WSIRA Standings

The Western States Indian Rodeo Association will soon be closing another successful season. The next WSIRA sanctioned rodeo will take place in Wellpinit, Washington August 25-26 and the final rodeo will be at Schurz, Nevada on September 15-16. Both rodeos will feature the regular standard events and for added color other events may be scheduled.

This has been a busy season for the WSIRA membership and the competition was tough right from the start. This is what makes the rodeo sport on of the most competitive throughout the country.

Rodeo stock play an important role in this sport also. It is the stock that can make or break a fine rodeo. This year the stock contractors provided fine rough stock as well as the stock for the timed events. Each cowboy would like to draw good stock at each rodeo so as he can show his ability to work the events of his choice.

The National Finals are nearing and all the top cowboys in each event would like to earn a trip there for a piece of the championship.

The following are the standings as of August 11-12, the rodeo held here in Warm Springs.

Classic ride-Duwayne Best, of the Colville Indian Reservation, rode his horse to the whistle but didn't score high enough to place. The action took place at the He-He All-Indian Rodeo held August 10-12

Locals have bad luck at HeHe

At the WSIRA sanctioned He-He Indian Rodeo August 10-12, local cowboys and cowgirls found their scores and times not quite high enough to send them to the pay window.

In a field of 19 bronc riders, Terry Squimphen scored a 64 to take second place and $336.71. The second place win moved Terry up to sixth place in the WSIRA standings.

Leland Tom took fourth place in the bareback bronc riding with a score of 64. Leland left the pay window with $100.64.

With 31 bull riders vying for the purse, Larry Squimphen scored a 64 to split fifth and sixth place four ways. Larry set the pace for the bull riding, making the first qualified ride at Saturday's performance.
