Ballet Due Friday

Awailed by a large group for next Friday night, March 15, will be the program of Ruth Page's Chicago Opera Ballet, to present a performance here through Community Concert association.

The program will be at 8:15 p.m. in Salem North High school auditorium. During the recent season of the Chicago Lyric Theatre, Miss Page won acclaim for her two striking ballets, "The Merry Widow," an arrangement of the "char score," and "Revenge," adapted from the Verdi opera, "Il Trovatore." Both of these ballets will be on the Salem program.

Stars of the ballet are Marjorie Tallchief and Oleg Briansky, other well known dancers in the east including Sonia Arova, Barbara Steele, Job Sanders, Kenneth Johnson. Miss Tallchief has distinguished herself as ballerina for the Marquis de Cuevas Ballet of Paris and has appeared in several notable ballets. Oleg Briansky, premier danseur and choreographer of the Marquis de Cuevas Ballet company, is replacing George Skibine who suffered a leg injury at the beginning of the tour in November. His American debut was in 1954 with the Lyric Opera in Chicago, and he has performed at New York's Metropolitan and on films and television here and abroad.

The two ballets for Salem are in contrast, "The Merry Widow" in gaiety, "Revenge," a melodramatic tale of gypsy vengeance.

The Chicago Opera Ballet closes the season for the Community Concert association and completes the 20th season for the association in Salem. Mrs. R. D. Blatchford, campaign chairman, announces memberships may be renewed from today through March 30. Some Notations . . .

By M.L.F.

It was a gay social week, Thursday particularly being "one of those days." It began with the big kick-off coffee in the morning for the Salem Women's Golf association, an event we told you about yesterday. . . . Next event was the beautifully appointed luncheon for which Mrs. B. O. Schucking, assisted by her daughter, Miss Helene Schucking, entertained at their charming Eola home for a dozen, including a group of legislative friends. . . . Then it was tea time at the Glenn Woody home, Mrs. Woody and Mrs. Rex Ashley, entertaining. . . . And winding up the day was the informal buffet for which Governor and Mrs. Robert D. Holmes entertained at their Candalaria Heights home on Alvarado Terrace in the evening. . . .

The Holmes party was the first of the series at which the governor and first lady will entertain for legislators and state officials. . . . Guests gathered in the downstairs recreation room. . . . Featuring the hors d'oeuvres table there was a huge, baked "out of this world" salmon, the fish, of course, from Astoria, the center to find Oregon's choice salmon. . . .

The delightful thing about this series of parties is the group is kept small enough for all to become well acquainted and to enjoy visiting, politics or no politics. . . .

Among those in the group Thursday night, the president of the senate, Senator Boyd Overhulse and his daughter, Miss Emilie Overhulse, Madras; Speaker of the House and Mrs. Pat Dunley, Portland; Attorney General and Mrs. Robert Y. Thornton, Public Utilities Commissioner and Mrs. Howard Morgan of Monmouth, Harry Swanson of Astoria and Thomas G. Wright, Jr., both administrative assistants to the governor, and their wives; Senator and Mrs. Warren Gill of Lebanon, Representative and Mrs. Robert Stewart of Keating, Senator and Mrs. Rudie Wilhelm, Jr., Portland, Senator and Mrs. Philip Lowry of Medford, Representative and Mrs. R. E. Schoderer, Gresham, longtime friends of the Holmeses; Representative and Mrs. Robert B. Duncan of Medford, Senator and Mrs. Harry D. Holvin of Klamath Falls, Senator Ben Musa and his wife, Representative Katherine Musa, The Dalles. . . .

A memory-book tea was the one for which Mrs. Glenn Woody and Mrs. Rex Adolph entertained Thursday afternoon for a large group of friends at the beautiful Woody home on Fairmount Hill. It was a colorful springtime party. . . . Setting the theme for the charming decor within were the arrangements on the door, gold fans, from which were suspended garlands of violets. . . . The two hostesses received in the living room, wearing identical frocks, pretty prints with pink, blue, orchid and violet shades in the floral designs. . . . Each wore a corsage, of purple hyacinths, violets and pink rosebuds, backed by tiny fans in orchid and pink, at the waistline. . . . The varied colors of spring highlighted the lush floral decorations. . . . On the coffee table in front of the sofa was a low bouquet of pink roses with gilded straws, backed by an open white tulle fan. . . . In the hall was a large vase of tulips and stock in purple and orchid, blending in with the amethyst glass vase at one side. . . . The tea table in the dining room was a picture setting. . . . The cloth was a floor length white organdy one with a deep border in eyelet embroidery. . . . The centerpiece was an arrangement of white stock and white roses in a tall antique glass compote, a few violets tucked in at the base, a few butterflies and white tulle tufts among the blooms, a purple bow tied around the complete stem with the ribbons gracefully spreading out on the table. . . . At either side of the flowers were white candles in crystal candelabras. . . . At one side on the side table in front of the window, a spreading bouquet of pink tulips and stock. . . . For chatting and seconds of coffee, guests adjourned to the attractive keeping room, the round table there set with an apple green cloth with white fringe border, the centerpiece a huge bouquet of mixed spring flowers in all colors. . . .

Among those greeted during our call, Mrs. Frank Crawford, Mrs. Leo Childs, Mrs. Charles E. Wagner, Mrs. George Rossman, Mrs. E. J. Donnell, Mrs. William C. The Burklands will be away the next week or 10 days in Livingston, but will return to be here a few weeks before moving. . . . Guests, mainly neighborhood friends in the Candalaria district, were invited to call between 10:30 and 12:30 o'clock and each was presented a gay little orchid corsage upon entering the door. . . . Beautiful arrangements of yellow and white snapdragons and other spring flowers decorated the home, a little dish of violets here and there. . . . The coffee table was set with a cream lace cloth, the centerpiece a bright arrangement of birds of paradise. . . . It was a very chatty gathering, some of the guests adjourning to the den for "seconds" of coffee. . . .
