Dances on Campus of Interest

By LYNN HERRALL
(Capital Journal Correspondent)

OREGON STATE COLLEGE, Corvallis (Special) — The excitement of Beaver Preview has died down and the campus is back to normal size and routine. From the chatter that went on between departing seniors, I would gather that the weekend was a great success!

The beach, with its dash of beautiful weather last weekend, beckoned to about one-half of the Oregon State population. Many sun-burned backs and legs were the price that those temporary beachcombers paid.

What does the OSC crystal ball hold for the future? Approximately 25 of the men's house dances are scheduled for next weekend.

No doubt, there will be many busy girls on the night of May 4. Joyce Mount will be attending the Theta Xi "Roman Rump." Carol McCandlish will be going to the Sigma Nu dance. Kathy Deeney will be at the Chi Phi house for their annual spring function. Carol Boesch will be among those at the Phi dance. Darlene Hankel will attend the Pi Kappa Phi ball. Nancy Snider and Lynn Herrall will both be among participants in the Hawaiian Kappa Sigma dance. To be seen at the Miami Triad will be Jill Cummings and Bob Beals. Bruce Patterson, Elaine Morrow, John Steelhammer and John Clayton, and attending the Kite-Key dance, a joint dance for Kappa Kappa Gamma and Kappa Alpha Theta, will be Joyce Johnson and Brad Krueger. Lynne Enyeart and Terry Parsons.

Monday night was the tapping for Talons, the sophomore service honorary. Honored from Salem are Carolyn Cushman, Alpha Xi Delta, and Pam Clayton, Pi Beta Phi. Both girls hail from North Salem High. Tomorrow at 1:00 these girls will be officially tapped at an honor convocation.

FOOD NOTES

Best Buys On Market Highlighted

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Chickens and chuck roast, two old standbys of shoppers seeking a comparatively inexpensive main dish for their families' Sunday dinner tables, will be featured in many of the nation's supermarkets and grocery stores this week.

Pork prices were cut 2 to 6 cents a pound in many areas, and rib roast of beef also was lower in some areas.

With the advent of better growing weather, more and more vegetables from nearby fields are becoming available in the stores, giving the housewife more of a selection to choose from.

This week, for instance, new green cabbage is rated close to an outstanding buy, along with spinach, kale, green onions and radishes. Asparagus, too, is in more plentiful supply.

Carrots, beets, parsnips and white turnips also are rated outstanding buys this week, while good buys may be found among iceberg and romaine lettuce, egg plant, red and white varieties of potatoes from Florida, broccoli, peppers, cucumbers and salad greens.

Green beans also are good in some areas, but have a wide range of quality and condition, so the shopper must choose carefully.

Cauliflower, pascal celery, tomatoes and yellow and green squash are moderately priced in many areas. Rhubarb is a good buy.

Washington apples, Oregon pears and California avocados are moderately priced at fruit.

McMINNVILLE (Special) — Dr. Ethel Reuter has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Gerda Christine, to Lee Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Brown, also of McMinnville. A mid-summer wedding is planned.

Miss Reuter is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta at Oregon State College and Mr. Brown is a member of Phi Sigma Kappa at the college.

BANANA CREAM ANGELFOOD CAKE
Ingredients: 1 package (8½ ounces) small-sized angelfood mix, 1 package (3½ ounces) vanilla-flavored instant pudding and pie filling mix, ripe bananas, orange juice.

Method: Make up angelfood mix according to package directions, baking cake in loaf pan (about 9 by 5 by 2½ inches). Make up vanilla pudding mix according to package directions. Put individual slices of the angelfood cake together with a filling of the pudding mix and sliced bananas dipped in orange juice. Put a dollop of the filling on the top center of each "sandwich" and garnish with sliced fluted banana. To flute bananas, run the sharp tines of a fork lengthwise down the peeled fruit, then slice thin. Make up only the servings needed just before serving so the cake won't get soggy. Just dipping the banana slices in the orange juice gives unusually good flavor.

Washington Notes . . .

—By Lillian Porter Say

WASHINGTON, May 3 (Special) — When she packed her bag to come along to Washington with her delegate husband for the 45th annual meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce, she guessed exactly right. That's if she were from Oregon. A tropically humid opening day of the meeting brought forth her spring print. Cool, invigorating breezes during following sessions gave her opportunity to wear one of those basic suits so typically western. She attended a style show in the handsome ballroom of the Sheraton-Park Hotel and heard fashion advice that she already knew. "Be yourself in your dress," said Jessica Daves, editor in chief of Vogue magazine. "Individualism in dress is the American way of life."

Miss Daves illustrated her point by the story of two women who bought identical brown tweed suits. One, related Miss Daves, bought a size that was just a little too large. She wore it without alterations and added a shapeless sweater and scuffed shoes. She appeared undistinguished. The other suit wearer had it tailored, wore a crisp white blouse with it, white gloves, polished brown shoes and a matching bag. She looked smartly individual.

Wife of the National Chamber of Commerce's new president, Mrs. Philip M. Talbot, confessed that style gives her uncertain twinges—even though her husband is senior vice president of Woodward & Lothrop, which for over half a century has been setting the pace for Washington women in everything from household furnishings to hats. Mrs. Talbot selected a gay confection of navy blue enlivened with red berries. As Lillian McCaslin, wife of Frank E. McCaslin of Portland (her husband is a retiring director of the United States Chamber) went down the receiving line Mrs. Talbot said: "I'm not sure that my husband likes this hat."

Quickly responded Lillian: "I'll be sure to tell him how becoming it is!"

Manager of the Salem Chamber of Commerce, Stanley Grove and Mrs. Grove were among those attending the United States Chamber of Commerce sessions. From the Pacific Coast the couple traveled to Toledo, Ohio, where they visited Gladys Grove's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Schuster. From thence the four motored to New York. Here they saw "No Time for Sergeants" and the exciting new cinerama, "Around the World in Eighty Days." Following close of United States Chamber of Commerce annual meeting in Washington, the four visited historic-Williamsburg, Virginia, and took a quick look at America's 350th birthday celebration at nearby Jamestown.

En route home the Groves will see Gladys' brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kimmy of Waverly, Ohio. The only member of the family in five generations to leave Ohio, Mr. Grove has three sisters in Columbus. In connection with Salem Chamber of Commerce interests, he is calling on manufacturing firms in a number of other Eastern cities.

Literally notes of spring were the 16 girl members of the Little who were guests of Senators Wayne Morse and Richard Neuberger; and Congressman Al Ullman of Baker, Charles O. Porter of Eugene, and Walter Norblad of Stayton at a luncheon in the Capitol. Hostess was Congresswoman Edith Green, who has just returned from an Oregon visit. Each young lady performer brightened the halls of the Capitol in an aqua nylon frock bought specially for the occasion and the group was introduced from the Senate floor by Senator Neuberger.

Under direction of Boris Sirpo, the Little Chamber Orchestra played, before a distinguished Washington group in the Thomas Jefferson auditorium. Following a day of rest in the Capitol, they look off for scheduled concerts in Europe.

Each young woman in this remarkable group is an ambassador of good will. Far more than their excellent music director Boris Sirpo values the "face of future America" they present to countries—a wholesome face seldom seen in the average movie displayed abroad. This he is enlarging upon in his forthcoming book, "My Life in America."

Besides her musical instrument, each girl carries 25 pounds of luggage. This includes a smart sweat-suit for traveling, a pink nylon formal evening gown; and a cool dress or two for Morocco which they will visit for the first time on this tour.

Where will they put all the little souvenirs travelers young and old are bound to collect?

"I guess," said one seriously, "in our hearts."

Head Group—Installed recently as royal matron and royal patron of Hanna Rosa Court, Order of the Amaranth, were Mrs. Lyle Sacer, left above, and Truman Cummings.

Mr. Mrs. Peterson Feted by OES Group

WOODBURN (Special)—Annual past matrons dinner this week at the Masonic Temple honored Mr. and Mrs. Leif Peterson, junior past matron and junior past patron of Evergreen Chapter No. 41, Order of the Eastern Star. Mrs. Harry VanArsdale and Mrs. Gail Wengert were in charge of arrangements for the dinner.

Covers were placed for Mr. and Mrs. Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Dixon, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur M. But, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Seely, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. W. P.
