WOODBURN (Special) — What may be a state record of achievement was reported Saturday night as members of the Woodburn Junior Chamber of Commerce installed new officers at a dinner meeting in the Grange hall.

Loren Flomer, retiring president, told the membership that the Jaycees during the last year completed more than 50 projects, all of a public service nature, giving them an average of approximately a project a week.

The projects included everything from burning Christmas trees to providing refuse disposal cans for the City of Woodburn to help keep the streets clean.

Named as key men for the year were Charles (Scotty) Campbell and Mickey McClure.

Flomer reported that 15 new members were added to the Chapter during the year and that $3200 was spent in the community.

Traded Reservations Give Stayton Pair Long Cruise

STAYTON (Special) — Reservations secured when someone else had cancelled theirs, resulted in a pleasant vacation trip for Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Rowe. The Rowes had their reservations for a tour in another part of the world, but accepted two that took them instead to Samoa, Fiji, New Zealand and Australia as well as Hawaii.

Thirty days of the 42-day cruise were spent at sea with very few days when they even saw another ship. Leaving San Francisco on the Matson liner Monterey, they found the ship was a first class, 350-passenger vessel, with a 200-seat theater, stores and shops, swimming pool, doctor's office and hospital. There was even a daily newspaper.

Stop at Hawaii

After stopping one day at Hawaii, the cruise took them to Samoa, having a population of 21,500 for the seven islands. The Polynesian people were most friendly, the Rowes reported.

"Here the natives bring all of their craft products to the market place on ship arrival days every six weeks. We found them sitting on the grass or on mats offering shell beads and many wooden souvenirs," Rowe said.

A visit to the city of Suva on Fiji Island brought an interesting contrast in its peoples, about equally divided between the Fiji-

Amity Has Test For Sanitation Auxiliary Unit

Setup Would Be Used In Civil Defense Emergency

AMITY (Special)—A series of permeation tests were conducted recently in the Amity City Park by Leslie Bennett of the emergency sanitation bureau and Cliff Wolf, city water superintendent.

Results of the tests will determine the soil absorption capacity for the proposed installation of a septic tank system and subsurface disposal field on that site.

The tests were performed by request of the City Council, as an aftermath of a special meeting held April 12, when William Ford, Amity Civil Defense director, and Leslie Bennett, met with the City officials.

Discussed at the meeting was the need for emergency Civil Defense sanitation facilities in the City Park, since that site has been designated as an emergency reception center in event of atomic attack.

Bennett specified the Civil Defense requirements and recommendations for such a project and suggested preliminary investigation of soil absorption be made, prior to the construction of the sanitary facilities. The Council approved the procedure.
