

National President to Visit AAUW

Of great interest to members and friends of American Association of University Women is the coming Salem visit of Dr. Anna L. Rose Hawkes, national president of AAUW and chairman of the board of directors. Dr. Hawkes will be in Salem to speak to the local branch membership at an evening meeting, Monday, April 8, in the Carrier Room of the First Methodist church, at 8 o'clock.

At the dinner, those pouring and assisting at the table will be Dr. Helen Pearce, Mrs. Floyd L. Uiter, and Miss Beryl Holt, all of whom have been honored with name fellowship grants by the local AAUW.

Dr. Hawkes will meet board officers of the local AAUW at an informal potluck luncheon Monday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. Russel Beutler.

Mrs. Robert Y. Thornton is arranging a round table for educational leaders in the Legislature and State Department of Education to meet Dr. Hawkes Monday afternoon at the State Library.

That women must not only have a liberal but a liberating education for the multiple role they must now play, is the belief of Dr. Hawkes. "A woman has to be housewife, business woman, mother, and community leader, and for that reason she must have a liberal arts education, that she may be qualified for anything she may have to do," Dr. Hawkes says.

The national president of the AAUW is well qualified to advise women on the importance of achieving the right kind of education for this multiple role. She has been an educator, an administrator, and author. She plays the role of homemaker as well. At her remodeled farmhouse home in Orleans, Vermont, she cooks for her family which includes six step-grandchildren and two great-grandchildren, and the many friends whom she entertains there. Her favorite pastimes are cooking, gardening, decorating and swimming. Despite her professional and personal commitments, Dr. Hawkes has been ever mindful of community needs. She served on the national board of the Young Women's Christian Association from 1934-35 and has helped in Red Cross and Community Chest drives. She represented the AAUW at the White House Conference on Education in 1955 and is currently a member of the Federal Advisory Council on Employment Security, Department of Labor. Dr. Hawkes is also the only woman serving as a member of the U.S. Advisory Commission on Educational Exchange.

As a member of this commission, Dr. Hawkes started on a round-the-world tour in January 1956, to survey and evaluate the effectiveness of the international and cultural exchange program. Dr. Hawkes believes the United States should demonstrate its willingness to "Exchange ideas as well as goods." She was particularly impressed by the way women in the countries she visited are working at international understanding.

Soon after retirement in 1955 as dean of students at Mills College, Dr. Hawkes was elected to the top office in AAUW. The Association has a membership of more than 140,000 in 1964 branches throughout the United States, the District of Columbia, Alaska, Hawaii and Guam. This has meant cross-country travel and her current trip is bringing her to Oregon to be the keynote speaker at the combined AAUW state convention and regional conference in Baker, April 25-27, and to visit branches in Salem, Portland and Corvallis. Her visit is made through the travel program which finances visits of national AAUW leaders to the various states and regions.
