdames Bernard O. Grindie, Fred Olson, Robert Stevens, Robert Wallace, Robert C. Ende, Merlin B. Marsh, Richard S. Fry, Gordon B. Domogalla and Janet Tindall, and Miss Idonna Shimanek.

Soroptimist Style Show Wednesday

An event awaited by a large group of friends on next Wednesday evening, March 14, is the annual "Shamrock Revue" benefit style show sponsored by Soroptimist International of Salem.

The fashion show will be at 8 o'clock in the Gold room of the Marion hotel.
This is the third annual Shamrock Revue and proceeds will be used for the club's projects which include playground equipment for Bush Pasture Park, duplicating equipment for the Haven school, testing aids for the Mental Hygiene society, and emergency calls for the juvenile court and other sources.

Mrs. Terese E. Hanks is general chairman and the following committees have been at work: Publicity, Mrs. Donald Reinke; tickets, Mrs. Ethel Lau, Mrs. Marie Ling, and Mrs. Sidney L. Sievens; program, Miss Lena Blum; hostesses, Mrs. Henry Millie and Miss Mary Brady; refreshments, Mrs. George Prier; models, Mrs. Nels Tomning; decorations, Mrs. Paul Heath and Miss Betty Marsh. Among the models will be two club members, Miss Lena Blum and Miss Grace White.

Mrs. William C. Dyer, Jr., will be the commentator and Russ Morrell will present organ music during the evening.

Refreshments will be served and presiding at the punch bowls will be Mrs. Kent Mathewson and Mrs. Charles A. Barclay.
Dress fashions will be presented by Kay's, Adler's, and the Towne Shop, with shoes and bags by Arbuckle's.
Tickets may be purchased from any member of the club and from Stevens and Son.
