TYPHOID FEVER POSSIBLE

Police Chief Warns of Danger In Drinking Shelton Ditch Beer

The possibility of contracting typhoid fever or other diseases from bottles of beer recovered from Shelton Ditch was reported in a warning by Chief of Police Clyde Warren Tuesday.

A number of persons have reportedly been seen drinking from bottles recovered from the ditch last week, he said.

Drainage and other contamination in the waters of the ditch may collect on the bottles and particularly around the caps, he said. When someone drinks from one of the bottles, his lips come in contact with the most germ-laden part of the bottle.

The beer, itself, is presumably all right, the chief said. It is the possible contamination of the bottles that has officials worried.

Some 130 cases of beer were dumped in the creek by a thief after it was stolen from trucks in the Gideon Stoiz Co. warehouse garage at 450 S. Summer St.

"We've saved $10 to $15 per month in fuel costs with NATURAL GAS!"

Says Mr. Wilbur Robinson, 3052 Pioneer Drive, Salem
"In other words we are getting more heat from less gas, plus the lower rate."

This picture of Mr. Robinson was taken in his busy basement workshop. His workshop has been especially busy these days for the Robinsons have been building their charming new home themselves.

One phase of the construction that Mr. Robinson was most particular in selecting was the heating plant. He chose natural gas because of the low cost, convenience, cleanliness and safety. On the subject of safety, Mr. Robinson has this to say:

"We like the safety of natural gas. We heat our house with a Gas Fired Select Temp Steam system, and if anything should go wrong, the gas is immediately shut off. People tell us that flowers will not survive in a house that's heated with gas. You should see my wife's plants and flowers—the envy of a lot of our friends."

The Robinson's new home is a large home with two bedrooms and a den upstairs and a bedroom downstairs, plus a daylight basement that is heated. After comparing his gas bills from a year ago, he notes savings of $10 to $15 per month with the new natural gas rates.

Why don't you start saving on heating costs, too! Change to clean...safe... low-cost natural gas, today's leading home-heating fuel. See your heating contractor or appliance dealer right away!
