

Local Boy on TV

If you're planning to watch the Seattle-Atlanta NFL game on TV Sunday, November 7, don't leave your set at half-time. A local boy, Jason Smith, will be competing in the televised Punt, Pass, and Kick contest that afternoon. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley "Buck" Smith.

Jason (age 9) and his brother Troy (11) both took first place in their group at the local Punt, Pass, and Kick contest in Madras which was sponsored by Miller Ford. The boys each won a trophy and a jacket. From there, the two went to the zone championships at The Dalles where they again each won first in their group and a trophy.

October 2nd, Jason and Troy competed in the District championships at the Kingdome in Seattle and Jason came away with a first. Competitors at the District competition included youngsters from Alaska, Washington, Idaho and Oregon.

Each of the boys who won on the District level were awarded a football uniform of the pro team of their choice for the November 7 Area competition. Jason's favorite team is the Dallas Cowboys, so he was measured and a uniform has been specially made up for him.

Jason, in his Dallas Cowboy uniform, will go on to the Area championships in Seattle at the Seattle vs. Atlanta game in the Kingdome on Nov. 7. The televised competition will feature one event before the game and two events during halftime.

If Jason wins first place in his age group at Seattle, he and the other winners will compete in the Divisional competition on Saturday, December 11, at Houston during the Pittsburg-Houston game. The winners will then go from there to the national finals of PP&K during the Super Bowl game.

Now in its 16th year, the Ford sponsored PP&K program was started with the purpose of "encouraging worthwhile activity, to help build character among youngsters, and to stimulate interest in athletics, especially football."

Spillyay Tymoo wishes Jason the best of luck.
