Cards To Depict Old Ways

Life as it was 100 or more years ago will be depicted on new 5"x7" postcards to be sold by the Tribes in early March. The Confederated Tribes hired McGrew Color Graphics Company of Kansas City, Missouri to make the postcards as well as placemats, slides and accordion postcard folders.

Staff photographers have been in Warm Springs for a week, snapping pictures left and right of Tribal members wearing traditional dress. Faye Waheneka, manager of the Information Center, was instrumental in finding different people willing to be photographed for the new promotional materials.

Waheneka stated that she listed new postcards and other materials in her 1979 goals and objectives. "When the General Manager saw that I anticipated completion by July 1979, he urged me to have the project done by March. We chose the historical approach to depict Warm Springs rather than modern-day because that's what people like to see and buy," she added.

The new postcards and accessories will be for sale exclusively in the Gift Shops at Kah-Nee-Ta and the Information Center. So keep an eye open for those familiar and smiling faces next spring.

It's Time

If you don't want to be an hour early to work Monday, October 30, you had better not forget to turn your clocks back on Sunday the 29th. We go off Daylight Savings Time Sunday at midnight on the 29th, and gain back that hour we lost this summer.

If your clock says 2 a.m., just turn it back to 1 a.m. and enjoy the extra hour of sleep you're going to get.

Halloween Time Again

Halloween will be observed Tuesday, October 31 in Warm Springs. Trick or Treating will be from 5:00 to 7:00 p.m.

Other evening activities will be held at the Community Center which include a carnival, haunted house, movies and contests. Any fund-raising groups are welcome to set up booths and should contact the Community Center for more information. All of the activities at the Community Center will be from 6:30 to 8:00 p.m.

Three Awarded For Performance At I.H.S.

Not many Indian Health Service Clinics can boast of three employees winning special service awards in one year. But the Warm Springs clinic has just that to its credit, as three women were recently commended for their superior performance.

I.H.S. staff members Madeline McInturff, Delphine Wood, and Mary Neilson all received $500 awards from the Department of Health and Welfare for "service which merits special honor."

The awards are not regular competitive events, but are special recognition offered on an individual basis at the discretion of the clinic director. Approval comes from the Area Director.

Wood, a Licensed Practical Nurse, and McInturff, a Nursing

Assistant, were cited for their efforts during the three-month absence of the Chief Clinical Nurse earlier this year. Neilson, Administrative Assistant for the clinic, was commended for sustained job performance.

McInturff doesn't like to admit it, but she has been with the clinic for 29 years - longer than any other employee. Both her normal duties and the added nursing services have been carried out in a "superior fashion," according to the supporting statement, which went on to say that her "ability and responsible attitude contribute to the overall effectiveness of the Service Unit clinical operation." This was McInturff's second such award.

Wood had practiced nursing at the clinic for only a year when the additional responsibilities were placed on her shoulders. In fulfilling the role of the clinical nurse she "assumed all those activities within her experience and scope of knowledge that she was capable of doing" thus "assuring uninterrupted nursing care for all patients seeking service."

"Delphine and Madeline extended themselves and got us over the hump," said Health Educator Lee Loomis. Efforts to find a back-up clinical nurse had failed except for a two-week period in June when two nurses from Chemawa filled in.

Neilson has performed administrative duties at the clinic for eleven years. It is her job to oversee the contract health service program, to fill in as Acting Service Unit Director in Garret Soules' absence, to maintain accounting records, and to supervise the six employees in the administrative department.

Neilson was cited for making "effective use of third party resources in payment of medical bills" resulting in considerable savings to the Indian Health Service.

It was also noted that in her personnel supervisory role Neilson has been a contributing factor in the low turnover rate and the staff's ability to cope with ever-increasing workloads.

HEALTHY, WEALTHY, AND WISE - Three Indian Health Service staff persons were honored recently for their superior performance at the Warm Springs Clinic. The three who received $500 awards are: Madeline McInturff - Nursing Assistant; Mary Neilson - Administrative Assistant; and Delphine Wood - Licensed Practical Nurse.
