ALL FOR A WHITE-FACED COLT — Good communication was the key to the intensive ground and air round-up that removed uncontrollable horses from the Mutton Mountain area on the reservation. When things are going well, pilot Ross Zeller picks out a herd (above) and coordinates with riders on the ground to maneuver them toward the wing line and into the camouflaged trap corral (top). Jay Suppah secured the gate before breaking for lunch (above right) and white-faced colt pondered his future—to the rodeo or slaughterhouse?

Masami wins Sho-Ban title again

Seven year-old dancing champ Masami Danzuka was crowned the Future Little Princess at the Shoshone-Bannock Festival this week.

Masami, the daughter of George and Tootsie Danzuka, competed against about 25 other girls for the title. It was her second year in a row to win the crown. Masami was judged on dancing ability, appearance and poise.
