We all co-operate, except one brother. He brings his family to Mom's every week or so, staying for dinner but never offering money. How can we make this selfish brother realize that Mom can't afford to treat them so lavishly? When we mention it to Mom, she begs us not to say anything to them.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am 28 years old, tall, dark and handsome. I have met a wonderful girl but am afraid of getting too attached to her, as I have a morbid fear of marriage.
