Austria Ambassador to Get Moscow Post, Men Named For Burma, Ethiopia

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — President Eisenhower Saturday picked Llewellyn E. Thompson, now ambassador to Austria, to be the new ambassador to Russia. Thompson, whose nomination will go to the Senate next week, succeeds Charles E. (Chip) Bohlen, Eisenhower's vacation headquarters.

Eisenhower also announced his intention to nominate next week: Don C. Bliss, now State Department foreign service inspector, to be ambassador to Ethiopia. He replaces Joseph Simonson, who has resigned.

Picked

Burma Ambassador
Walter P. McCaughy, now State Department director of Chinese affairs, to be ambassador to Burma. He succeeds Joseph C. Satterthwaite, who has been reassigned.

Eisenhower's choice of Thompson, 52, for the highly important Moscow post has been forecast for weeks.

Thompson speaks Russian fluently and served as an adviser to the President and as an interpreter at the 1955 Geneva summit conference.

Career Diplomat
A career diplomat, Thompson has been in the Foreign Service since 1920. He has been ambassador to Austria since 1952. From 1940 to 1943 he was second secretary and consul at the U. S. embassy in Moscow.

In 1949 Thompson was deputy assistant secretary of state for European affairs.

In announcing the President's selection of Thompson, White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said in reply to a question that a successor to him as ambassador to Austria will be named soon. There has been speculation the Vienna post will go to State Department official Jacob Beam.

Bliss, 59, named envoy to Ethiopia, also is a career diplomat. He has been in the Foreign Service since 1923.

McCaughy, 40, picked to be ambassador to Burma, has been State Department director of Chinese affairs since 1952.
