Hodge Linked Banker Slain In Gang Style

Marcus Hauled Into Car, Body Found 6 Blocks Away; He Was Carrying $300,000 in Cash, Checks

CHICAGO (AP)—Leon Marcus, a prime figure in the Orville Hodge scandal, carried more than $300,000 in cash and checks when he was slain, police reported Monday.

Marcus, 61, onetime majority stockholder in the Southmoor Bank and Trust Co. was put to death in gangland fashion Sunday night.

Air Base Dead For Good, C. C. Told by Chief

That there is no chance to revive the Willamette Valley air base project, recently canceled by the Air Force, is indicated in a letter received by the Chamber of Commerce from George S. Robinson, deputy special assistant for installations.

The letter is in reply to messages and letters sent from Salem after word of the cancellation was received.

New Passport For Newsman Turned Down

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department disclosed Monday that a newsman William D. Worthy, who defied a ban on travel to Red China, has been refused a new passport on grounds that giving him one would be "prejudicial to the interests of the United States."

No-Picket Halt Loses In Senate 16-14 Vote Again Balks Repeal Attempt

By PAUL W. HARVEY, JR., Associated Press Writer

The 1953 law banning unions from picketing non-union businesses for the purpose of organizing them was upheld by the Oregon Senate Monday.

The Senate refused, 16-14, to reconsider its vote of last Friday, when it rejected, also 16-14, a bill to repeal the law.

Monday's action means that the repeal legislation is dead as far as this Legislature is concerned.

Sen. Monroe Sweetland (D), Milwaukie, had moved to reconsider. He said that if his motion were approved, he would then move to send it back to the Labor and Industries Committee for further study.

Cites Ohmart Remark He pointed out that Sen. Lee Ohmart, Salem, had said Friday that the committee hadn't studied the 1953 law.

Monday's vote was identical to that of Friday.

Sen. Carl Francis (R), Dayton, was the only Republican who voted for repeal. Sens. Harry D. Bovin, Klamath Falls, and Dan Thiel, Astoria, were the only Democrats who opposed repeal.

There was no debate on Sweetland's motion. He was the only senator who spoke.

Meanwhile, the first concrete proposal to revise the state income tax law was made.

It came from Democratic Speaker Pat Dooley, who proposed a plan whereby tax rates would be increased in the lower brackets, and decreased in the upper brackets.

The present effective income tax rate, including the surtax, runs from 3 to 11 1/2 per cent.

Dooley proposed that the rate be 5 per cent on the first $1,000 of taxable income, 6 per cent on the next $1,000, 8 per cent on the next $1,000, 8 per cent on the next $1,000, 8 per cent on the next $1,000.

Tornadoes and Hard Rains Hit Areas in Texas

DALLAS (AP)—Tornadoes and heavy rains pounded parts of Texas yesterday, but despite the violence there was a bright side to the weather picture—the drought showed signs of easing its long grip on parts of the state.

A small line plowed across eastern Texas into Louisiana last night. Tornadoes lashed at least five places. Only two persons were injured, but property damage was high.

A two-mile path of destruction was cut in the southeast Texas town of Huntsville, apparently from a tornado. Damage was estimated at half a million dollars.

Late Flashes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Walter (D-Pa.), prompted by the Senate investigation of alleged financial dealings by Teamsters Union officials, Monday introduced a bill designed to safeguard the funds of labor unions.

DICKSON, Tenn. (AP)—Nine persons were killed when a military plane crashed 8 miles south of here shortly before noon Monday.

O&C Timber Mart Restrictions Lifted By Interior Bureau

PORTLAND (AP)—The U.S. Department of the Interior Monday abolished marketing area restrictions on the two million acres of rich O&C timberland in Western Oregon.

The decision means that O&C timber no longer has to be processed or manufactured in the area where it was purchased.

It applies also to the Coos Bay Wagon Road grant lands.

Undersecretary of the Interior Hatfield Chilson said abolishment of the restrictions will boost employment in logging areas "as the end result of better utilization."

He said that knocking down the marketing barriers will promote "conditions conducive to competition with the end that prices will naturally channel timber to the most efficient manufacturers."

Many lumbering communities will be aided by the new program, Chilson said. He added that "any possible injury will be minor."

The federal government's decision to end the controversial marketing areas followed four years of study and a hearing in Portland March 1.

Chilson said the federal government will continue to impose its sustained yield program on the broad belt of Douglas fir that covers most of western Oregon.

The timberland has been administered by the Bureau of Land Management since 1936. It reverts to the federal government in 1956.

The land originally was given to the Oregon and California Railroad Co. in 1866, but the firm later failed to comply with stipulations of the federal grant.

Senator Bares Store Sale of Schools' Food

Sen. Monroe Sweetland (D), Milwaukie, advised Safeway Stores Monday that it is selling canned tomatoes that have been bought by the U.S. Department of Agriculture for use in the school lunch program.

He said that underneath the Safeway "Gardenside" label is pasted a government label saying that the tomatoes are for use only in the school lunch program, and that the can is not to be sold or exchanged.

Sweetland wrote George Mangum, Safeway district manager at Portland, that "it would appear that one of your suppliers has been grossly at fault, or worse."

He also said he has asked Sen. Neuberger (D-Ore.) to investigate in Washington.

Sweetland said he found the canned tomatoes on sale in several Safeway stores.

'Mac' Tells Commons: No Secret U.S. Deals

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan told the House of Commons Monday he did not enter into any secret engagements in his Bermuda conference with President Eisenhower.

There had been some whispers within Macmillan's own Conservative Party that he "sold out" Britain to the United States in exchange for guided missiles to cut British defense expenditures.

"It would be absurd to suppose that in a few days we would find solutions to all the immense problems that confronted us," Macmillan said in opening a debate on the Bermuda meeting.

"But we covered much ground and we did reach agreements on certain matters set out in the communiqué. I want to make it clear that there were no secret engagements."

"There were some matters on which we were not in agreement," Macmillan said in opening a debate on the Bermuda meeting.

Without elaborating, he cautioned against placing too much importance on the disagreements. He declared that, as a result of the talks, Britain and the United States "understood each other better."

"I made plain our view that just trusting to the United Nations is no substitute for a foreign policy," he said.

He clearly implied that he pressed for lifting of Western restrictions on trade with Red China.

Mac Tells Commons: Military Plane Blows Up; Five Or More Killed

DICKSON, Tenn. (AP)—Five persons were reported killed when a military plane from Langley Field, Va., "blew up" and crashed Monday eight miles south of this central Tennessee town.

The plane carried 10 or 11 persons. It crashed shortly before noon.

"Five bodies have been recovered," said Dr. W. A. Crosby of the Bell and Crosby Clinic here.

"Two injured men have been brought to this clinic. Each has a broken leg. One is critical." These came down by parachute, he said.

"One of the two brought here said: 'I just blew up.'"

A bystander said that when one dazed victim came to he said the plane was "loaded with classified material to guard it."

This same survivor was quoted that the plane carried "high powered" Washington military personnel.

A rescue worker reported that he helped recover the bodies of 10 persons but there was no confirmation immediately that this number had been killed.

Russ Refuse H-Test Halt Until All Do

LONDON (AP)—The Soviet Union refused Monday to abandon H-bomb tests until other powers do. At the same time, Britain again rejected a Japanese appeal that British H-bomb tests in the Pacific Ocean this spring be abandoned.

The Soviet position was restated in a note by Japan distributed here by Tass, the Soviet news agency. Japan, in a note dated March 9, asked Russia to discontinue tests.

Pranks involving any property damage appeared to be absent Monday, the traditional day for practical jokes to display their so-called talents.

Na April Fool's Day damage was reported by police or school officials up to noon Monday.

Couple Hurt in Wreck

SCIO (Special)—Howard Trollinger, 40, Scio, is in a critical condition at Lebanon Community Hospital as the result of a skull fracture suffered in a one-car accident on Highway 226 Sunday afternoon.

His wife, Norene Sims Trollinger, suffered several fractured ribs and an injured shoulder. Her condition was listed as good at the Lebanon hospital.

On Way to Albany The Trollingers were on their farm way to Albany from their farm home on Smallman Creek near Scio. Their car skidded when it hit a patch of slick pavement, slid across the road and turned over three times. State Police Officer Charles Halbrook of Albany reported.

The accident happened between Scio and Crabtree and tied up traffic briefly.

The mishap became the most recent of a long series in which members of the Trollinger family have been involved over the past 15 years.

Trollinger's father, James Trollinger, suffered fatal injuries in a farm tractor accident a few weeks ago. Their youngest daughter, Denise, 15 months, was run over and killed by an oil truck last year.

The 14-year-old son, Calvin, was hospitalized for many months with an injured hip and his brother, Harold, underwent long hospitalization following an operation.

Suffered Burns Sharon, now 17 and a Scio High School senior, started the long series of accidents a few years ago when she suffered severe burns as the result of matches she found in the family car. Several skin grafts were necessary as a result of the burns.

The Trollinger's barn was burned several years ago as another link in the series of accidents which have hit the family.

Mrs. Carroll's Body Found In Desert

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Sources close to the Iranian government said Monday Prime Minister Hussein Ala has told associates he will resign as a result of the desert bandit massacre of three Americans.

These informants said the prime minister's resignation will be announced Wednesday, after the departure of West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, now in Tehran as a government guest, so as "to prevent embarrassment" to Adenauer.

The sources said Dr. Menecher Eghbal, vigorous president of Tehran University, court minister and close associate of the Shah, will be proposed as new premier.

Stronger Hand vs. Bandits The change reportedly was to give the government a stronger hand in dealing with banditry and tribal defiance of the government.

Earlier, the United States announced that the Point Four program in southeast Iran has been suspended until the killers are caught.

The American victims of the bandits were Mrs. Anita Carroll and her husband, Kevin, a U.S. Point Four program official; Brewster Wilson, development specialist for the East Foundation; Mrs. Carroll's body was found Sunday two miles from the spot where her husband, Wilson, and two Iranians were slain in ambush a week ago Sunday.

Not Stern Enough Clark S. Gregory, director of the Point Four program in Iran, announced that aid had been suspended because he was not wholly satisfied with measures taken so far to wipe out the desert bandits responsible for the killings. Gregory made the announcement after an on-the-spot investigation.

The bandit band, reportedly afoot and whittled down by several runaway fights with pursuing police and troops, is pushing through bleak desert mountain country toward southern Baluchistan in a desperate attempt to escape across the frontier into Pakistan.

The government announced it had rushed arms to the loyal Baluchistan frontier tribes, enlisting them to help cut off the escape route to the border. A $100,000 reward for desert loot was put on the head of each bandit.

Follow Vultures to Body Police reported they had finally found Mrs. Carroll's body by following the circling course of vultures flying over the desert.

She had one gunshot wound through the heart. Her body was fully clothed. Police said the bandits apparently started to carry her away as a hostage, then shot her when they became afraid she would impede their escape.

They said the condition of her shoes indicated that she had not fled across the desert foot. The body was flown to Tehran, where street crowds watched silently as a flower-banked ambulance carried the remains from the airport to a mortuary.

Local tribesmen had aided in the hunt for the body of the 35-year-old American woman.
