Spilyay Tymoo

(The way it is)

SUMMER TIME, WHEN THE living is easy, as the words go in the song known through-out the world. "Well" the summer days are just about gone as autumn approaches and school will be starting up again. In trying to recap all the events for the summer it is very hard as the time seems to have just flown by.

As far as the activities that took place this year were full of excitement. Starting out as school let out in June there were a lot of Indian Pow-Wows throughout the northwest Indian rodeos and other events of interest to the reservation.

Members of the Spilyay staff covered many of the events through out the summer. Starting with the all Indain rodeo at Tygh Valley, the Delta Park pow-wow in Portland, the White Swan all Indian rodeo, the Pi-ume-sha pow-wow and rodeo here at Warm Springs, the 4th of July activities, the Crooked River Round-up, the Deschutes County Fair, the Jefferson County Fair, the annual Huckleberry feast, the Wasco County Fair, and all other functions which kept the gang on their toes all the time.

NOW THAT SCHOOL IS STARTING there will be local boys out for football and cross country running which will be of interest to many around here.

THIS YEARS LABOR DAY WEEK-END is full of all types of activities which will attract many locals. There is the State Fair in Salem, and there are variety of interesting things that can take up a whole day. There is so many interesting things to see there, the exhibits, the live intertainment, horse racing rodeo and all sorts of things through out the entire day.

THERE WILL BE MANY RACE HORSE OWNERS going to various race meets throughout the northwest. One of interest and that usually attracts many is the Eastern Washington State Fair, rodeo and race meet at Walla Walla, Wn. Another one of interest is the Baker County Fair on the eastern boundry of Oregon at a place called Halfway, Or., 50 miles east of Baker, Or., along the Snake River. This is a very small town but draws a large crowd from the surrounding area and Idaho. Congressman Al Ullman usually makes it a point to return to his home county fair and rodeo. The editor of Spilyay Tymoo had the opportunity to meet and shake the Congressman's hand for the first time after riding the winning horse in one of the stake races at that fair, rodeo and race meet in the past.

HUCKLEBERRY PICKING SHOULD be real good as there have been reports they should be ripe by now. It was reported that there were lots of berries that were just little green yet and should now be ready in the Mt. Adams area. The High Rock area should have a good crop also, and in other areas there have been no reports of now, but there should be plenty for everyone this year.

WHILE ON VACATION IN LONDON, ENGLAND, a tourist was waiting for the bus to tour the city. He had quite some time to spend while waiting for the bus to arrive, and with nothing of interest to do while waiting, decides to go the nearest bar. While in the bar he had too many drinks by the time the bus arrived. He finishes his last drink and boards the bus and tells the bus driver he wanted a good seat with a good view. The bus driver tells him that there are good seats on the upper deck and that he should ride up there. The tourist takes his advice and goes to the upper deck. After a few blocks and a few turns the tourist comes back down and say's to the driver. "That sure was a good seat, but I was scared half to death. The driver asks him why? The tourist said, "there is no driver up there."

Extension Notes

How long should fresh meats be stored?

"How long can fresh meat be stored in the refrigerator before use?"

In general large cuts of meat may be kept longer than smaller cuts, says Susan Gangler, Warm Springs Extension Agent.

A major factor is the proportion of cut surface to the total piece of meat. Ground meats, for instance, should be used within two days of purchase, while roasts, such as chuck, loin and rib, could be stored for five to eight days. Chops should be used in three to four days.

Meat should be stored in the refrigerator, at the lowest possible temperature without actually freezing the meat. If you can't use the above cuts in the recommended time, then freeze them for later use.

The transparent wrap on pre-packaged meat is designed for refrigerator storage both in the store and at home. Fresh meats which are wrapped in white or peach colored market paper should be unwrapped, then rewrapped loosely in waxed paper or foil for refrigerator storage. If you plan to store meat in the freezer longer than one to two weeks, use regular freezer wrapping paper or heavy duty foil for freezer storage.

Cured meats, such as franks, luncheon meats and bacon, are kept best refrigerated in the package in which they're purchased, both before and after opening. Packages that don't have a reclosable feature should be overwrapped before returning to the refrigerator or slipped into a plastic bag. They'll keep seven to ten days.

Oliver Kirk

OLIVER KIRK DISPLAYS TALENT AT the Wasco Co. Fair held on the weekend of August 27, 28, and 29, 1976, at Tygh Valley, Ore. Winning a blue ribbon in the water color painting catagory, a red ribbon in the oil painting, and a third in the ink drawing.

Oliver (with natural talent) said that by practicing on his own, developed a style that is great in its own way. He drew and worked up this year's Pi-Ume-Sha Days poster. He said that he never studied art while in school, but with his ability, did letter heads and various art work for the Chemawa Indian School paper. However, he has had one semester of commercial art while attending Chemawa and working on the school paper.

When asked if he was available for special art work for posters and such, he said it would depend upon his time schedule. Someone might come and say, we want a poster in a day or two. This he would shy away from, but if he was given ample time to work things out he may reconsider the request.

Oliver is now employed at the local group home and coordinates activities for the youngsters that are housed there. He enjoys his job very much and said that he hopes he has helped the youngsters in one way or the other.

The Spilyay Tymoo is very fortunate to have had him draw the flag for the paper and speaking for the Spilyay Tymoo staff, "Thanks."

RON HUDSON, ASSISTANT C.E.T.A. director is back on the job after a short leave to have surgery done on his shoulder. A trick shoulder can be painful and be a real problem if not taken care of. He was admitted to St. Charles Hopsital in Bend, Or., on Aug. 8th, and had the surgery on the 9th and he was home on the 10th. Hudson claims the title of a fullfledged cowboy as he was trying to rope a steer just prior to his accident. This was not in any rodeo but at their own corral working their stock. Hopefully this will correct his problems, he said.
