Letters to the Editor

To the editor,
I am writing to local arts organizations to ask that you act as a liaison in contacting artists in your area concerning the 1979 All Oregon Arts Exhibition at the Oregon State Fair. There are several beneficial changes in the exhibition this year, and I would like to share this information with you.

We will be awarding $4,500 in prize money. The Oregon Arts Commission is funding a major part of this sum. In addition, the selection committee for the 1% for the Arts Program will view works for possible purchase and the Governor's Committee for Art in Ceremonial Offices will view the work.

The jurors for the exhibition are Jerry Allen, Visual Arts Coordinator for King County Arts Commission; Marian Bowman, Professor of Art at Oregon State University; and Douglas Campbell Smith, Professor of Art at Central Oregon Community College. All of the jurors are professional artists, in addition to their teaching or administrative role.

Many artists throughout the state are not aware of the exhibition. It provides an excellent opportunity for artists to exhibit. You can inform them through your newsletters and meetings. A Prospectus will be mailed to your organization. Additional copies may be obtained by writing to:

Thanks for love and concern

To the people:
Our family would like to take this opportunity to express our appreciation for everything you have done for us during our time of sorrow.

So many people have been so kind to us in sending food, flowers and money. We got cards from people everywhere. Some people even stayed with us, many helped at the longhouse.

We want to thank everyone for your expression of love and concern.

People's Opinion

Question: "What Kind of Housing would you like to see on the reservation?"

Danny Martinez: "I would like to see more apartments and more homes with the option to buy. There are a lot of young couples who can't afford a down payment on a home."
MayAnn Gabriel: "I would like to see larger homes built with the option to buy and also not so close together."

Antoinette Wolfe: "I would like to see more homes made available in the rural areas.

There are a lot of people that would like to move out of the community to their own land.
Frances Allen: "I would like to see more shome sout in the country away from this area. I would also like to see summer homes."

Pam Keo: "There should be more apartments available and more lease options to buy."

Margie Earl: "No HUD Housing. I think apartments would be good for the younger single kids and the lease option for the married kids. Private homes would be good for the older people. HUD housing is not beneficial for anyone."

Orthelia Miller: "Apartment complexes for the single and young married couples. Reasonable rental rates. I'd go along with lease option to buy with a lot of space for people to develop their own areas, houses not so close together."

Louise Jackson: "More rural area homes. We had no choice but to live here at the Agency area."

Edith Danzuka: "I would like to see more people live out in the country. Maybe it's just because I do. I also would like to see more private homes."

Housing: What's wanted ?

The Confederated Tribes are presently in the process of conducting a housing survey of tribal member heads-of-household both on and off the reservation who do not have individual housing accommodations. The Tribe is looking for answers to the question of housing needs for current and future planning purposes.

And, although the housing gap has been narrowed in the past three years, there is still a waiting list of about 135 that needs to be reduced. One of the goals of the survey is to contact at least 80 percent of those who need housing.

Throughout the summer four interviewers, Neda Greene, Naomi Winishut, Cy Katchia and Delphine Scott, will be contacting those in the 19-25 year-old age group. The survey has identified 183 individuals in this age bracket who are living on the reservation. The interviewers will set up appointments to talk with each of these people. Questionnaires will be mailed out with a self-addressed, stamped envelope to those in this age group living off the reservation.

According to the survey's calendar timeline, the 26-39 year-olds will be contacted and interviewed in August, the 40-64 year age group in October, 18-and-under in November, and the 64-and-over group will be questioned in December.

Tribal program planner and survey spokesman Mike Clements said that they hope to have the survey completed by this December. "By the end of the year we should have some good information and a sense of direction," he said.

"So far, tribal members have not been reluctant to share information with the interviewers," Clements reported. He said that it takes about 30 minutes to answer the ten short questions.

The questions being posed to the people identified in the survey who are now living on the reservation are as follows:

1. Do you desire housing of your own?
2. What type? Explain.

3. Do you have a place to build?
4. How many people are you responsible for? List family members.
5. Who in your family is employed?
6. Our estimated income is $ _____
7. We could pay $ _____ per month for housing?
8. Are you a veteran?
9. Do you have a handicap? Explain.
10. What kind of housing do you think would help our community and people?

Those now living off the reservation are being asking similar questions and also whether or not they plan to return to the reservation, if lack of housing is keeping them from returning, and whether or not they have a place to build if they return. They are also being asked if their employment is keeping them from returning.

Some of the interesting findings of the survey reveal that there are 619 heads-of-household living on the reservation with 355 of those being male and 264 female. The total estimated list was 1016 with the largest group being age 26-39. In that age group there are 218 living on and 184 living off the reservation for a total of 402 in that age group alone.

Overall, family sizes range from one to eleven. In the 18-and-under group family size ranges from one to three per family with 13 families living on and nine off. The 19-25 age group has family sizes of between one and four.

The age group 26-39 is the largest with 402 estimated, 218 living on and 184 living off. Family size ranges from between one and nine per family. In the 40-64 age bracket family size is from between one and eleven. This appears to be one of the most needy groups as far as housing goes because of family size, although most are permanently settled.

It is hoped that by the end of the year the information gathered from the questionnaires will aid the Tribes in identifying what kind of housing the membership wants and where the homes should be located. Much will depend upon the kind of cooperation the interviewers receive.
