Watch Missing—A watch was also taken in the burglary of the James H. Turnbull home, 1285 N. 21st St., Tuesday evening, in addition to the previously reported loss of a billfold containing $15 and another $9. It was reported to city police Wednesday. The wallet was later found but the money was missing, officers said.

Released from Hospital—Mrs. Florence Collins, 755 Ferry St., was taken to Salem Memorial Hospital Wednesday afternoon after becoming ill at a downtown store, city first aidmen reported. She was later released, hospital officials said.

Initiation Set—Initiation ceremonies will be held at the old city hall building in West Salem Saturday at 8 p.m. for Sons of Norway Lodge No. 42. Refreshments and a dance will be held after the meeting.

Dunlavy Says Emotions Have Work Effects

Re-Employment Chief Makes Comment At Meet Here

Emotions as well as intelligence affect us in the way we do our work and react to job situations, William Dunlavy told the Salem chapter of the Pacific Northwest Personnel Management Assn. Wednesday evening.

Dunlavy, re-employment director for the Industrial Accident Division, told the group that it's not the situation that is the consequence but the individual's reaction to the situation. The individual tends to interpret the situation in the light of his own personality, Dunlavy said, and thus any two persons will probably react differently to the same situation.

Emotions play an important part in a person's work in that feelings developed in situations at home or elsewhere still affect him at his job. A "blow-up" on the job often stems from an off-the-job source, he said.

He described the use of various tests in determining the aptitude, ability and mental capacity for a particular type of job. He also discussed the use of counseling services of some large companies in helping solve personal problems of employees in order to make happier, more productive workers out of them.

Dinner Served—The Salem chapter of the Indoor Sports Club will hold its monthly potluck dinner and social meeting at the Lions Den Sunday at 1:30 p.m.

Assumed Business Name—E. A. Grace and Delbert Ditter have filed an assumed business name certificate for "Ditter's" of Sublimity, with the county clerk. The firm will engage in the sale of groceries, equipment and other merchandise.

Billfolds Stolen—The theft of billfolds from their purses were reported to city police Wednesday by Ann Barber, 1610 Court St., and Myra Friesen, Dallas. The billfolds were stolen when the purses were left in a study room at Willamette University shortly before noon, they said. About $7 in one purse, $1 in the other and personal papers and identification on both, they said.

Recovering—Circuit Judge Arlie Walker of McMinnville is reported in good condition in Salem Memorial Hospital where he is recovering from recent surgery.

Extension Meeting—West Salem Home Extension unit will meet Tuesday at 10:30 a.m. at the home of Mrs. Evelyn Boese, 1079 Cascade Dr. Topic for discussion will be "Broiler Meats."

Theft Reported—Someone stole a wallet from her purse while she was bowling at the Capital Bowling Alley Wednesday evening, it was reported to city police by Lorraine Bennett, 3350 Neef Ave.

Cuba Revolt

clear whether his death had any connection with the attempt on Batista.

Friend of Castro

Echeverria was identified as a friend of Fidel Castro, young anti-Batista guerrilla leader operating in the mountains of eastern Cuba. The attack on Batista was not directly linked with Castro, but the students undoubtedly were inspired by the guerrilla campaign which the army has been unable to suppress completely.

Observers here attribute the abortive uprising to long-smoldering resentment against some aspects of Batista's regime. Cuba is experiencing prosperity, but many persons fear increased public debt and inflation. Unemployment has been rising. Cuban student groups have always been bitter about the dictatorial side of Batista's rule.

The uprising began with a caravan of buses and cars roaring into the palace plaza. A band of armed student rebels streamed off.

Rearranged Plans

Apparently operating under prearranged plans, one group immediately charged into the palace while other attackers took cover in nearby buildings and laid down a curtain of protective fire.

Shooting also broke out in other parts of the city.

Palace guards went into action and word was flashed to Columbia barracks, eight miles away, for help. Tanks and troops quickly poured into the city, cordoned off the palace area and opened a counterattack.

Batista's Cuba's ex-sergeant strong man, was eating a late lunch on the second floor of the palace when the shooting started. After riding out the fighting on the floor beneath him, he went to his private office and directed the army counterattack.

He said the main assault inside the palace was by eight men who shot down a sergeant, a colonel and a private on guard and forced their way through the south palace door. On the first floor, four headed for Batista's office while the other four raced to other rooms. They threw three grenades Batista said, one of which exploded.

"All I did was to use the telephone and give orders to my aides," Batista said, "although my loaded .45 was very near my hand."

About 20 of the student-led attackers and three guards were killed in the fighting at the palace. The other deaths came in other clashes around the city.

Bus lines are not the only businesses in the state having the problem of increasing costs and decreasing patronage.

Guy who runs a small ferry from Oregon shore to Pudget Island in the Columbia river is appealing to the Oregon Legislature for mercy on tax situation or he'll have to close down, leaving 1,400 persons on the island without direct contact with Oregon shore.

On Washington side they have bridge to shore and islanders can get to Oregon side by driving some 30 miles and taking toll bridge or Astoria ferry.

Elmer Danielson, the ferry owner and operator, says paying real property taxes in both states and income tax in Oregon is taking all his money.

He didn't make too good an impression on tax officials recently, however. He's the guy who tied up his ferry on Washington side of river and let it stay after Oregon tax agents rode it across and subpoenaed his records. They had to hitchhike to Longview bridge and back up Oregon side—some 60 miles—to get their car.

Capacity house at Senator Frank Sitt Tuesday night to hear Hon. Sitt perform at the electronic organ. He went the route from sounds of seagulls and ocean waves in "Ebbtide" to deep, throbbing tones of base viol. Reproduced sounds of a variety of instruments during the performance of tunes ranging from 'pops' to classics.

Sitt was here as representative of plastic and organ manufacturers and local outlet and probably will be remembered by many as the organist who has played at floral display at the state fair the last five years.

Polk County Judge Cal Barnhart received phone call during midst of heavy rain. (What else have we been having) the other day from woman who demanded county to do something about unplugging ditch in front of her place. Water was flooding the area, she complained.

But, protested the judge, that ditch can't be plugged. Crews just cleaned ditches along the road the other day.

Well, it's plugged now, says caller. Her children built a dam across.

Well, then, can't the kids go remove the dam, Judge Barnhart asks?

Nope. It's raining and she doesn't want them to go outside, she replies.

The judge's reply to that wasn't reported, but he probably should have advised her to either get a shovel or a boat.

Two valley area men graded top jobs in the Oregon Trades Association meeting at Redmond the other day. Ivan Esau of Dallas was elected president and George Kreitzberg of Salem was elected secretary-treasurer.

One way to keep from getting old, says Archibald, is to take frequent naps—especially while you're driving a car.

Latham Gets Promotion in Oregon Guard

Harvey Latham, who for the past nine years has been executive officer with the Oregon Military Department, has been promoted to the rank of major in the Adjutant General's Corps of the Oregon National Guard. The promotion was effective March 5.

Latham was on active duty with the army in World War II, being called in September, 1940, with the Oregon National Guard and the 41st Division and going to the Pacific with them. Later he served at the Base Port at Sydney, Australia.

Industry Takes Academic Staff, Cabell States

Higher Salaries Given As Reason for Competition

By JAMES D. OLSON
Capital Journal Writer

Industry is competing with educational institutions throughout the nation in recruiting members of the academic staff of Oregon's institutions of higher learning by offering higher salaries than the state can afford to pay.

This was pointed out Thursday to a sub-committee of the joint ways and means committee by Henry Cabell, chairman of the Finance Committee of the Board of Higher Education.

104 Go Elsewhere

During the last two bienniums, Cabell said a total of 104 members of the academic staff with ranks of assistant professor or above have resigned because of offers of higher salaries elsewhere.

He added the recruitment being carried on for members of the teaching staff of the state university and colleges made even greater inroads on new instructors. A total of 333 in this category left the state to accept higher salaries during the last four years.

Seeks Restoration of Cut

Members of the board appeared before a sub-committee of the joint ways and means committee requesting restoration of a $1,337,445 cut made in requests for academic salaries by Gov. Elmo Smith's budget staff.

After Chancellor John R. Richards had reviewed the salary requests and told the committee that Oregon now stood 14th in the scale of salaries paid to the teaching staff, Senator Jean Lewis, chairman of the sub-committee, told the witnesses the committee was sympathetic with the salary problems faced by the board.

Not a Padded Budget

Chancellor Richards said that the budget department had trimmed over $1 million out of budget requests other than salaries.

And Finance Chairman Cabell said the board had not presented a "padded budget," declaring members were well aware of the financial problem faced by the legislature.

Percentage-wise, the board is asking the legislature to approve a salary budget request which would include a 4.8 per cent one-step increase in present pay scales and a salary improvement fund enabling the board to grant an average increase of 15 per cent in academic salaries.

9.5 Increase Offered

The budget department reduced the requested salary improvement fund to a point where only 9.5 per cent increases could be made.

Valley Woman Found Dead In Her Closet

A 31-year-old Woodburn area woman was found dead of a gunshot wound at her home Wednesday afternoon. The wound was apparently self-inflicted, sheriff's deputies said.

The body of Jean Anderson was found in a bedroom closet by the widower, Robert Andrew Anderson, when he returned to the home at Rt. 2, Box 295, Woodburn, about 5 p.m., he told deputies.

When he found the home cold and could not locate his wife, he went to the closet to see if her coat was gone and found her body there, he said. Deputies said she had apparently placed the muzzle of the shotgun against her stomach and pulled the trigger.

She had been despondent for some time, Anderson said.

Survivors include three children, James Robert, 2; Thomas Pete, 1; and Michael Andrew, 5 months.

The body was taken to Ekman Funeral home in Silverton where services will be announced.

Molalla Crash Hurts 3 Youth

MOLALLA (Special)—One Molalla High School boy was in Silverton Hospital Friday with a fractured skull, and two girls were being treated for serious injuries suffered in an automobile accident six miles west of Molalla Thursday night.

Most seriously injured was Gary Burghardt, 14-year-old sophomore. Janet Olsen, 16, driver of the car, who lives in the Yoder district, received a fractured pelvis, a broken wrist and cuts. Janice Farnell, 14, Rt. 1, Molalla, suffered cuts about the head and face. Willy Olds, 16, escaped with bruises.

The students were returning from the Salem basketball tournament when the car skidded on wet pavement and crashed into a utility pole. The Burghardt youth was pinned in the wreckage until help arrived.

Willamette Lemon Growers Incorporate

A group of Corvallis men who grow lemons filed articles of incorporation here Thursday for the "Willamette Valley Lemon Growers."

Their aim is the "advancement, protection and development of persons engaged in raising Oregon grown lemons."

Among the incorporators are George Davis, Roland Groder and Paul Mohr.

Police Catch 5 Youths With Stolen 'Caps'

Four youths from Warm Springs and one from Madras have some reports to write on the subject of hubcap thefts.

The five were released to Madras High School authorities Wednesday night after they were checked by city police about 11 p.m. and found to have eight stolen hubcaps in their possession.

The youths admitted taking them from three cars in Salem. Officers were looking for them after a witness described their car and reported that they had taken hubcaps off a parked car.

They were released to school authorities after it was agreed that each would write a report on the incident for school authorities and for their parents.

'Customers' Steal $180 From Station

The theft of about $180 from a Portland road service station by two "customers," was reported to city police Thursday morning.

A man and a woman came into the Northside Shell Service Station, 2686 Portland Rd., and walked into the station office while the attendants were busy, police said.

3 Madras Youths Injured in Crash

Three 17-year-old Madras High School youths suffered apparently nonserious injuries early Thursday when their car crashed at high speed into a building at Church and Hood streets, city police reported.

Larry Easter, Madras, and Richard Macey, Warm Springs, were reported in good condition at Salem Memorial Hospital. Easter suffered a possible nose fracture and lip lacerations while Macey suffered a knee laceration and chest injuries. Both were slated for X-rays Thursday.

They were passengers in a car two "customers," was reported to city police Thursday morning.

The front end of the car was completely smashed, the windshield was broken and the steering wheel broken, police said. The heavy door on the building was shattered.

Brunoe was not reported injured in the 4:30 a.m. accident.
