Job Announcement

Tribal Administrative Director Yakima Indian Nation

The Tribal Council of the Yakima Indian Nation is looking for an exceptionally qualified individual to serve as a Tribal Administrative Director. Appointment to the position will be made by the Tribal Council.

The Administrative Director will coordinate the activities of the Tribal Council and its eight standing committees and will be responsible for administering the six-hundred-employee tribal organization.

The Administrative Director develops and administers the annual tribal budget complete with performance review; interprets and applies the financial and personnel policies and procedures across all tribal programs and recommends additional policy initiatives for consideration by tribal council and the standing committees.

Applicants should have a minimum of a bachelor's degree in business administration, public administration or a related field. Favorable consideration will be given to applicants having management experience with federal, state, local or tribal governments or business organizations.

Applicants must have had experience in organization development, team building, and financial management. Candidates will be rated on a point system according to their qualifications. Preference points will be added for qualified Indian applicants. Applications must be postmarked on or before 12:00 midnight April 7, 1978.

All interested applicants will receive a job description upon receipt of resume and salary history submitted to Joe Sampson, Secretary, Yakima Tribal Council, Box 151, Toppenish, Washington 98948. Label envelope "Confidential, Administrative Director applicant."
