Silverton Eyes Athletic Field As Unit Picked

Appointment of a board of viewers to inspect the property involved, authorized by the Marion County Court Friday, will probably lead the way toward the construction of an athletic field in Silverton.

School District 4C some time ago petitioned the court for permission to close Bartlett street for a distance of 400 feet between Church and Mill streets in Silverton. At the same time it was pointed out that a street to take its place has been constructed.

A petition against the vacation was filed before it was known that the substitute street would be built. The school has posted a bond of $200 to insure that Marion County will not be called upon to pay for the viewing of the premises or any other expense that may develop.

The district plans to construct an athletic field that will take in that portion of Bartlett street that is to be vacated.

Girls Carry Load for Twirp Day

Carrying boys' books was only one chore for the girls at North and South Salem High Schools Friday as everyone wore his oddest costume during the turnabout Twirp Day. Here at South, Jill Scott got identical costumes of Bermuda shorts, socks, vests and white shirts for herself and her favorite beau, Dan Moore. But Dan still piled on the books, much to Jill's dismay. It's a long way to class, too. (Capital Journal Photo)

'This Is Life,' Boys Say of Twirp Week

Boys enjoyed their last day being waited on by the girls and odd costumes filled the halls as Twirp Week ended at North and South Salem High Schools today.

"Twirp dances (the girl pays) are set for both schools tonight. North High climaxes a week of turnabout with its dance, "Headlines." South will have a Dogpatch "Ya' All Come" dance.

Twirp Week is an annual affair at the high schools, although South cut it to one day this year. Twirping is featured by the girls opening doors, carrying books and paying for dates.

Friday the students turned out in their oddest clothes. Girls were wearing pedal pushers, or Bermuda shorts and old shirts. Boys had on jeans, sweatshirts and odd hats.

Members of the committee were told by Corbett that there is pressure developing for completion of the Ways and Means job.

"You all have bills in your subcommittees and I would urge, that you report these as rapidly as possible," Corbett said. "This committee should not be the one to hold up this session."

Advance planning on state building for the purpose of bringing more accurate cost estimates on future state building, and appropriating $287,000 to the State Board of Control to accomplish this purpose, was introduced by direction of the committee.

Sen. Ward Cook (D), Portland, said when the bill returns to the committee, after introduction, it is proposed to earmark certain future buildings on which advance planning will be recommended.

If this is done, he said, the 1959 Legislature will have construction figures that will be more realistic than those that are now made some 15 or 18 months before the Legislature meets.

Hospital Bill Introduced
 A bill appropriating $170,000 for planning of the second phase of the Dammash Mental Hospital near Wilsonville was introduced. The 1955 Legislature appropriated $6,330,000 for the first unit of this hospital, working plans of which are expected to be submitted to the State Board of Control early in 1958.

The first state institutional budgets were approved by the committee. The budgets winning approval were:

State School for the Blind, $461,983, a $2,000 reduction from the budget recommendation; State Deaf School, $1,014,457, an addition of $16,000 to partially restore some reductions made by the budget department; and Hillcrest School for Girls, $764,870, a reduction of $12,270 from the budget recommendation.

Also approved were budgets in the amount of $284,966 for the State Civil Defense Agency, a reduction of $84,000 from the budget figure. It was explained that the federal government has a $370,000 program for Oregon during the next biennium, making possible the state saving.

A budget of $73,604 for the State Commission for the Blind was also approved and reported out.

Stadter Drops Beer Charges Against Two

Salvaging stolen beer from the creek has its risks not only for the persons salvaging it, but for the state as well in attempting to prosecute.

This was shown when District Judge E. O. Stadter Friday dismissed the larceny charge brought against Joe Ben Bowers and Bill Uwanawich Miller.

Earlier this week thieves broke into a garage at the Gideon Stolz Distributing Co., 450 South Summer St., pried the locks from a truck and took 132 cases of beer. Most of the beer was thrown into the creek. Bower and Miller read about it in the newspapers.

While officers and company employees were trying to recover it, they met Bowers and Miller who had taken some of it from the stream. The two turned the salvage over to the officers.

Later, they allegedly got some more of it from the creek and attempted to keep it. Six cases were involved. They were charged with larceny under $75 value.

When the case went to trial Friday, the prosecution was unable to prove that the beer actually came from the Gideon Stolz Co. So the case was dismissed. Nevertheless the beer was returned to the company.

Israel Fears

and Premier Suleiman Nabulsi who is staunchly pro-Egyptian and who called only Thursday for Jordan to develop its ties with the Soviet Union.

Israel also has expressed fear that Saudi Arabian troops which moved into Jordan with Syrian troops at time of the Sinai Desert campaign would partition Jordan and take over the port of Aqaba just across the top of the gulf from the Israeli port of Eilat.

New Warning
 A new warning came from Syria Thursday night that the Gulf of Aqaba was "Arab international waters" and that no ships could pass through without Egyptian and Saudi Arabian permission.

The new situation in Syria and Jordan almost outweighed the current diplomatic maneuvering over Egypt's plans for running the Suez Canal.

Egypt delayed publication of its "final memorandum" scheduled for Thursday night and began a hasty round of talks with U.S. Ambassador Raymond Hare.

Diplomatic sources in Cairo expressed belief the delay may indicate Egypt was willing to make some changes in its plan, but Egyptians said there would be no change in the decision to bar Israeli ships.

Egypt also appeared to be sending up trial balloons for a Geneva conference between Egypt and the major canal users on its future.

Egypt considered its position strengthened by the increasing number of ships using the canal. The British tanker President Brand was reported by Egyptian sources to have applied for permission to transit the canal Saturday on Egypt's terms.

The canal developments brought dismay in Jerusalem where officials felt they had been let down by the United States and by UN Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold.

Monroe, tried to get immediate consideration of a Republican bill to repeal the surtax. This was defeated 35-20.

Both houses again will have a day off Saturday because there aren't enough bills to make up a calendar.

The Senate passed and sent to the governor a bill to prohibit net fishing for salmon in waters off the coast. This bill would not become effective until Washington, California and Canada have adopted similar legislation.

Purpose of the bill is to conserve salmon. The Washington legislature already has approved the measure.

Another bill sent to the governor by the Senate will compel schools to teach the effects of alcohol and narcotics. This will replace a law that was repealed in 1955.

The House passed bill to provide state aid for schools which have driver training programs was sent to the Education Committee by the Senate for a needed correction.

The Senate passed and sent to the House a bill to repeal the law which permits cities under 5,000 population to have the secretary of State take population counts. This law no longer is necessary because the state Census Board now makes annual estimates for all cities.

The Joint Ways and Means Committee voted to introduce a bill to discontinue the Eastern Oregon Tuberculosis Hospital at The Dalles. There is a possibility that when three young men she had never seen before insisted that she dance with them. Police said they had been denied service earlier, but returned for a second time.

"They started pawing me, so the bartender and two or three other customers threw them out on the street," she said.

"They shook me up, trying to pick me up like that," she said. "I left and went home — wasn't that lucky?"

Police said about 15 persons were in the bar.
