

The look of the early Thirties is personified by Betmar in an off-face, head-hugging cloche of handstitch check silk. Good news too is the fact that it is packable.

The Garbo swagger hat is interpreted by Amrose of supple feather-weight felt covered with stitched chiffon in bold polka dots. Felt is a favorite material for hats with a soft casual look.

Bonnie Martin designs a frothy white bow cap of white organdy. Milliners say that white hats for spring should be feminine and frothy, and organdy is one of their favorite fabrics.

This Spring bonnet of pearl gray and white straw features a mobile straw daisy with rhinestone center. Designed by Walter K. Marks, it is a favorite style this spring.

Silky straw rolls gently back off the face in a Damozel Original that recalls the hats of the early Thirties. It has a rounded, head-hugging crown, liked by many.

Washington Notes . . .

—By Lillian Porter Say

Washington, D.C. March 13 (Special)—

The President and First Lady shook hands with nearly 1,000 people at their last reception preceding the Lenten season. And never have we seen more enthusiastic guests; in fact many of them were meeting President Eisenhower and Mrs. Eisenhower in their own home, the White House, for the first time.

Again, Mamie wore her inaugural dress of pale yellow glittered with iridescent sequins and crystals. A cabinet wife in a folksy manner: "She takes awfully good care of it." Other women were "thrilled to see it close." Mrs. Eisenhower did vary her usual handshake a bit—she kept on her gloves, sending a whisper down the line, "you'd better leave yours on."

No couple had a better time at the party than young Senator Frank Church of Idaho, and his dark-eyed wife. At heart an historian, the sight of the quizzical marble face of Benjamin Franklin in the East Room recalled to him that America's statesman visited Paris with his grandson. The latter spoke French well but Benjamin knew only a smattering. At a Parisian function in his honor he clapped every time the French did.

"Oh!" breathed his grandson in dismay, "please don't! you are applauding compliments given to yourself."

The Churches danced almost every number played by the U.S. Marine Band. The selections were to any couple's taste, including as they did such numbers as "Kiss of Fire," "Moon Glow," "Heartache," and "How Little We Know." The latter number seemed to express the estate delight of teenagers who found themselves dancing in the glittering East Room for the first time. Down from Swarthmore college to attend the reception was Ann Brownell, daughter of Attorney General and Mrs. Herbert Brownell. Ann wore the same dress that her sister, Joan, had appeared in at her first White House reception.

One of the handsomest couples at the reception were Senator (former governor of Ohio) Frank Lausche and Mrs. Lausche. She wore eggshell taffeta embroidered in the church. Mrs. Hazel Harper, Mrs. Gertrude Dickey and Mrs. Jim Alexander served punch, coffee and the wedding cake to the guests.

The couple will live at Grand Ronde.

EAST SALEM (Special)—Swegle Woman's club met last week in the home of Mrs. Mary Swingle with Mrs. Harry Jennings, assisting hostess.

Guest speaker was Mrs. M. M. Magee, who is president of the Marion County Federation of Women's clubs. She was the special guest of Mrs. Clark C. McCall.

Mrs. Magee spoke of the work in general of the federation. Mrs. John Olhoff presided at the business meeting.

bugle beads and small pink rosebuds. She admitted that she was thrilled and excited to see the White House for the first time. "I am excited, too," said her husband chivalrously, "to be here with such a lovely lady."

Having a wonderful time on the dance floor were Representative and Mrs. Al Ukanan of Baker, Ore. Also dancing were Representative and Mrs. Charles O. Porter of Eugene. Greeting their congress from the Hill in the State Dining Room were Representative and Mrs. Walter Nordahl of Slayton—she in a white brocade dress.

Red tulips in silver bowls made the tea table one of beauty. Punch (non-alcoholic) flowed from the gold fountain acquired in President Truman's regime. As the crowd grew and grew, cake got spilled on the velvet rug and glasses splashed on priceless dresses. Despite air conditioning the mansion got over-warm. Bringing things down to earth was White House secretary Mary Jane Mc Caffree, who reported she had found a diamond pin and a misplaced handbag.

Among the first guests to be received by President and Mrs. Eisenhower were a number of Oregonians now in prominent government posts. There was Dresden-like Dorothy McCullough Lee (Portland's former mayor, who is now chairman of the Subversive Activities Control Board) and her husband W. Scott Lee; Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Ervin L. Peterson and Mrs. Peterson. (He is a native of North Bend, where he farmed from 1931 to 1940 and is former state director of agriculture in Oregon); member of the National Mediation Board, Robert O. Boyd and Mrs. Boyd; member of the Federal Reserve Board, Abbot L. Mills and Mrs. Mills; and recently nominated member of the Civil Service Commission, Harry Ellsworth and Mrs. Ellsworth.

Shortly after 10 o'clock, the President and First Lady went from the handsome blue room into the Red room and guests made a path for them as they stepped to the elevator to go up to their living quarters. For a moment sound of voices ceased and everyone applauded.

LaChance-Alexander Wedding on March 2 WILLAMINA (Special)—Miss Nellie Alexander, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hiley of Port Orford, and Melvin LaChance of Grand Ronde, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph LaChance of Grand Ronde, were married Saturday, March 2, in ceremonies at St. Michael's Catholic church in Grand Ronde. The Rev. Ignatius Behl officiated at the marriage.

The bride wore a pale blue suit with a white corsage, and carried a bouquet of white flowers. Miss Myrna Dickey was bridesmaid.

Gene LaChance was best man for his brother.

A reception was given after the ceremony in the recreation hall of McCall, Salem; Mrs. Ford Conderse, Portland; Mrs. Reuben Baisch, Mrs. R. L. Guiss, Mrs. Blaine McCord, Mrs. Gella Mae Connell, and Mrs. Keith Fenner, Woodburn.

Regular play will start Thursday, April 4, (weather permitting) with the noon luncheon at the club house. Hostesses will be Mrs. Tom DeArmond and Mrs. Ivan DeArmond.

Lee Arnold, golf pro from Lewis and Clark college, Portland, was present for the meeting and spoke on plans for golf lessons. He will start lessons April 1, either group or private, and will give lessons on Mondays and Fridays. Those who are interested may call Mrs. Robert Hurst, 8252 or Mrs. O. J. Adkinson, 6436, Woodburn. Pictures on golf etiquette were shown by Dr. Smith following the meeting.

It was announced that regular family play will be the third Sunday in each month, beginning May 19.

LINCOLN (Special)—The March meeting of Lincoln Goodwill club will be at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Hoxie, president, Thursday, for a 1:30 dessert.

LYONS (Special)—Members of the Lyons Woman's Society of Christian Service met at the home of Mrs. Wilson Stevens last week. A dessert was served by Mrs. Stevens honoring her mother, Mrs. Viola Zander, who is visiting at the Stevens' home.

Plans were made to serve the dinner at the Charles Purdy sale on Monday, March 18, with Reta Cruson in charge. Plans also were discussed for the silver tea which will be on Tuesday, March 19, in the fireplace room at the church, with Mrs. Lawrence Leirman of Stayton, district president, the guest speaker. The Rev. Charles McCarthy was present and gave a short talk on stewardship and evangelism.

Marriage Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Merle D. Bruckner are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Mary Lou Shelley, to Wayne L. Trowbridge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer C. Trowbridge, on Friday, March 8, at Kelso, Wash. Both families live in Salem, where the young couple will make their home.

On Monday evening the bridegroom's parents honored the couple with a dinner at their home attended by family members.

Holder of a scholarship from the American Banking association, he is former treasurer of his fraternity, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, is a member of the finance board, and has served as financial manager for the Distinguished Artists Series concert. Beatty is a former Campus Chest manager and is a member of Sigma Alpha Chi, sophomore men's honorary.

Lou Ann Mergler was recently granted a graduate fellowship from Rotary International for one year of graduate study at the Institute of International Study in Geneva, Switzerland. Miss Mergler, who is one of Willamette's delegates to the Model UN, was sponsored by the Rotary club in her home town of Mt. Vernon, Wash., and eventually hopes to enter government or international relations work.

She is a double major in history and French, serving as senior scholar in the latter department, and membership in Alpha Lambda Delta, Pi Gamma Mu, Phi Sigma Iota, and Cap and Gown are included among her activities. She served as scholarship chairman for her sorority, Delta Gamma, and is the chairman of the YWCA commission on world and campus relatedness.
