About the only thing uncooperative about Salem's opening Northwest League game, Thursday night, were the fans, for the Senators had only 1,546 of them on hand as they stopped defending champion Yakima 6-4 in the 1957 inaugural.

Weatherwise, it was the warmest night of the week, but the customers still didn't turn out as anticipated. Those who weren't on hand missed a fine game, especially for this early in the campaign.
